Suffragists Jubilant Over Victory.
"Line's busy!" This was all the response vouchsafed when prominent suffragists of the city were called this morning. With such a victory for suffrage, even Red Cross work was forgotten for the moment and Red Cross headquarters were almost deserted when I stopped there.

As for social functions I am sure that the only topic of conversation about the luncheon tables and over the knitting needles was this great event in the history of suffrage.

Mrs. Draper Smith's friends are teasing her about a dinner she promised to give if suffrage won in New York. Mrs. Smith is "game" and plans to abide by her promise, but the prospect is the suffrage dinner will assume larger proportions than a private dinner party.

Mrs. H. C. Sumney telephoned Mrs. Smith at 7:30 this morning. "Is that dinner going to be given tonight? I'm ready to go now," she said. Both of the women were too excited and overjoyed to take a morsel of breakfast themselves.

Another suffragist friend twitted Mrs. Smith, "I expected to go out of town, but now I'm going to stay for your dinner." Still another called, "I'm ill in bed now, but I know I'm going to be well enough to go to your dinner."

"What will I have for a centerpiece?" counterquestioned Mrs. Smith.

"You won't need any. We'll dance on the table for the centerpiece if you like," replied the jubilant suff.

Betrothal of Interest.
Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Patterson of Kansas City announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred Patterson, to Charles N. Bull, jr., of Brooklyn, a nephew of the late Dr. William T. Bull of New York.

Miss Patterson attended Mrs. Dow's school at Briarcliff, and for the last year and a half has been engaged in Red Cross work in the west. She is a cousin of Miss Eugenie Patterson and Mrs. Miriam Boyce of Omaha and has often visited here. Mr. Bull is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Bull of Brooklyn, his father being one of the pioneers of Crescent Athletic club, and he is a prominent tennis player. He is a member of the banking firm of Bull & Eldridge in Wall street. Last summer he received his commission as captain at the Plattsburg training camp and is now stationed at Camp Upton.

No date has been set for the wedding.

An art program was given by the Business Women's club Tuesday evening after the regular dinner and business meeting. Devotions were led by Miss Grace Oddie; a reading was given by Miss Beulah Hall; current events, Miss Emma Farm; vocal solos by Mrs. Lang; talk on Blenheim, Miss Elizabeth Kaufman; a paper on Sargent by Miss Frances Lavidge; one on Abbey by Miss Gertrude Bush, and a piano solo by Miss Taylor.

When Milady Goes Shopping

"A champion seldom fights at his best until cornered and placed at bay; till he's up against the acid test, in the heart of a driving fray." : : : : :
"Well, we are cornered, friends! As champions will we prove our worth?" : : : : :

By ADELAIDE KENNERLY.
A champion seldom fights at his best until cornered and placed at bay; till he's up against the acid test, in the heart of a driving fray. When the crowd that has come to cheer for him is in grim despair. While his rival's henchmen hoot and cheer—Then the champion proves his worth.

And I believe that women are natural-born champions. They fight at their best when cornered, but lag when things are moving smoothly.

Well, we are cornered, friends! We are facing grave problems. The war is causing a shortage—growing worse every day—of help. This means that many women will have not only to do their own housework, but that they must do their bit for the Red Cross and a dozen other organizations mothered by war necessities. This strenuous period will teach women business methods; it will make them clever and efficient buyers—for is not woman the big buyer of the country? Is she not the buyer for the home?

Competition is keen. Retailers are offering bargains. They are offering as much as possible for the money to those who know what their money should buy.

Are women going shabby because of the war?
Not so long as they can figure out the cost of a gown from their allowances.

Are they to wear ragged, runover shoes? Never! Women must be more attractive than ever, according to the prophesy of a local philosopher who says that the scarcity of men will make women pay a great deal of attention to their personal appearance.

Woman may be smart; she may have talent; she is fortunate to have natural judgment, but she must have beauty.

Styles this season are sane. Models are built on comfortable lines. And remember, when you go shopping that skirts are a little longer this season, though not as long as some of the advanced models shown last season. The width of skirts is materially decreased, this being necessary where tunic and redingote effects are used, but even the straight skirts with plaits effect the slim silhouette.

We are cornered now. We must fight our best to look well and make every dollar buy its most instead of its bit.

We are all champions—don't forget it.

America Now Produces Its Own Enamel Wares

The United States for the first time in its history is now producing all of the enameled utensils used in American households, and in addition is able to supply large quantities to Europe and South and Central American countries.

According to figures recently compiled, housewives of the United States are at present buying enameled utensils at about the rate of $30,000,000 yearly. In former years a considerable portion of these goods were supplied by manufacturers of Sweden, Germany and Austria. Since the beginning of the war there has been a steady decline in these importations, and at present they are practically nil.

