

RUSSIA'S POLICY UNCHANGED, SAYS TERESTCHENKO

Speech Discloses That German Aim to Separate Allies Was Reason For Peace Proposals.

Petrograd, Oct. 29.—Foreign Minister Terestchenko, in addressing the preliminary Parliament today, said a separate peace was impossible and that defense of Russian territory was one of the fundamental needs.

The foreign minister said the absolute independence of Courland and perhaps of Poland and Lithuania was impossible, as it would mean that Russia would return to the days before Peter. He also asserted complete demobilization and disarmament and neutralization of canals and straits were impossible.

Russia's foreign policy had not changed, the minister continued, since the first statement enunciating the principles of no indemnities, no annexations, and the right of nations to self-determination.

War of Nations.

"The people must understand that the war is being carried on not by governments but by nations," he added. "As the nations began the fighting so they must end it. Russia and France first held back the foes, and so they continue."

M. Terestchenko declared that the offers for a separate peace and the sentiment in favor of them were strongest last May, when they were followed by the Russian offensive.

"There is a rumor that the allies wished to leave Russia to her fate," the foreign minister continued, "but I state officially that it is untrue."

Germany Wants Separate Peace.

"Germany's aim is to separate Russia from the allies and, if possible, to do so by peaceful means, in order to use Russia economically afterward. While the other nations at war are unable to continue civil industry, Germany has been so well organized from the beginning that she has been able to continue her efforts to carry on trade. She looks upon Russia as her market. Therefore, the defense of Russian territory is one of the fundamental needs now, for if Germany gets into Russia commercially after the war, we shall have no self definition afterwards."

In regard to the forthcoming conference of the allies at Paris, M. Terestchenko said it must be remembered that Russia should forget politics there and be represented as a nation. He characterized some points of the peace terms of the soldiers' and workmen's delegates as impossible, saying they could not be denied as the nation's terms. It was in this connection that he made his references to Courland, Poland and Lithuania and to the impossibility of neutralizing canals and straits and disarmament completely.

Much Peace Talk.

"There never has been more peace talk in Germany and Austria than now," said the minister. "I am confident Germany was sincere in the reported recent offer for the freedom of Belgium, without the freedom of Alsace-Lorraine, and in the intimation that this would be its last offer. It will make more."

"Germany is now concentrating its efforts to affect its enemies economically. For instance, its attack on Riga was not strategic, but in pursuance of a far-sighted policy of striking at our weakest point, hoping to ruin the economic life of the country. Too much importance must not be given to today's Italian defeat, as this also is for more economic effect."

M. Terestchenko's speech was cheered throughout by the conservatives, but he was heckled more than applauded by the Bolsheviks.

The American, British and Italian ambassadors were present when the speech was delivered.

Kansas City Salesman Suspected of Forgery

Harry M. Clark, Kansas City salesman, was arrested this morning upon suspicion of forgery. Clark had in his possession checks made payable to himself and drawn on Tulsa, Okl., banks.

His arrest followed an order alleged to have been placed by him with the Quinby Printing company for a block of checks to be printed ostensibly for the Burlington Box company of Burlington, Ia. He displayed a letter from the vice president of the box factory thanking him for good work done in the past and enclosing check for services. This letter is declared a forgery by police.

The game worked by Clark, according to the officers, is forwarding mail to himself in care of a hotel and upon arriving open the letter and present the check to be cashed.

Other cities have been wired for information, as the police believe Clark answers the description of a man whose operations have defrauded southern hotel keepers of large sums.

NO COAL SHORTAGE, KENNEDY REPORTS

Congested Traffic Which Prevents Equal Distribution Only Difficulty, Says Fuel Administrator for State.

"Taking the country as a whole, the coal supply is not below normal, but congested traffic has prevented equal distribution," is the message John L. Kennedy, federal fuel administrator for Nebraska, brings to consumers of this state after a conference with representatives of fifteen states held in Washington last Friday.

"Every state is to have its equitable share of fuel," declared Mr. Kennedy. "The coal dealers, wholesale and retail, are exhaust their usual sources of supply, and it is up to the fuel administrator, through the state administrator, to whatever further supply is needed to meet present requirements. The administrator will direct shipments when necessary, and all coal passing into a given state for consumption there will be charged to the state. In that way, sooner or later, each state will get its share. In case of necessity, coal operators will be directed to ship to local jobbers in several states. For instance, 100 cars of anthracite are now being shipped to Nebraska, without passing through the intermediate jobber. Later shipments will no doubt be made in the same way."

