"To hell with the United States and to hell with the exemption board," is one of the statements Jan Jackim, Austrian, is said to have made in a South Side restaurant Sunday evening. Witnesses also say that he said other things too hot to be printed. John Sempek, 4228 South Thirty-eighth street, was at a soft drink place at Thirty-eighth and H streets. He called up the police station and told them that there was a man in the place who was cursing the United States. Officers Jackman and Scott went to the place and arrested Jackim, who was pointed out to them. Jackim is an Austrian citizen. He is said to have made the statement that he would stay in this country until the war is over and then he was going back "home" again.

George Botts (colored), aged 60 years, was found dead in the room of Blonny McNeil, 2715 Q street, at 6 o'clock Sunday morning. Botts had a room upstairs in the same house. He often came down to visit with his friend McNeil and Saturday evening he came in and lay down on a couch and fell asleep. McNeil disliked awakening him and decided that he might just as well let him sleep there all night. In the morning all of his efforts to arouse him failed and he called up the police station and Officer Gorski went to the room. The man was dead.

WILL ASK RETRIAL AT ONCE FOR KELLY

Counsel for Rev. Lyn Kelly Insists on Immediate Retrial or Dismissal of Grand Jury Indictment.

Counsel for Rev. Lyn George J. Kelly, whose recent trial for murder in connection with the Villisca ax slayings ended in a jury disagreement, expect the clergyman to be placed on trial again within a couple of weeks.

"We do not propose to have our client lying in jail for an indefinite period," one of counsel said today, "and we will insist on an immediate trial."

The Rev. Mr. Kelly is being confined in the jail at Red Oak instead of at Logan, Ia., under an order obtained from District Judge Woodruff in Council Bluffs. Judge Woodruff originally ordered Kelly transferred to the jail at Logan last May, shortly after the minister's arrest, and immediately after the conclusion of his trial, Judge Boies ordered him returned there. Kelly had expressed a desire to remain "among friends," and his counsel obtained the change in the order.

Attorney A. L. Sutton, who was one of Kelly's lawyers during the recent trial, stated he expects to go to Red Oak next Monday, when the new term of court opens, and insist that his client be granted an early retrial or the indictment against him dismissed.

At the conclusion of the recent trial Kelly stated he did not believe he could survive the ordeal of another trial. He said he would collapse.

Alien Enemy Arrested In Norfolk; Interned

Paul Leubcke, a prominent merchant of Norfolk, Neb., and owner of farms near there, was arrested and brought to Omaha by Deputy United States Marshal Quinley.

He is charged with being an alien enemy of the United States. He was arrested on orders from United States Attorney General Gregory and will be interned at Fort Douglas, Utah, for the period of the war. He is now in the county jail.

"It is too bad," said Leubcke, when he was arrested. He said he had talked in favor of Germany before the United States entered the war, but has done no pro-German talking since then.

Reports that have come to the Department of Justice, however, said he was active in championing the German cause even since the country entered the war. It was for this reason that the order for his arrest was made.

Omaha Instructor Is Not Pro-German, Says Beverage

Superintendent Beverage of the public schools defends A. J. Wedeking, head of German department at Central High school, against a public attack made on him in Lincoln in connection with a circular he sent as chairman of the German section, of the Nebraska State Teachers' association.

"There is nothing pro-German in his system," said the superintendent. The circular in question went through our office and was approved. He is above reproach and is merely striving to conserve all that is best in the German literature, a part of our educational system which was approved long before this war was started and which will endure long after the war is over. The attack was unjustifiable."

AUTOCRACY SLIPS FOR LAST CENTURY

That is Why Kaiser Expressed That Fear of Increasing His Military Power.

"The world war was not started by the maniac who fired the shot that killed the crown prince of Austria," said Laurie J. Quinby in his paper on "America's Justification," read before the Omaha Philosophical society Sunday afternoon. "Nor was it started by the mobilization of Russia, nor the 'commercial jealousies' of England. Not even the Kaiser and his clique are wholly responsible.

