

KING HOGS WILL WIN WAR SAYS GIFFORD PINCKOT

Brave Danger of Shortage of Live Stock Must Be Re- lieved by Raising More Pigs.

"The hog will win the war," said Gifford Pinckot, special lieutenant to Food Administrator Herbert Hoover, in an address before visitors at the Second National Swine show now in progress at the South Omaha horse and mule market yesterday.

Accompanied by E. Z. Russell of the Twentieth Century Farmer, Mr. Pinckot visited the hog display and later made a short address. The crowd, numbering several hundred, was greatly impressed by the evident sincerity shown by him in regard to the hog situation in this country.

"I am Mr. Hoover's representative to see what the hog raiser wants," he said. "This is not my meeting, but yours, and I am simply here to get your opinions. I will deal squarely with the government and the government will deal squarely with you."

King Men in Lime Light.
The wheat situation has been taken care of. It is now up to the housewife to conserve the bread in the home. The cattle situation is not alarming. The hog men now occupy the center of the stage and they have more to do with the settling of the war than any other body of men in the world.

The gravest danger in France and England today is shortage of stock. This shortage will be felt here soon, as the season is now at hand when the farmer sells his hogs to the packer. We must prepare to raise 25 per cent more hogs than we have now. This means that we will have to raise between 9,000,000 and 10,000,000 more hogs. The hog situation will be the most acute within the next thirty days.

To Relieve Meat Situation.

"The most critical situation in the war today is the meat situation and I am here to get your opinions as to the most feasible way to relieve it. The quickest way to secure meat is through the hog and for that reason we believe that you men are best situated to give advice for relieving the meat shortage. I am here to get your opinions and trust that you will frankly tell me of any plans you may have in mind."

Two Big Boxes of Candies To Go to Omaha Soldiers

Dr. Leonard Keene Hirschberg, A. B., M. D., of Johns Hopkins university, advances this idea about candy.

"Candy contains so many food essentials that it is sure to become a bigger and bigger factor in these conservation days. Pure candies are excellent ration, rich in calories, because of the sugar, butter, milk, chocolate and good flavors in them. They train the palate to distinguish the indifferent from the good and the reason well known brands of candies are 'famous treats' is because their richness in food value yields energy."

Saturday is nation-wide candy day and the Omaha and Council Bluffs committees, in order to make this a memorable occasion, has made up two immense boxes of candy, containing fifty pounds each—one will be sent to the Omaha boys at Camp Funston and one to the Omaha boys at Camp Coaly.

These boxes are now on exhibition in a sixteenth street window of the Brandeis stores and have already created quite a sensation.

Find Three Young Boys With Crabs Sleeping in Tent

Three young boy campers, ages 7, 10 and 12, respectively, were discovered, snugly wrapped in blankets, sleeping in a tent at Thirtieth and Snauldby by Officer Bitter late Thursday night. A large quantity of brass articles and other junk was piled in two cooler wagons which the boys had in the tent with them. When questioned as to where they obtained the junk they refused to tell. They were taken to the police station, where they spent the remainder of the night in warm beds in the matron's department. Their names are Harold Sellers, aged 7, 3715 North Eighteenth; Raymond Rasmussen, aged 10, 385 North Seventeenth; Herbert Humphrey, aged 12, 3708 North Eighteenth street.

Their tent, blankets and junk were brought to the station also.

Is It Possible for a Girl to Be Lonesome in Chicago?

Art Shields, secretary in the office of Chief of Police Dunn, writes to a point of information to inquire how one can be lonesome and live in Chicago.

In this morning's mail was a letter from a Chicago woman who seeks an Omaha husband. She asked the chief of police to help her in this matrimonial quest by giving publicity to her unattached condition.

BOARDS PASS ON ALL CLAIMS TO WAR EXEMPTION

Last Quota of the First Call to Leave Omaha Friday Morning for Camp Funston.

The district exemption board has finished passing upon all the appeals of those exempted by the local exemption boards on dependency grounds. Those dependency exemptions, as soon as made, are automatically appealed to the district board by the government, which asks the district board to review them and see if their claims are valid.

"I may say that we have affirmed all of these discharges," said a board member. "There has been an enormous number of these claims and it has been a great task to verify them. We have reviewed each one and passed upon it in the affirmative."

Now for Next List.

The next task of the district board will be to hear the appeals for exemption made by those selected for the last 15 per cent of the men going to Camp Funston, October 15. Those whose claims have been refused by the local boards have the privilege of taking the matter up with the district board—and most of them do. Which accounts for the fact that members of the district board burn the midnight electricity nightly in the court house.

Leave Saturday Morning.

Men of the selective draft from division 4, 5, and 6 will leave this morning for Camp Funston on the Union Pacific at 8 o'clock. Each of these three contingents were called to headquarters Friday for roll call and to get instructions for the trip.

