

I. W. W. LEADERS URGED MEMBERS TO REVOLUTION

Haywood and Others Charged With Publishing Seditious Articles in "Solidarity;" Evidence Made Public.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Haywood and others, arrested under the Industrial Workers of the World indictments, issued here last Friday, are held liable for publication in the newspaper Solidarity last August of the following:

"The Industrial Workers of the World is more than a labor organization. It is a revolutionary union. We are absolutely and irrevocably dissatisfied with the present system of society. We consider it a useless system and we mean to destroy it. Red card men are shrewd, determined, valorous and loyal to the cause they love. There would not be soldiers enough in the country to round them up for arrest nor jails enough to hold them.

"The Industrial Workers of the World is so deeply rooted in America and the world that it can afford to take the chances of an open war with a whole lot better than the powers that oppose it. Our system of job agitation is such that no power on earth can keep the union from spreading its influence. We have shown the world how to go to jail in huge numbers, exasperate the taxpayers and block the machinery of justice."

"The Industrial Worker of the World is fighting for himself. Self-preservation, like the copper trust, knows no law."

Opposed Conscription.
Another issue of the paper, August 25, read:
"The refusal of American workers to volunteer and their determined opposition to being drafted into the army demonstrates clearly that war is being recognized by the slave class as a cause of class hatred."

Other issues of the paper read:
"It is needless to say the Industrial Workers of the World are unalterably opposed to conscription. We consider the bombastic and far-fetched talk about freedom and democracy simply so much bunk. The only place we have anything to gain or defend is on the job."

Search Cantonnments.
Search for alleged Industrial Workers of the World leaders named in indictments returned here last Friday was made today in various army cantonnments, where, it is learned, a number of the men sought are in national service. A careful check of all the registered men is now being made by federal authorities, who assert it will only be a matter of a short time until all of the 166 indicted men are under arrest.

Make Public Some Evidence.
Officials here attach significance to the presence of the indicted men in the cantonnments, all of whom are said to have gone into service without claiming exemption. One of the charges made in the indictment is "the discovery of certain efforts of the Industrial Workers of the World to create among the registered men a feeling of disloyalty and insubordination."

Some of the evidence used by the federal grand jury in obtaining true bills given out by the federal authorities show that it was contained in letters and pamphlets, thousands of which were distributed over the country.

A letter from James Rowan, sent from Seattle, Wash., under date of August 2, to William Haywood, says: "We have the good will of the German people here and we feel that they are in sympathy with our cause. We do not call them Germans, however, but refer to them the same as others, the fellow workers."

"We are going to carry our points if we have to stop every industry on the Pacific coast. We did not declare war and we have not consented to the workingman giving up his liberty and being drafted."

Another Probe in October.
The October grand jury, sworn in today in the United States district court, is expected to continue the inquiry begun by the September grand jury into anti-war demonstrations, seditious and treasonable words and deeds and opposition to the selective army draft.
All inquiries held over by the September grand jury, which returned 166 indictments against members of the Industrial Workers of the World, are expected to be taken up by the new grand jury.

Germany Thrust Hurdled Back.

(By Associated Press.)
British Headquarters in France and Belgium, Monday, Oct. 1.—Once more the Germans have essayed, in a series of counter-attacks, to break the new British lines between Polygon wood and Tower Hamlets, across the open road to the south. Again they have been hurled back with heavy losses.
The principal result of three bitter attacks by the enemy between dawn and mid-afternoon has been the merciless shattering of his ranks and a still further advance over the front south of Polygon wood by the British, who pushed their line forward some hundred yards in depth behind the fleeing Germans.

The first assault was delivered at 6:15 o'clock this morning. The enemy advanced in three waves toward the British, but immediately met with such a fierce fire of rifles and artillery that he was compelled to retire. It was apparent, however, that the Germans were not through with the attempt, and the big British guns turned loose such an avalanche of shells as is seldom seen along the front.

