Jeannette Borglum Has Taken Up Her Work in Earnest.

Eleanor Ritchie Looked, Smiled and Dropped Stitch.

"We really haven't time to chat today for these sweaters must be finished. They are for our 'big brothers' who are going to France, and we must get them done before the cold winds blow."

One little maid couldn't resist the temptation to glance at the camera-man, and the result—a dropped stitch.

These industrious Red Cross knitters are Jeannette Borglum, Helen and Eleanor Ritchie.

Mrs. Archibald Laurence taught the little girls the art, and since they have learned, dolls and roller skates have no attractions for them.

A Red Cross benefit was given not long ago by these little girls and some of their friends. Miss Jeannette Borglum and Miss Margaret Shotwell, who are both graceful fancy dancers, were the star performers and all the neighbors and friends gave their hearty support to the affair.

quarters, where she and Miss Louise Dinning of Omaha are living together. Miss Dinning is with the American hospital at Neuilly, while both are waiting until the hospital unit which they went abroad is established somewhere. Mrs. Turner writes that the lack of sugar in the food makes them ravenous for sweets and that a fire for warmth comes high, 5 francs or $1 for a little bundle of sticks—but there are no complaints to be heard anywhere.

Money-Saving Beauty Hints

Inexpensive Home-Treatment for Banishing Wrinkles and Beautifying the Face, Neck and Arms; How to Promote a Healthy Scalp and Lustrous Hair; Rounding Out the Figure and Removing Hairy Growths, Etc.

By Madame Madeline Maree

THIS SHAMPOO PROMOTES SCALP AND HAIR HEALTH

So many women protest against the harshness, lack of cleansing properties and injurious effect on scalp and hair of the average prepared shampoo that I am giving the formula for one which I find meets all the requirements for thoroughly cleansing the scalp, leaving it healthy and pliant and giving a delightful lustre to the hair. Get from your druggist 25c worth of eggol and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. This is ample for the heaviest growth of hair, and while it readily dissolves all dirt and sandruff, does not rob the scalp of the oil necessary to insure scalp and hair-health. Rinsing leaves the scalp immaculately clean and gives to the hair the beautiful sheen and soft, silky fluffiness so much admired. This shampoo cannot possibly irritate nor injure the most sensitive scalp.

MISS E.—Improper nourishment is the cause of undevelopment. Correct it and your figure soon will assume its proper contour. I am giving you the formula which has produced pleasing results in hundreds of cases. But remember, if you start the treatment you must keep it up for at least a month. Here is the formula: Make a syrup with one and a half cupfuls granulated sugar and a pint of water, then into it stir an ounce of gailol. The dose is a tablespoonful twice each day. It will cost you a dollar to make up this formula, but were you to buy the same quantity ready prepared the price would be at least a dollar and a half more.

JENNIE.—Sensitive skins like yours require a special lotion to keep them soft and delicately soft and smooth. You will find this lotion excellent for chaps, rough skin, redness and similar troubles, and the entire cost for a whole pint will not exceed fifty cents, while buying it ready to use would cost at least a dollar for the same quantity.

MRS. A. D.—As a wrinkle-remover and skin-cleanser you find a rolling massage cream made from sweet milk far more satisfactory than anything else you can buy, and while a 2-ounce jar of any reliable brand costs 50c, you can make four times as much for the same price if you use this formula: To 1/2 pint of sweet unskimmed milk add 2 ounces of lard. When thoroughly dissolved heat until it nearly boils and stir it well. This makes a full half pound of a really delightful rolling massage cream. As a pore-cleanser and skin-beautifier it is