Boost County Price.

Prices of coal for the county will have to be increased 10 cents a ton if contracts are carried out. C. W. Hull, president of the Hull Coal company, told county commissioners Tuesday morning. The coal man explained unusual conditions in the market and notified the board it would be impossible to fill the contract at the prices quoted a week ago when contracts were let.

The increased prices are due to the government raise and the war tax. Mr. Hull declared it was not so much a question of price and profit among dealers now as it was supplying the actual needs of the people.

The county board faces the proposition of accepting the Hull contract at the 90 cents a ton increase or rejecting it and buying coal on the open market. Mr. Hull said his company would not even consider the contract as originally let by the board.

The young man was undecided until word came that American troops were in the trenches in France. He telegraphed his refusal of the money and continued his work for a commission.

Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would burn dreadfully, now they feel fine at the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitude more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be free of their dependence on

Heavyweight Cop Wins Long Pursuit From Swift Negro

Down-town pedestrians were spectators to an interesting scene Monday afternoon when Officer Chapman, 250-pound copper, and a nimble-footed negro staged a thrilling chase through the congested streets.

The pursuit started on Farnam street, west of Sixteenth, turned north on Sixteenth, and then east on Douglas, before Chapman captured his victim just before the racing pair reached the Douglas street bridge.

Two negroes approached a local bank official Monday afternoon with a request for $20 to be donated toward the erection of a church for the "Holy Colored Workers of Omaha."

Detecting a rat, the bank official summoned the police, and Officers Anderson and Chapman appeared. Anderson nailed one man, but the other, a little fellow, ducked under Chapman's arm and started for "somewhere in the United States" with Chapman in hot pursuit.

At the police station the men gave their names as Harry Exams, Exams, S. D., and George Briscoe, Omaha. The latter recently served 30 days for illegal possession of intoxicating liquor.

Strong Man to Be Held For the Montana Sheriff

Mons Zudona, "boxer, wrestler, iron-jawed man," who was arrested at the Millard hotel Monday night, was taken in charge by federal officers on a charge of having failed to register. He had been arrested by the police at the request of the police at Scooby, Mont., where he is wanted for grand larceny.

Zudona, at the office of United States Marshal Flynn, showed a great and growing desire to join the army, preferring this to going back to face charges at Scooby. He was finally turned back to the police to be held until the sheriff arrives from Montana to take him back.

The iron-jawed man had no excuse to offer for failing to register. He said he was an alien.

He was married last Friday and his wife is now in Kansas City.

"Showing Sister Susie how to Sew"

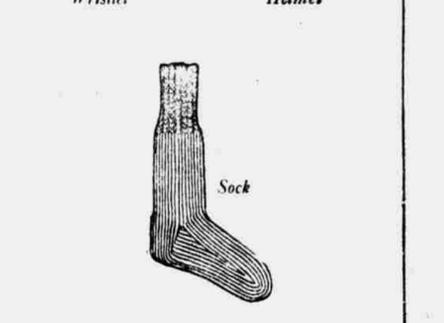

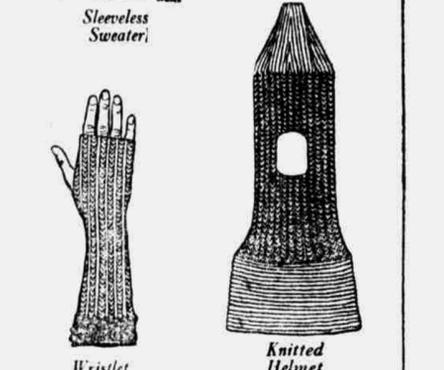

is most important, for Susie's last name is legion. All over this broad land she is hard at work sewing shirts for soldiers, knitting natty neck-warmers, and often knotty socks that blister brother Bill's big toe!

Susie is so willing that the Red Cross has sent a committee to Europe to find out just what kind of shirts and socks the Sammies would like to have.

And this committee has issued a little picture book that tells all about knitting soldiers' socks, also sweaters, helmets, wristlets, mufflers, wash-cloths and hotwater bottle covers.

This free book tells just how to do it, what size needles to use and what kind of wool to get. Best of all it has a complete set of beautiful half-tone illustrations that explain everything.

Since the safety of the soldiers is on Sister Susie's shoulders she shouldn't shirk securing this splendid sewing system.
