Wanted-6 million knitted things for our soldiers THE AMERICAN RED GROSS WOMAN'S RUREAU MAMORTON, D. F. in the trenches Instructions for Knitting

That's the word that comes from Europe to the American Red Cross. It sets millions of feminine fingers flying, making sweaters, wristlets, helmets, socks and mufflers.

AT home, in street cars, in railway trains, in A theatres and picture shows, their myriad needles flash and click, working to send a touch of home and of woman to their fighting men abroad.

And it's a work that must be done right. The Red Cross realizes this. That's why "The Knitting Book" was published. It tells just what articles the soldiers want and how to make them. It has a complete set of half-tone illustrations showing just how the work should be done. It tells the size of needle to use and the kind of yarn.

For the woman who has husband, brother or sweetheart in the service on land or sea, it is indispensable. For that matter, any woman will delight in using a little of her spare time in adding to the well-being of the defenders of her home and her country's honor. It is a solemn fact that the safety of the world depends upon the wellbeing of our boys "over there."