Japan for a time sent in shipments of the ware, but as the quality of the Japanese goods was unsatisfactory, the supply from this source has ended.

Thirty large American companies are engaged in the production of enameled ware and since the beginning of the war factory facilities have been greatly increased. These concerns are able not only to meet domestic needs, but also produce a surplus for export.

This year the shipments to foreign countries will be not less than $2,000,000 and there are indications of a further rapid expansion if the war continues.

Consolidated Rural School

The days of the little red school house are fast drawing to a close, says the Minneapolis Journal.

The one-room school is an expensive educational institution, as compared with the consolidated or co-cost of three schools in Minnesota, the money expended in consolidated rural schools brings so much more for the outlay that no consolidated district would for a moment contemplate going back to the old small-unit system.

Eight-room school buildings, heated, lighted and ventilated in a superior way; provided with janitor service, gymnasiums, auditoriums, equipped playgrounds, school gardens and comfortable buses for carrying the children to and from school, are the coming successor of the one-room rural school. Such schools often prove to be superior in their service to the corresponding city schools, and the cost of their service to the rural taxpayer has averaged but a trifle more in Minnesota than the old, inefficient, blundering service given by the one-room school.

Y. M. C. A. AIM IS $16,000 EACH DAY

Association Sets $16,666 As Daily Mark in Campaign For War Funds Next Week.

The Young Men's Christian association expects to raise $16,000.00 every day next week in Omaha for the association's work among the soldiers and sailors. Nebraska is expected to give $250,000 and the whole nation $35,000,000 toward this cause.

J. Dean Ringer, Omaha, executive committee chairman, is arranging to have a 16-foot "clock" placed on the Wead building, Eighteenth and Farnam streets, the hands of which will show the progress of the work.

Daily meetings of the soliciting committee will be held in the south room of the Commercial club. H. M. Beardley, former mayor of Kansas City, will speak before the public affairs committee at the Commercial club Monday noon. The women will help in the campaign and have established headquarters in room 482, Saunders-Kennedy building.

School boys of the state are expected to give $30,000 of the total sum. Practically every county in the state now has boys' campaign directors. No boy can give less than $10 and the money must have been earned by the boy himself.

Harry Pollok Lucky Guy; Makes Coin on Oil Strike

Harry Pollok, the Boston oil broker, who for years looked after the business end of Freddie Welsh's fighting combination, reports business booming in the oil returns of Kentucky, and says men are becoming wealthy between sunup and sunset every day. The boom is the greatest in the history of Kentucky.

Pollok is matchmaker of the Manhattan arena, and also has Irish Patsy Cline in his stable. "This boy Mars must be a world's wonder," said Pollok. "New York sports are missing something when the matchmakers pass him up. I am going to give him a chance against some good man."

Pollok stated that Freddie Welsh retired from the game a wealthy man, and is now making a comfortable living conducting a health farm at Summit, N. J., where he resides with his wife and children.

What Kind of Pictures Do You Hang on Your Wall?

The indiscriminate hanging of pictures which has been so long the vogue is much to be deplored. A picture that is intrinsically good, and bears relationship to other things of interest, can always be used, but there are many pictures used to fill up space, or because they have beautiful frames, and not because the subject is appropriate or the picture itself is good.

If one has no pictures to start with, good photographs of old masters or old colored prints are interesting. The decorative quality of a picture is enhanced by the right background, the height at which it is hung, and its juxtaposition to other pictures. A modern picture is usually out of place on an antique background, and an antique picture has not a good setting in a strictly modern room.

It is, indeed, a special talent to know just how much a decorative object really decorates. To crowd the walls, even with very beautiful things, is to fall far short in artistic taste. Unless it is an exhibit where all things of a certain type or class are to be kept together, proper space should be allowed for each object, so that it may have its full decorative value.

The heightening or lowering of ceilings can be accomplished effectively by the use of picture-molding. In a low-ceilinged room the picture molding should be placed within two inches of the top; in a high-ceilinged room 18 inches to three feet is a good height.

Building the Pullman Car

THE strength of the Pullman Car represents one of the best forms of insurance the traveler can buy.

In addition to the factor of safety, fifty years of experience in designing and building cars has brought about an almost unheard of development in travel convenience and luxury.

For seven years every car built by the Pullman Company for its service has been of steel.

During this period a large proportion of the older, but still modern cars, have also been rebuilt to almost equal strength.

This has been accomplished by rebuilding with steel under frames, steel vestibules and steel sheathing on the sides.

The modern Pullman is fully equipped with the most up-to-date steam heating, electric lighting and plumbing.

It offers a degree of safety, innumerable luxuries and a personal service that have established a world-wide reputation.