This is the first dispatch regarding the military situation on the British front to be received from the Associated Press correspondent at British headquarters since last Friday, when notice was given that the sending of press dispatches from the field had

Little Tot Wants to Go With Her Daddy Who Refuses Exemption

"See goin' to get a cap and gun and go wif my daddy," said little Elaine Robertson, when told that her father was going to Camp Funston with the national army. Smilingly the little girl tells about what a fine big man her father is, how brave and what a fine soldier he is going to be.

H. C. Robertson, a prominent Omaha lawyer, living at 4020 North Thirty-fourth street, modestly lays no claim for honor to his actions. "Was it not brave of my wife to let me go?" questioned Robertson.

He was exempted for dependents, but after talking the matter over with his wife decided that it was his duty to join the colors. He returned and withdrew his exemption claims. His patriotic act was largely responsible for his appointment as captain of the contingent on the way to Fort Riley.

"I have always wanted to join the army and serve in this war because I believe the cause is a just one," he said. "Someone has to fight and I may as well do my share as anyone else."

Mrs. Robertson secured employment in the Union Pacific offices upon deciding that her husband was to join the army. "It is going to be lonesome, but Elaine and I will have to try and be as brave as he is in going," said Mrs. Robertson. "I am proud of him for his patriotism and believe that it is better to go now than to wait a few months for another call. He is interested in army life and I expect to see him secure a commission soon."

Mrs. Robertson was formerly Miss Ruth Willard, daughter of Mrs. Frank Willard, 2949 Pacific street. She is already seated at a desk in the Union Pacific headquarters earning a livelihood for herself and little daughter.

For the past eight years Mr. Robertson has been practicing law in the quarters had been stopped temporarily.

British Capture 4,000.

London, Oct. 2.—Nearly 4,000 prisoners were taken by the British army in Mesopotamia, which captured Ramadie, it is announced officially.

Great as was the Italian victory on the plateau, the battle there is by no means finished, according to today's dispatches. Only the first phase of the campaign is past and the Italian troops are now preparing for a resumption of the action on a greater scale. The Austrians, aware of the Italian purpose, are making ready a strong defensive.

Emperor Offers Encouragement.
From Austrian sources the Italians have learned that the recent visit to the battlefields of Emperor Charles was planned to encourage the Austrian defensive by his personal appearance. Further evidence of the Austrian preparations is found in the withdrawal of nearly all Austrian troops from Galicia and Bukovina, where they had been holding in check the Serbians and Russians, and their transfer to the Italian front. Similarly large numbers of Austrian troops have also been recalled from France.

$50,000,000 in Opening Drive On Liberty Loan

Although reports from all large cities make it appear that the public welcomes the opportunity to assist the government in the present emergency, officials recognize that only a sustained, intensive drive can make the campaign a success.
It has been estimated that the volume of subscriptions must approximate $125,000,000 a day in order to attain the minimum figure of $3,000,000,000.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 2.—Announcement of a subscription of $5,000,000 to the second Liberty loan bond issue by the Southern Pacific company was made here last night by William Sproule, president of the company. It was announced that the company, upon the request of employees, would subscribe for any amount of bonds, not exceeding 25 percent of the applicants' yearly salaries, advance the subscription price and permit the employees to repay it in monthly installments covering a period of two years.

San Francisco's second Liberty bond campaign was inaugurated here yesterday at a luncheon, at which subscriptions totaling $3,075,000 were announced. The Alaska Packing company subscribed $2,500,000.

Swift Gives Million and Half.
Chicago, Oct. 2.—The machinery through which Chicago is being solicited for subscriptions to the second Liberty loan was set in motion again today, following a meeting of the flying squadron of 500 salesmen at a downtown hotel.
Tonight added impetus will be given to subscriptions when Secretary W. G. McArdoo speaks at a patriotic rally at which the purposes of the loan will be explained.

