He appealed to missions, tobacco, and other articles now effective caused such an increased demand for cent pieces that Director Baker today announced mints hereafter would work Sundays, in addition to day and night, as at present.

In order that people may not abandon their savings habits while complying with the government's suggestion, the treasury will put into effect soon the system of war savings. This is expected to draw great stores of small coins from their hiding places in exchange for savings stamps, and to increase materially the supply of coins for general circulation.

Christmas gifts of gold coins will be discouraged by federal reserve banks as a means of usual withdrawal | usual standard. from circulation of large quantities of gold after the holidays.
