Aged Woman Says Uses Whisky as Heart Stimulant

A large quantity of intoxicating liquor was found hidden in the home of Joe Bolker, 1023 South Twenty-first street, by Sergeant Madison and Officers Cunningham and Damato last night. Bolker was caught selling a pint of the whisky for $2. In searching the house, the officers discovered sixteen dozen pints of liquor concealed in the corner of a clothes closet. Further investigation of the place revealed two gallon of wine and five empty whisky kegs in the basement. Mr. and Mrs. Bolker were arrested and the liquor confiscated. At the police station, Mrs. Bolker, an aged woman, told the police that she used the liquor as a heart stimulant. Mr. Bolker is proprietor of the Eagle hotel at 607 South Thirteenth street. Both were later released on bonds put up by their son.

Two suit cases, containing fifty-six pints of whisky, were confiscated by Officers Anderson and Buell and Al Gray, was arrested last night as he was seen attempting to take the liquor into the home of his mother-in-law at 308 South Tenth street.

Dentists of Nebraska Do Free Work For Drafted Men

Sammies at the various training camps can rest no alibi for tooth-ache or inability to masticate the hardy rations which Uncle Sam provides for his national army. The dentists of Nebraska have volunteered their services free in fixing up the teeth of all drafted men before they leave for the training camps. Owing to the great demands which this will entail on members of the dental profession, only the most urgent work will be taken care of.

The dental profession in Nebraska is asked to get in touch with their local draft boards and secure the names of drafted men and as far as possible care for the most urgent work.

S. A. Allen, general director for the Nebraska Board of Dental Secretaries, has issued this announcement at the instigation of the surgeon general of the United States.

BROGAN SUBMITS BOND RESOLUTION

School Board Undetermined Whether to Submit Entire $2,000,000 Issue or Divide It.

Chairman Francis A. Brogan of the judiciary committee of the Board of Education, last night submitted a resolution covering the proposed $2,000,000 bond proposition and recommended that the matter go over two weeks before taking final action.

"My thought is that it would be well to have public discussion as to whether it would be wise to submit the full amount to the voters on November 20, or to divide the proposition, voting on half this fall and half at a later date," said Mr. Brogan. Details as to rate of interest, denominations of bonds and date of maturity will be considered by the board at the next meeting.

"I will not be able to attend the next meeting, so I will state now that my belief is that the bonds should be for thirty years and the denomination $1,000," stated President Ernst. "I am confident that straight thirty-year school district bonds will find a ready market. We will not need the money for six to nine months and I am hoping that by that time the war situation will have been cleared."

The board accepted the resignation of Pearl A. Menick of Central High school. Chester Wardwell was elected to position as teacher of physics at Central High school.

Children living beyond walking distance from Beals school will be transported in a carryall.

WOMEN WANT TO NAME VIGILANTS

Dr. Jennie Callias Battles for Exclusive Rights of Appointment for Juvenile Protective League and Wins.

Shall the committee, known as the Juvenile Protective league, under the chairmanship of Dr. Jennie Callias be given the sole prerogative of appointing policewomen and taking care of the welfare of young girls of Omaha, or should other committees be formed to carry on this same line of work? This question was the beginning of a red hot debate at the first meeting of the year of the Woman's club Monday.

When the motion was made that another committee be formed, Mrs. William Berry, prominent club woman and president of the South Side Woman's Christian Temperance Union, rose to remonstrate. Mrs. Berry declared that in forming other committees the Woman's club would only defeat its object, as Dr. Callias' committee had consulted with Mayor Dahlman, city commissioners and Chief Dunn and had been given permission to have policewomen patrol the streets of Omaha, and now if other members of the club asked more favors they might not only lose the foothold they had already gained, but lose the opportunity of doing any good in that line in the future.

"Make Haste Slowly." Dr. Callias then addressed the chair to say appointments of policewomen would be given careful and thoughtful consideration; that she believed this was a grave question and that it was her intention to "make haste slowly." It seems that one fear of some of the other members of the club was that the policewomen chosen would not be trained and therefore not competent to conduct the work of safeguarding the morals of young girls. Dr. Callias answered this objection by saying that the committee she had appointed had been told not to report to her for two weeks, but to take time enough to determine that the women chosen were competent in every way for their work.

Motion Displeases. A motion was made that the committee under Dr. Callias continue the work begun and that Mayor Dahlman appoint the policewomen.

This, however did not meet with the approval of Dr. Callias as she wanted her committee to be given the power to appoint the policewomen and not Mayor Dahlman, or anyone else. This was cause for another argument, but finally an amendment to the motion was made, after two rising votes were taken, and the matter was settled satisfactorily with Dr. Callias' committee in full charge.

CHANDLER PLEASED WITH FORT OMAHA

Balloon Chief Amazed at Bursting Activity at Local Station; Says it Will Continue to Grow.

"I am highly pleased with progress at Fort Omaha," said Colonel Charles De Forest Chandler, head of the balloon work in the United States army, after a busy day inspecting the fort.

Colonel Chandler and Major Hersey were at the Omaha club for dinner as the guests of the board of governors of Ak-Sar-Ben.

Omaha is not new to Colonel Chandler, who was here all last winter and some years ago aided in the construction of the first balloon building at the local fort.

He hardly recognized that busy center yesterday, as he stepped inside the grounds. Since he left last April for Washington to direct all the balloon work in the country, there have been surprising changes on the grounds. They team with soldiers and every inch of space is in use all the time. Barracks to house 2,000 men have gone up, officers' quarters and tents crowd the very edge of the parade ground, a new hospital and other buildings are under way. Several balloons are aloft all the time and many free balloon flights take place during the week.

"We have the best balloon men in the country for officers and instructors," said Colonel Chandler. "Fort Omaha will continue to grow steadily. As fast as men leave for the front new ones will be sent in. Our soldiers abroad need them and they will do for our artillery what the English and French balloonists did for theirs. I find them splendidly trained here and ready to be of great use abroad."

"Fort Omaha will still continue to be the only balloon school in the country. A goodly share of the money voted for aviation by congress will be spent at Fort Omaha."

Colonel Chandler will remain in Omaha today before leaving for the east.

The Evidence

Concrete Roads Reduce Tractive Effort

THIS means that substantial savings in hauling, in wear and tear on vehicles, in gasoline and tire expenditure, are effected on concrete roads.

Here's the Proof

The Good Roads Bureau of the California Automobile Association in co-operation with the Agricultural Engineering Division of the University of California, has just completed an exhaustive series of tests on all kinds of road surfaces.

Concrete shows the lowest tractive resistance. The table below shows how concrete compares with two well known road surfaces—water-bound macadam and the ordinary dirt road. Concrete offered about one-third the resistance of water-bound macadam and the earth road required nearly four times more hauling effort than concrete.