Satisfaction was expressed today at the results obtained thus far. The subscription of $1,500,000 by Swift & Co. was the largest of the first day.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Senate consideration of the conference report on the war tax bill began today, with its adoption expected before tomorrow night. It was approved by the house late yesterday without a roll call and with practically no opposition.

Although a fight on certain features of the report is promised by Senator Smoot and others, the leaders are confident of its adoption in the form in which it came from the house.

BRITISH LEARN TO ACCEPT ATTACK

Frequency of German Air Raids Brings Dwellers to Point Where They Accept Invasion as Part of War.

their sirens and displaying an illuminated notice, "Take Cover," and other measures were put into execution to inform the populace.

Many of the theaters are continuing their performances notwithstanding the raids. At the conclusion of the performance in one of the leading London theaters tonight the manager came to the stage and invited the audience and stage hands to vote on the question of continuing the night performances. All voted in favor of carrying them on as usual.

Starts at 7 o'Clock.

Field Marshal Lord French, commander-in-chief of the home forces, issued the following report dealing with tonight's raid:

"A group of hostile airplanes crossed the Essex coast at 7 o'clock this evening and proceeded across Essex toward London.

"This group of machines was followed at about a quarter of an hour's interval by a second group which pursued the same course.

"The first attack on London was delivered from the northeast about 7:45 p. m. Most of the raiders were turned back, but one or more of the machines penetrated the defenses and dropped bombs in the southwestern district.

Second Groups Get Busy.

"About 8:15 p. m. the second group of raiders attempted to cross the defenses at various points in northeast and north London, but without success until shortly after 9 o'clock, when a few of the machines were again across London and bombs were again dropped in the southwestern district.

"Meanwhile a third group of raiders crossed the Essex coast at 8:50 p. m. and proceeded toward London, which was approached shortly before 10 o'clock. They did not penetrate farther than the eastern outskirts of London, where some bombs are reported to have been dropped.

"No reports of casualties or damage have yet been received."

Great Pyrotechnic Display.

While a terrific barrage was kept up with bursting shrapnel furnishing one of the greatest pyrotechnical displays London ever saw, a thrilling battle in the air took place between enemy aircraft and British aviators in the northern district, according to special constables, who said they witnessed it by means of powerful binoculars. Although the machines were thousands of feet in the air, the fire of the machine guns could be heard below. When the echoes of this fight died away the anti-aircraft gun fire in the city ceased, but it could be heard in the distance, indicating that the enemy was being driven off under a heavy bombardment.

According to a report from an Essex district a heavy mist which came up while the raid was in progress caused one raider to lose his way while going back to the coast. The German flew very low and could be seen and appeared to be enveloped in a ring of bursting shells. Seemingly trapped, the airman began a series of dips and other hair raising stunts. He succeeded in breaking through the shell fire and made for the sea, pursued by a streak of gun fire.

As soon as the signal was given in London that all was clear, the streets, tubes, restaurants and hotels resembled New York on election night. Great crowds were laughing and joking and many were singing. Others were searching in the bright moonlight for fragments of shrapnel for souvenirs.

Anti-Aircraft Succeeds.

Although details were slow in coming in, it was apparent that the barrage of the anti-aircraft guns made it so hot for the raiders that they dropped bombs in open places, their one concern being to unload and get away.

The growing confidence of Londoners in the ability of the anti-aircraft guns to keep the raiders at bay, was shown by the fearlessness and good behavior of the crowds. The tactics of the Germans are so well known that they cause spirited betting among sportsmen as to the time of probable raid.

It is pointed out in this connection that the Germans work like automata and are not yet able to deceive anybody, but themselves.

"Bomb Germany Now."

Early editions of the morning newspapers, which were sought eagerly by the crowd which had remained up late, point to the feebleness of the German boast to "burn up London." They also call attention to Germany's lying claims, regarding "bombs dropped on military buildings in London and numerous accounts of the thrills given in London in the last week and comment on the fine behavior of the populace.