"It had its origin in the dawn of history when governments first were instituted, resting upon the will of a self-constituted autocrat. Since that day the spirit of the people has steadily risen above the base level of paying tribute to an autocrat. Democracy has been a constant growth. Autocracy challenged.

"Since that day democracy has challenged the presumptions of autocracy. These two bodies are the basis of all institutions of society. They are the opposite ends of the pole. They are unrecconcilable. In every contest, one of them must give under. Since man first began to question the assumptions of autocracy and to formulate his ideas as to the natural principles that underlie society, autocracy has gradually grown less popular in the common mind. It might be efficient, but it denied the rights of man. It might feed men, but it bound them in chains.

"As autocracy felt itself slipping in the last century and a half, it expressed its fear by increased military power. Having no principles of jus-

KILLING FROST TOO LATE TO HURT CROPS

Corn is Out of the Way of Harm; Light Snow in Northern Part of State.

Sunday night Nebraska was hit by a killing frost, the first of the season. According to morning reports to the railroads, the cold wave extended from the mountains east to the lakes and beyond.

Over Nebraska there was not only a frost, but there was a freeze, temperatures ranging from 40 along the Missouri river valley to as low as 21 degrees above zero out in the state, the coldest being at Randolph.

Along the Northwestern's northern line during Sunday afternoon and night, there were light snow falls from Chadron, Neb., through to Lander, Wyo., and up into South Dakota, as far as the Black Hills.

There were light snow flurries along the west end of the Nebraska division of the Union Pacific and along the Burlington from McCook far out into Colorado.

The railroads report clear weather all through the western part of the state with rising temperatures. Railroad men are of the opinion that the freeze has resulted in little or no damage to the corn, the only crop not gathered, aside from the corn cobs. They assert that the corn generally was fully matured and that the cold weather has been beneficial, stopping the growth of the stalks and thus permitting the ears to dry out.

Truck gardeners on the Omaha market told of freezing temperatures up and down the river. The freeze was sufficiently hard to kill tomato vines and all the green stuff. The loss, however, they say, will be insignificant, as practically all the garden products have been gathered.

Refuses Bootlegger New Trial; Sixty-Day Sentence

Judge Estelle, sitting in criminal court, Monday morning overruled a motion for a new trial argued by attorneys for Lee Deering, convicted by a jury of bootlegging, and sentenced him to sixty days in jail.

His was one of the appeal liquor cases brought to district court from the lower court. Special Prosecutor McGuire and Deputy County Attorney Ramsey represented the state.

Grain in Storage Two Million Bushels Short

Grain stocks in first hands loosened up considerably during the last week and as a result the quantity in storage in Omaha elevators has increased materially. The greatest increase during the week has been in wheat, something over 100,000 bushels. It has been taken over for the government by Food Administration Agent Neal, most of it being held for distribution to the millers.

Comparative figures of the inspection department of the Omaha Grain exchange, showing the number of bushels of the various kinds of grain in storage now and one year ago are:

	Now.	Year Ago.
Wheat	194,000	1,500,000
Corn	59,000	22,000
Oats	699,000	1,844,000
Rye	12,000	114,000
Barley	31,000	37,000
Totals	905,000	3,518,000

Receipts of oats are considered fairly heavy, but the stocks are more than 1,000,000 bushels short of one year ago and the opinion is pretty general that they are being held back in anticipation of higher prices.

The decline in the grain market that set in a week ago still continues, but it is not as pronounced as last week. The wheat has all taken over by Food Administration Agent Neal and the prices on this cereal were steady, having been fixed by the government. Receipts were ninety-one carloads.

Corn and oats were comparatively steady, with a good demand, the two cereals selling a cent off to a quarter up.

It was anticipated that frost news would send corn considerably higher, but the change in prices was slight, the sales being made at $1.86@2.01. The receipts were eighty-six carloads. Oats sold at 57 1/2 @ 57 3/4 cents with eighty-two carloads on the market.
