

"OWN YOUR HOME" CAMPAIGN SOON

Local Real Estate Men to Perfect Plan Whereby Houses Will be Found For All Investors.

The Omaha real estate board has under consideration a campaign with the slogan, "Own your home." The National Association of Real Estate Boards has undertaken a campaign which shall be nationwide and a number of the principal cities will cooperate. A large sum of money for advertising purposes has already been provided. The whole question will receive further consideration at the meeting of the Omaha board November 28.

There are those on the board who feel that this is not an opportune time, believing that the cost of building and the call for money for other purposes may interfere. After an interesting debate at the Wednesday meeting, in which the speeches were decidedly patriotic, a majority of the members present seemed to be of the opinion that such a campaign would be in harmony with the conservation idea prevailing throughout the country today.

There is a demand for homes that is steadily growing and shows a revival of interest in this direction compared with six months or a year ago, is the consensus of opinion among realtors. A number of realtors report more sales of houses built some time ago than for several years. This is due to the fact that these houses can be bought cheaper than houses can be built today and with some changes are just as modern and in many cases better built.

Those who build houses to sell as a business also report increased activity. A realtor selling a lot to one of these builders within the week found that the increased cost of the house did not seem to prevent the purchaser from promptly negotiating for a place that suited him.

Prices Sharply Up. The builder reported several in-

Round Out Half Century Traveling Hand in Hand

MR. AND MRS. PAUL SCHMIDT.

West Point, Neb., Nov. 16.—(Special.)—Thirty-eight years ago Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schmidt arrived in the United States from Germany. Tales of the prosperity of the west were alluring to them and they turned their faces toward the setting sun, not stopping until they reached Nebraska. Here they found the Mecca they had sought and settled near West Point, where they have since resided. Here they have reared their family and here November 4 they celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. The anniversary was the occasion for a family reunion that was attended by children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. To Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt were born six children, three boys and three girls, as follows: Paul Schmidt, Belden; Peter Schmidt Bancroft and Steve Schmidt, West Point; Mrs. Albert Sellertine, Belden; Mrs. Anton Rasmussen, Omaha and Mrs. William Ackerman, Omaha.

Besides the six children present at the anniversary and reunion were the 20 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The general opinion of those who are building that the cost of building will not be sufficiently diminished in the next two or three years to make much difference and that the homeless people are getting more money for their services than ever before.

IRRIGATE WITH WAR CASH, SAYS SHUMWAY

Land Commissioner Says Here Is Certain Way to Get Sure Returns in Supplies for Money.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Lincoln, Nov. 17.—(Special.)—Payment by the government of the expense of all irrigation projects from the next war appropriation is the proposition that Land Commissioner Shumway advocates, conditioned upon the irrigated area being put into crops, in a statement issued today. Speaking of the matter, he says in part:

"The country wants wheat, and that is a wheat country out west. The country wants sugar, and the sugar beets grow best in the higher sunlit altitudes. A half a billion dollars will irrigate 10,000,000 acres, but let us say 5,000,000 acres. An acre of irrigated wheat will yield 30 sacks of flour per acre, or 1,500 one-pound loaves.

"Irrigated beets will yield 40 sacks of sugar per acre. Every acre will supply 50 people, a normal 80 pounds per year. A million acres of beets means 80 pounds per capita for 50,000,000 people. A million acres of wheat, 30,000,000 sacks of flour, or 1,500,000,000 loaves of bread. That still would leave 3,000,000 acres for further supplies."

Plans His Own Funeral

W. T. Ficklin of Paris, Ky., who is in his 90th year, prides himself on being eccentric. It has been his fad for many years to do things differently from other people. Recently, feeling that his days on earth were numbered, he made all arrangements for his funeral. These arrangements will be carried out by a friend to whom he entrusted his plans. Purchasing a lot in the Paris cemetery, he arranged with a local monument carver to have his likeness cut on his tombstone and the date of his birth, leaving the date of death blank.

Ficklin had his photograph taken leaning against his tombstone. He was especially pleased over the fact that he has been able to visit his own burial place and study his features on his own gravestone.

In lengthy instructions to his executors-to-be he provides for his funeral as follows: "The funeral is to be held in the Paris Opera house, with a noted free thinker delivering the oration. No signs of mourning are to be indulged in, but he desires all present to have a good time. Refreshments are to be served to the women present, with cigars to the men. At the conclusion of the opera house ceremonies the body is to be taken to the cemetery, the cortege being headed by two brass bands playing alternately "Dixie," the "Star Spangled Banner" and his oldtime favorite, "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

No services are to be held at the grave other than a concert by the band, no sacred music being permissible.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Shells With Scissors to Cut Wire Entanglements

There seems no limit to what the new shells can do. One of the latest shells has a sort of scissors attachment which, when released by the explosion, will cut through the strongest wire entanglements. Another releases a number of short chains when it explodes. These chains are sure to wreck anything they touch.

The scissors shell has an opening in the casing through which the cutting arms project. They are slightly recessed in order to avoid wind resistance. The arms are attached near the nose of the projectile. They are mounted on steel studs in such a manner that they can rock and expand in order to throw the free ends outward toward the base of the shell. The chain shell is constructed similarly except that short chains are wound around the gaine and separated by disks which keep them in place until the projectile is emptied. Sometimes the chains are weighted heavily at the ends. When the explosion takes place the chains fly out with fearful force and in addition to their high-speed forward movement they rotate rapidly. Needless to say, where they hit something, there is nothing left.—Popular Science Monthly.
