Popular Visitors

Miss Florence Hutton is a belle of Hastings, Neb., who often visits here, sometimes as the guest of Mrs. M. H. Bexten. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hutton. The mayor of Hastings named her to represent the town as maid of honor to this year's queen of Ak-Sar-Ben. Miss Hutton attended the Girls' Collegiate school in Los Angeles last year and expects to go to an eastern finishing school this year. She is active in Red Cross work.

Mrs. Estelle Stimpson of New York is the house guest of Mrs. Joseph Maul Metcalf, who visited Mrs. Stimpson when she lived in Paris before the war. Mrs. Stimpson came west for the first time for the Ak-Sar-Ben ball and expresses herself as delighted with Nebraska, and especially Omaha. The New York guest is being extensively entertained.

Dinner For Mr. Taft A Beautiful Affair— Palimpsest Club Host

It was one of the most beautiful affairs the Palimpsest club ever gave that John Lee Webster, president of the club, planned Friday evening in honor of ex-President Taft. The ball room of the Fontenelle, where the tables were arranged, was brilliant with lights and flowers. At one end was the guest of honor's table on a platform slightly raised. Behind it was a background of palms and three tall baskets of yellow chrysanthemums, and the table itself was garlanded with smilax and decorated with Killarney roses. The other tables, seating eight at each, had a mound of pink roses and yellow pom-pom chrysanthemums in the center, from which rose a yellow shaded candle in a brass candlestick. Colonial bouquets of Ward roses and maiden-hair ferns marked all of the women's places, while boutonnières marked the men's.

Seated at the table with Mr. Taft and Mr. Webster were Senator and Mrs. G. M. Hitchcock, Mrs. George Prutz, ex-Senator and Mrs. Norris Brown, ex-Senator, J. H. Millard and Miss Jessie Millard and Mr. G. W. Wattles. The other guests were: Judge and Mrs. W. A. Redick, Mr. and Mrs. John Redick, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Redick, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. J. de Forest Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Rosewater, Mr. and Mrs. Halleck F. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stewart, 2d, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Summers, Jack Summers, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Fish.

Mrs. Metcalf to Give Bridge and Tea for Belgian Relief Fund

To carry on the surgical dressings work of the Belgian war relief in the Baird building $1,000 each month is necessary to purchase materials and pay for their expressage to Europe. Mrs. Joseph M. Metcalf is opening her home for a large bridge party and tea Monday afternoon, at which the admission will be $1, in order to raise funds for this work. At a similar entertainment in Chicago last week $5 was the fee. For those who do not play cards Mrs. Metcalf has set aside her large drawing room for knitting, the women to remain for tea. Mrs. Metcalf announces, too, that tables will be arranged for those who come alone.

Among those who have made reservations for tables of four are:
Mesdames—
Arthur M. Blye, Emma B. Turner,
W. F. Allen, Hulbeck F. Rose,

There May Be Little In a Name, but Appearance Sells the Liberty Bonds

By MELLIFICIA.

Clothes and Liberty bonds! What a combination, you will say. How could the serious business of selling Liberty bonds and a woman's clothes have any connection? Listen and I will tell you. In the lobby of one of New York's large hotels sat a mousy looking little person trying to do her bit by selling all of these important mortgages on the United States that she could, but business was not brisk. This was very evident to even the most casual observer. When suddenly her "relief" came, a very business-like looking lady, but in such a different way! Her suits were dark blue and tailored, oh, so severely tailored, but so smart. And her hat! When I try to tell you about her hat words fail me. Can you think of crushed raspberries? That was just the shade of her chic little toque with a "strick" feather on one side. And I wish you could have seen the rush for Liberty bonds. As soon as the raspberry hatted person took charge almost every man within range became fired with a patriotism that he had never felt before. The kaiser's chances of winning the war were greatly diminished by leaps of $50, $100 and so on up.

"Clothes do not make the man." How often have we heard the time worn adage, and a very true one it is, too. But when it comes to a woman's clothes you have a different proposition, whether she is engaged in serving her country or attending to her own affairs.

You may think the illustration applies only to New York of the very large cities, but to prove a point I will use an instance in our own town. When I happened into a department store yesterday morning just as the whistles were blowing for the opening of the three days' drive. I met a charming young girl seating herself in a little booth by the door. She was in brown from the tips of her bronze shoes to the top of her pink little brown hat with its tiny pink rosebud trimming. Her suit was a lovely, "woody" shade particularly becoming because of her brilliant coloring. I thought to myself "business will be brisk at that store. I am sure."

What should confront me in the morning paper but the announcement that the women had done wonderfully well in the stores selling their Liberty bonds and that hardly a single man had gotten away without a pledge. I am very sure, dear reader, that that little word "appearance" played a very important part in the success of the enterprise.
