This is the only social movement which reaches almost every Russian village and represents the real spirit of the country Not long ago the Russian cooperative movement celebrated its fiftieth anniversary, and it was calculated that at the moment there were over 35,000 cooperative organizations in Russia with a membership of almost 12,000,-000. Cooperation is most prevalent among peasants and therefore, every member of a cooperative organization represents a whole family. The present secretary of supplies, Mr. Prokopovitch, who is a recognized author ity on the Russian cooperative movement, declares that the total actual membership of the Russian cooperative organizations approaches 60,000.

Modern armies which are numer ically much smaller that the above figure, are often spoken of as an 'armed people." What about the army of the Russian cooperative movement, which numbers in its ranks almost