Men of the Fifth district met yesterday in the court house lobby,

Public Places Regulated Against Fire Hazards

State Fire Warden Riggell called on Chief of Police Dunn to ask cooperation in regulation of motion picture theaters.

"He complained about one place in particular, but found conditions here generally good," said the chief. "We keep after these places, but once in a while one of them may get over the line a little. I am of the opinion that picture shows and all public places are well regulated in Omaha against fire hazards such as crowded aisles, fire escapes and other features mentioned in the state law and the city ordinances."

where Charles Foster, chairman of the local board, gave them instructions and then sent them out for a drill.

Those of the Fourth district met with T. E. Brady in the Brandeis Theater building at 1 p. m., while the Sixth delegates answered roll call at the office of Dr. Reed in Benson.

LABOR CASE IS PUT OVER TILL MONDAY

Omaha Labor Leaders Are Cross Examined by At- torney for the State Munger.

After several labor leaders had finished testifying Friday morning Judge Leslie, sitting in equity court, set the strike injunction hearing over until next Monday. Heads of Omaha unions were put through a grilling cross-examination by Deputy Attorney General Munger, representing the state, which asks a permanent injunction against the labor organizations and the Business Men's association. Hundreds of filings on different phases of the case have been made in district court.

PEOPLE MAKE MERRY AS CLOSING NEARS

Large Crowd Visits Carnival Ground in Spite of Fire- works Delay and Shows Do Big Business.

Subjects of the king rioted to their hearts' content last night on the broad highway in their efforts to make the most of the closing days of King Al's festival, making the air ring with their shouts and shrieks of laughter.

Confetti throwing disproved the assertion that the female of the species is more deadly than the male when one heard the feminine gasps of astonishment as a well directed throw of "oriental fire powder" found its way past their waists.

We welcomed by the giants at the entrance whose tallness made the children stare in amazement the crowd stormed the grounds to enjoy the entertainment offered at the various tents and booths.

They saw the only fire eater in captivity who consumed the very flame and smoke of a gasoline torch without an asbestos lining in his mouth. "You can do it at home yourself, folks," but it is doubtful if the merry-makers attempted the feat. They saw the "Oriental dancing girls" do the "Hula Hula" to the tune of "The Sunshine of Your Smile," the fat man who dared not go near the packing plants and the heaviest woman on earth who was cuddling a small white dog in the folds of her dress to protect him against the night air.

The doll babies were a source of contention among the throngs where at every turn of the wheel some one marched away proudly with the winning under his or her arm, to take it home later to gladden the hearts of some youngster.

Every concession on the grounds got its share of the patronage as the crowd surged along from one end of the spacious grounds to the other. The candy booths, the hot dog men, the rolling ball games, and the folks in the big tops played to large audiences.

Strong Arm Men Choose Wrong Man for Victim

Ralph Sawyerberg, 947 North Twenty-sixth street, reported to the police that as he was walking along Dodge street between Twentieth and Twenty-first last night two men suddenly stepped out from behind a tree and strong-armed him. He freed himself after a struggle with them and ran before they searched him. Sawyerberg gave the police a description of the men.

SEE BODY OF WOMAN HANGING TO TREE

When Police Search For It No Trace Can Be Found; Woman Wore Plaid Skirt.

Council Bluffs boys yesterday reported to police that they had seen the body of a woman hanging to a tree on the Mynter Springs road. The presence of the body was first reported Thursday night when detectives made a search of the surrounding woods, but no trace could be found.

The search was resumed yesterday, when the boys led officers to the tree where they had seen the body. It was disappeared, and police are of the opinion that it had been removed. The police theory is that the woman was murdered and that she was later hung to a tree to give the impression of suicide.

It was near the same spot where two automobiles were held up last spring and women members of the party assaulted. Two women, found wounded and gagged in cellars with evidence of attempted assault, led police to believe that it was the work of the same party.

The boys said that the woman appeared to be about 23 years of age and was clothed in a plaid dress. A woman residing in the vicinity heard a woman scream Thursday night.

Warrant Out for the Arrest of Cummings

Justice of the Peace Cooper of Council Bluffs issued a warrant for the arrest of Officer W. Cummings of the Omaha police force for assault and battery with intent to do great bodily harm. It is alleged that he committed the assault upon Mrs. Josephine Shrock, 2552 West Broadway, Council Bluffs, Wednesday night.

Omaha police say that Cummings has a perfect alibi and that it is a case of mistaken identity.

President for Twenty-seven Years Don't Like Country

Ed. Martin was arrested by the sheriff at Blair and turned over to the federal officers at Omaha on a charge of cursing President Wilson. Martin is 33 years old and has lived in this country twenty-seven years. Asked why he never took out naturalization papers, he said he "didn't like this country."
