Eighteen-Year-Old Girl Takes Poison; Will Live

The timely arrival of physicians probably saved the life of 18-year-old Sadie Beckman, who attempted suicide last night at Forty-ninth and Underwood avenue, by swallowing an ounce of iodine and then throwing herself on the street car tracks, where she was found unconscious by Motorman M. Lynch of a Dundee car. Lynch picked up the unconscious girl and took her to the Dundee pharmacy, where she was given first aid by Drs. Manning and Harry Sullivan. Sergeant Wheeler later took the girl to St. Joseph's hospital. She refused to assign any reason for the attempted suicide. The girl is a domestic at the home of C. B. Moffitt, 4817 Webster street, where she applied for work a week ago. She says she has no home, parents, nor relatives. Mr. Moffitt said that the girl left the house about 15 minutes before she took the poison, probably to go to a store, and did not return. She has always appeared to be in a jolly mood and did her work well.

Omaha will have the affirmative. The junior election will be held tomorrow.

HAPPY CROWD AT MUNICIPAL FETE

Officials and Just Folks at the Auditorium to Take Part in First of Series Given Under City Auspices.

There was no use "praying for those lights to go out" in the Auditorium last night during the community dance, because it was not that kind of a dance.

The first municipal terpsichorean frolic was as great a success as the promoters hoped it would be. The Board of Public Welfare will give more of these dances during the winter.

Lizzie from the box factory was there in her neat shirt waist, accompanied by her best young man, Marie, who has a responsible office position in one of the downtown buildings, also was there, with a male entourage of one and there were many who sought Lizzie and Marie for dance numbers.

Knits Laden Dancing. Miss Rose Whiteburg was among those present. She is a miss in her teens and resides in apartment No. 3, The Sterling. She demonstrated the value of knitting as she danced. She used four old-fashioned steel knitting needles and continued her knitting for the Red Cross while she tripped through a one-step of a military waltz. She said she could keep her mind on the dancing and do her knitting at the same time. She was popular with a coterie of khaki-clad men. Miss Ladenburg knitted during the intermissions.

The crowd was estimated at 1,000. The grand march at 9:30 o'clock was led by Judge George Holmes of the municipal court and Mrs. Rose M. Holmes of the Board of Public Welfare, followed by members of the city council and their wives and members of the Board of Public Welfare and their "better halves."

No Flirting Necessary. It was not necessary to flirt at the community dance. City hall employees served on a sociability committee to see that the lonesome James met the lonesome Jims. A girl in sailor dress was introduced to a soldier by and the twain extended their acquaintance through mutual friends. "Don't you wish you were me?" asked a girl to a friend on the side lines as she glided by with a Sammy. "Where 's your man at?" asked Lizzie of Marie when she observed her friend standing alone.

A. E. H. Thompson, Byron P. Demorest, Byron S. Badger and Edwin D. Baker, comprising the Amphion quartet, entertained during the evening with a repertoire of selections which won applause.

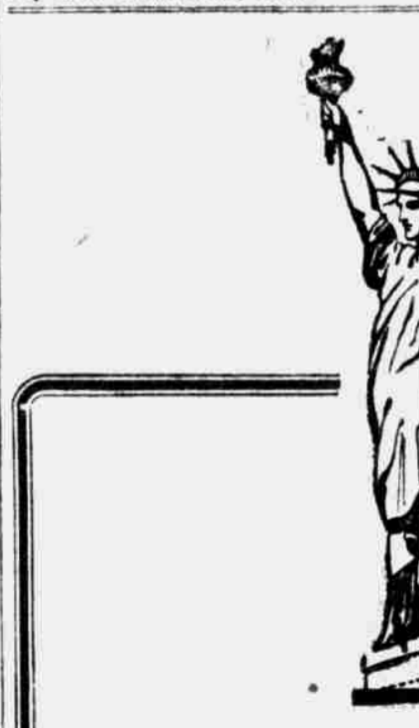

City Officials Dance. The Omaha Bohemian orchestra played patriotic selections during the early part of the evening and furnished the dance music.

Coffee and cakes were served by the city hall folks. Omaha's first community dance was commended by city officials who observed the event with critical eyes. City Commissioners A. C. Kugel and D. B. Butler gave an exhibition of official buttonless. Member J. A. Rine of the Board of Public Welfare showed that he had not forgotten his early education gained when attending barn dances at Fremont. Assistant City Attorney L. J. TePoel, also was a dashing figure on the dance floor.

And there wasn't a tight during the whole live-long evening. No New Developments in Dunn's Rumored Resignation. "There has been nothing new since last summer in connection with the resignation of Chief of Police H. W. Dunn," stated Superintendent A. C. Kugel. Mr. Kugel added that at the time of the police department investigation he understood that Mr. Dunn intended to resign and his later information was that the chief intended to wait until the end of the year. Chief Dunn is now on a hunting trip near Sutherland, Neb.

Burmeister of Chicago, the coroner's physician, whose autopsy caused a reopening of the sensational case, was heard by the jury, as was Dr. Otto Schultze, a pathologist connected with the office of District Attorney Swann of New York. So many witnesses remained to be heard that jury officials were doubtful that the court would get to voting on the indictment today.
