DEATH CALL COMES TO SAMUEL REES, SR.

Pioneer Printer of Nebraska Dies of Heart Disease While Seated in Chair Reading at His Home.

Samuel Rees, sr., one of the pioneer printers of Nebraska, died at his home on South Twenty-second street, from heart disease Saturday afternoon. He was 74 years old and had been a resident of Omaha since 1870.

Mr. Rees had been in his usual health and active. Friday afternoon he played golf at Happy Hollow and was a guest at dinner at his son's home in the evening. Saturday morning he was at his office at the Rees Printing company's plant, returning home to lunch. After lunch he sat down to read and was so engaged when death overtook him.

Worked With Mark Twain. Samuel Rees was born in Cincinnati, O., on May 15, 1843, and there went to school until old enough to be apprenticed to the printing trade. As a journeyman printer he made the "circuit," working in many establishments along the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, and going as far north as Duluth, when that place was but a pioneer settlement. He was one of the printers employed at Keokuk when Mark Twain set type there, and well recalled incidents that led up to the latter's giving up the printing trade to go on the river as a pilot.

In 1870 Mr. Rees came to Omaha from Chicago, to become foreman of the Omaha Republican, then published by Casper E. Yost. Ten years later he established the Rees Printing company, which occupied his time to the end. This he built up from a small one-man plant to one of the really big printing establishments of the west. His brother, Thomas Rees, of the Illinois State Register, published at Springfield, Ill., often visited him in Omaha.

Mr. Rees is survived by his son, Samuel Rees, jr., manager of the Rees printing plant, and his daughter, Miss Henrietta M. Rees, one of Omaha's well known musicians, and musical editor of The Bee. Miss Jennie McKoon, sister of the late Mrs. Rees, has long made her home with the family. Mrs. Rees died early in the current year, after a long illness. Four brothers and two sisters also survive Mr. Rees. They are William and Robert, who make their homes at Keokuk; Victor of Collinsville, Okl.; Joseph of Memphis, Mo.; Mrs. Carrie Day of Lincoln and Mrs. Fannie Rees Beers of San Diego, Cal.

It is planned to hold the funeral on Tuesday, but full arrangements have not yet been made.

Schools and Colleges

Keary State Normal News Notes. Miss Grace Seydell spent the week-end at Palsade.
The "new" iris of Green Terrace Hall were entertained informally on Thursday evening of last week by Mrs. Brindley and the girls who were there last year. Various games were played after which hot chocolate and sandwiches were served. Music and "ritzen" came. Mrs. Brindley brought this delightful get-acquainted party to a close.

Every girl must be able to think on her feet," said Miss Nellie Hoehner at the first meeting of the Apasian Literary society which was held Friday night. Questions of national importance are to be debated this year and it is hoped that every girl will be able to express her ideas without a flaw.

NAME COMMITTEE TO AID YOUNG GIRLS

Sixty Persons Attend Meeting at City Hall to Safeguard Wayward Youth; Mrs. Ohaus Chairman.

A movement to safeguard the morals and welfare of the young girls of Omaha was definitely launched at a meeting held in the juvenile court rooms in the city hall last night. Interest and enthusiasm marked the meeting, which was attended by more than fifty women and ten men.

A committee of three women and two men was appointed by Dr. Jennie Calfas, chairman of the meeting, to draw up a plan for the formation of a permanent organization and to consider the ways by which delinquent girls and boys may best be assisted.

It was admitted that permanent improvement can come only through the home and that the parents of delinquent children should be made to see the necessity of giving those children better care and supervision.
