night and were lined up by thousands at the gates when the portals were opened early in the forenoon. By noone the last of the regular seats and other space were filled and th doors closed. After that hour the only persons to enter the park were the fortunate holders of reserved seat coupons.

The scenes among the fans were muc hthe same as i nall recent series. Flags were used for decorative purposes throughout the park and there were the usual bands, singing and photographing, and movie camera operators who snapped and cranked their machines before and during the game.

Atouch of color foreign to past series was furnished, however, by the presence in a body of more than 1,500 members of the officers' reserve training corps from Fort Sheridan. Grouped back of first base their khaki uniforms and sunburned faces supplied a back ground which contrasted sharply with the remainder of the civilian gathering.

Few Women in Stands.

One of the oddities of the scene from the standpoint of the spectators was the comparatively few women among all the thousands who witnessed the play. The percentage of females could not have been more htan one to 100. There was also a notable absence of the continuous cheering. There were tremendous outbursts of applause and encouragement at critical periods of the play or when startling catches or hits were made, but on the whole the tenseness of the struggle appeared to grip the fans so strongly that they were unable to give vent to their emotions in the usual manner.

The game was replete with startling catches, double plays, Yong hits and the breaks which mark the line dividing victory and defeat. In the enthusiasm of the occasion even the weather man relented and at the last moment furnished a perfect weather setting for the diamond battle. The blue sky was flecked with a film of clouds and the stiff south wind failed to interfere with their work, due to the protection of the towering stands. Under foot the field, although a trifle soft from the rain of Friday was through and there was not a miscue which could be attributed to poor fielding conditions.

White Sox Superior.

While the box score showed little advantage one way or the other between the two teams, the fact remains that the White Sox for the day, at least, showed a faster and better machine than the Giants. Both the infield and the outfield worked with perfect judgment and harmony, and the players col-lectively and individually co-operated to a higher degree than was the case with the National league combination. The men of Rowland, with Cicotte on the mound, apepared to have a psychological edge on the Giants, and even in the most uncertain moments of the contest played with a dash and vim, which was an outstanding feature of their work.

The ywere the first to score, gathering in their initial run in the third when after Schalk had been retired at first by Zimmerman, Cicotte singled through second.

John Collins followed with another to right, and Cicotte was thrown out at third by Robertson, while Collins took on the throw across the diamond. From the midway sack he was able to score easily when McMullen doubled over second. The second and deciding run of the contest was a home run drive of remarkable power by Felsch, in the fourth, when the Sox center fielder caught one of Sallee's sweeping curves on the end of his bat and sent the ball soaring more than 400 feet into the left Center bleachers. It is doubtful if a lustier home run blow has ever been delivered in a world's series.

The Giant's lone tally came in the following inning when Catcher McCarty hammered out a three-base hit, between Felsch and J. Collins, which might have gone for a home run also, had the Giants' backstop been able to run faster. Recently recovered from a broken leg, however, the best McCarty could do was reach third from which point he scored easily on Sallee's single. There were several other times when the Giants threatened, but in every case snsational plays by the Sox turned them back. The outstanding example of these wonderful defensive plays was a shoe-string catch by Jackson, in the seventh inning, when he swept in on the run and caught McCarty's drive just off the grass and finished with a somersault, coming up with the ball in his hand so quickly that Holke was easily hel dat first, which he had reached as the result of a single to Another unusual angle of the play was the fact that Cicotte was forced to work harder as the winning pitcher than Sallee, who went down to defeat after hurling a creditable game in every respect. Sallee pitched only eighty-six balls during the game, while Cicottee was forced to throw 101.

Memphis Club Files Hot Reply to Donlin's Suit

The Memphis Southern league club has filed its answer to Mike Donlin's suit for his salary in full for the last season, though he was released early in the season. The Memphis club alleges that Donlin was "careless, in-different and neglectful," that he used 'vile and scurrilous epithets" toward his players and finally that he made a burlesque of a ball game on the day of his discharge, thus prejudicing the interests of the club with the public, Some answer.

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY OF CORNHUSKERS IS AT HAND; HAVE CHANCE TO WIN TITLE

Victories Over Syracuse, Michigan and Notre Dame Will Give Scarlet and Cream Athletes National Championship, or at Least, Equal Standing With All.

By FRED S. HUNTER.

Opportunity only presents itself once in a life-time, it is said. Nebraska's stalwart Cornhuskers have their opportunity

It is some opportunity, too. It is nothing less than an opportunity to win the foot ball championship of the Missouri Valley, the west and the United States.

ROURKE ROOKIES DELIVER GOODS

Smith Outhits All Browns Except George Sisler, While Kilduff Leads Shortstops Except Hornsby.

Earl Smith and Peterkin Kilduff, Rourke rookies who went up to the big show this year, have won their spurs as major league athletes.

Of the two, Smith's record is the more brilliant. George Sisler who ranks as one of the half a dozen only regular on the St. Louis American team who surpassed Smith in Smith, in fifty-two games, cracked the pill for a final average of .281. made fifty-six hits and scored thirty-one runs. His fifty-six hits he stretched into seventy-eight total bases with the aid of eight doubles and seven triples. Eliminating the game yesterday with Nebraska Wesleyan as merely a practice contest, the University of Nebraska faces a gridiron schedule of six games. Opponents in those six games are such that the Cornhuskers by wiping the slate with six clean victories will be the gridiron champions IN BIG LEAGUES tories will be the gridiron champions of the entire country, or at least will be on even terms with other championship elevens.

Hinges on Three Games.

The Huskers, of course, must win all six games to earn the cherished title, but it is upon the result of three of the games that success hinges. They are the games with Syracuse, Michigan and Notre Dame.

Syracuse, this year, ranks among the leaders of the east. It is considered highly possible that Syracuse will win the eastern championship. Among eastern leaders Syracuse meets are Pittsburgh, Tufts, Brown and Colgate.

With Harvard, Yale and Princeton ranks as one of the half a dozen out of it, it probable the recognized greatest stars in the game, was the champion of the east will be Syracuse, Brown, Pittsburgh, Colgate or Pennsylvania.

Syracuse regards its prospects to snare the eastern honors as exceedingly bright and if the New York eleven does trim Brown, Pittsburgh He faced the pitcher 199 legal times, and Colgate, Nebraska will have a chance by defeating Syracuse on Thanksgiving day to take that title.

Even though Syracuse should lose to either Brown or Pittsburgh or Coltunity of earning equal standing with in turn defeat their eastern foe.

Another Angle. From another angle, the Cornhuskers have a chance at the champion-

Michigan is a member of the western conference and also plays Pennsylvania and Cornell in the east. Should Michigan defeat its "Big Ten" rivals and also Penn and the Ithacans, Nebraska, by defeating the Wolverines, would climb to the championship by that route. Then, too, there is Notre Dame. The Hoosiers play the Army, so should the Army prove to have the best team in the east, the Cornhuskers have the same opportunity before By victories over Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Notre Dame and Michigan, Nebraska has a chance not only to win the Missouri valley title, but also the western honor. And by defeating Notre Dame, Michigan and Syracuse, the Cornhuskers can win the championship of the country as well, because these three teams play all of the leading elevens of the east, including Brown, Pittsburgh. Colgate, Pennsylvania. Cornell and West Point.

Nebraska's glorious opportunity is ahead if the grade isn't too steep for our plodding athletes.

Depends on Stewart.

The grade shouldn't be too steep, though. It is true Nebraska is facing the stiffest schedule a middle western eleven ever tackled, but material at Lincoln is the best in the history of the school. Nebraska this year should have a better team than that famous eleven of 1914, when Vic Halligan, Dick Rutherford and Guy Chamberlain were in their prime. And there isn't a Cornhusker follower in the state who wouldn't risk his last cent that that team could have cleaned up any team in the land.

It really develops into a problem for Coach Stewart. It's strictly up to the coach. He has the material. He has Captain Shaw, one of the best tackles Nebraska ever had; Ted Riddell, an always dependable end: Johnny Cook, a sensational back field performer; Paul Dobson, a steady back field man; Hugo Otoupolik, a terrific line plunger and a tower of defensive strength; Rhodes, a defensive end almost, if not as wonderful, as the great Chamberlain and a good line man on the attack, as veterans around whom to build his eleven. In Mc-Mahon and Chellenberg, first year men, he has two back fields who promise to rival the greatest stars Nebraska ever had, and he has Kellogg. Hubka, Day, Henry and several others from the freshman squad of last year who should fill any gaps that have been made.

Stewart hasn't a big squad to work with, but what he has is unusually talented. Neither has the Cornhuskers mentor the assistants he should have -he has only one, Owen Frank, when he should have four, at least. But Frank is a capable man and the athletes he has know a lot of foot ball already, so injuries alone should prevent Stewart from turning out a successful team.

Bloomington Wants to Buy Franchise in Central Loop

Bloomington, which stuck through thick and thin with the Three-I league, realizing that circuit is dead, is laying plans to get in a reorganized Central league outfit. It proposes to adopt the Peoria idea of the club owned by the fans and already a movement is under way to finance a club with enough stockholders to fill the grandstand. The first ten men approached put up $50 each, making $500 to start the campaign on.
