

KING'S HIGHWAY IS TO BE DECIDED

Proposed Route For New Trail From Mexico to Canada Now in Stages of Final Decision.

One hundred delegates from the states represented on the King of Trails Highway, extending from Mexico City to the Twin Cities, are gathered at the local Automobile club to take final action on the proposed trail.

But one big contest over the proposed trail remains to be settled. The undecided stretch lies between Sioux City and Ortonville, Minn., a distance of 250 miles. Delegates, led by Governor Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, will argue the advantage of the South Dakota trail, which runs through Sioux Falls, Dell Falls and Clear Lake, while the Minnesota delegation is pushing the advantages of a highway passing through Ivanhoe, Pipestone and Luverne, Minn.

Governors to Decide
The governing board, which will decide the question, consists of N. F. Soderberg, Madison, Minn.; A. F. Brownell, Sioux Falls, S. D.; N. Baalkerna, Sioux Center, Ia.; H. R. Howe, Auburn, Neb.; Harry Sharp, Atchison, Kan. and D. W. Gust, Eufaula, Okla.

W. W. Brown, Parsons, Kan., national president of the King of Trails association, and F. A. Davis, Kansas City, Mo., are in attendance at the meeting.

Members of this association declare that over half of the highway is now completed.

Commissioners Give Up Space For Women's League

Mrs. George A. Joslyn's committee of the National Woman's League for Patriotic Service has been given the two committee rooms of the county commissioners' suite in the court house for the local league's service rooms.

The woman's league was given the Grand Army of the Republic rooms by the commissioners last week, but the action met with such strenuous opposition from the Grand Army of the Republic that the commissioners had to back up on their arrangements. No other rooms being available, the commissioners had to give up their own extra space for the good of the cause.

Woman's League for Patriotic Service moved into the new quarters today as the commissioners moved out. Knitting and bandage rolling will soon be in progress in the new rooms. The commissioners will hold their committee meetings in the outer office hereafter.

Florence Now Has Big Modern Chemical Truck

Superintendent Withnell of the fire department has installed a modern combination hose and chemical truck in the fire house at Florence. The company at this house will respond to alarms as far south as Mine Lusa, and will be able to furnish better protection to the north end of Greater Omaha. There are four men on each shift at this house. This is another step forward for Florence since its admission to the greater city.

W. C. Teagle, 39 Years Old, New President of Standard Oil Co.

New York, Nov. 21.—The board of directors of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey elected A. C. Bedford chairman of the board and made Walter Clark Teagle president of the company. Mr. Bedford has been president and Mr. Teagle a director and formerly a vice president.

The change is noteworthy in that it brings to a position of great power a comparatively young man. Mr. Teagle is only 39 years old and is considered one of the most competent corporation executives of the country. For several years he has been in charge of the Standard Oil company's export business, and did much to build up that world-wide commerce.

Mr. Teagle's father and grandfather were known as "Standard Oil men." His maternal grandfather, Morris B. Clark, was one of the pioneers of Cleveland, O., and was the first partner of John D. Rockefeller. They were then in the grain trade and later went into the oil refining business at Cleveland.

Mr. Teagle's father was a member of the oil firm of Scofield, Schurmer & Teagle of Cleveland, where Mr. Teagle was born. He was graduated at Cornell university with the degree of bachelor of science and at once entered his father's oil firm at Cleveland. When that firm was merged with the Republic Oil company, in 1900, Mr. Teagle became vice president and three years later was called to the export department of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, with offices at No. 26 Broadway.

In college he was known as a "live wire," was manager of several athletic teams and in the forefront of student activities and he continued with that reputation in business.

For several years Mr. Teagle lived abroad and became thoroughly familiar with the oil trade in foreign countries. When recalled to New York he was elected a director of the company and later became one of its vice presidents.

CRUTCHFIELD GIVES MONEY TO CHARITY

Wealthy Negro, Part Owner of Midway, Disposes of $50,000 Among His Friends and Wife.

The will of the late William Crutchfield, better known as "Billy" Crutchfield, partner with Johnny Bloomfield in the ownership of the Midway saloon, has been filed for probate. Crutchfield and his partner were reckoned as the wealthiest colored men in Omaha. The will covers an estate variously estimated from $35,000 to $50,000 and includes real estate of undetermined value outside the state of Nebraska.

The testament bequeaths "to my beloved wife, Myrtle Crutchfield, otherwise known as Mrs. W. F. Garrity, 2527 Patrick avenue, all my jewelry and ornaments and personal effects," together with $10,000 cash. Crutchfield's diamonds alone are said to be worth several thousand dollars.

Faithful Friend Remembered.
To his mother he bequeathed $5,000; to three brothers, $500 each; his nephews and nieces each receive bequests of $500. Homer Jones, "on account of his faithful friendship," is given $500.

Money for Old Folks' Home.
To "Maggie, the widow of Nate Brown," he wills $500; and to Grace Folks, "for her faithful service," $200. He bequeaths his interest in the old Midway saloon to his partner in the enterprise, John Bloomfield.

To the Old Folks' Home he bequeaths $500 and to a monument for himself $1,000.

His wife and his mother are awarded equal shares of all the residue of the estate. Mrs. Myrtle Crutchfield, otherwise known as Mrs. W. F. Garrity, and his wife, with John Bloomfield and A. S. Ritchie, are named as executors of the will without bond.

Kicks on Cabbage For Sunday; He Wants Chicken

Her husband wouldn't allow her to turn over in bed and her left ear became so paralyzed from sleeping on it that she had to go up to the attic in the night so she could lie on the other ear a while, averred Myrtle Mahoney to Judge Day in an effort to secure a divorce from William M. Mahoney.

They had other domestic troubles, too. She said that he raised a strenuous objection when he came home and found her cooking cabbage for Sunday dinner instead of chicken. He stated that he liked chicken and would eat no cabbage on Sunday.

The couple was divorced some time ago, but slipped away to Council Bluffs shortly after and were remarried. Mrs. Mahoney is backed by a swarm of witnesses to testify as to her ability to cook good meals and keep house.

Old Time Card Shows Time Cut in Half to Chicago

At the Omaha headquarters of the Northwestern Railroad company was found in the archives a time card effective October 4, 1875. At that time the train schedule between Omaha and Chicago was 23½ hours for the fast train, whereas now it is 12½.

The old-time card of the Northwestern indicates that when it became effective there were two passenger trains each way daily between Omaha and Chicago, whereas now there are eight.

October 4, 1875 the western lines of the Northwestern had reached a point as far out as Visner, Neb., and beyond there construction had been discontinued. Between Omaha and Visner a mixed train was operated, making the round trip each day.

Silverware Stolen From Harding Home Recovered

A suit case of battered silverware, in his possession, caused the arrest of Charles Murray, Wilmington, Neb., Wednesday morning. When taken into custody by Officer Shoop, Murray was attempting to dispose of the silver to a second-hand man on South Eleventh.

J. M. Harding, 138 North Thirty-eighth avenue, later identified the articles as those which had been stolen from his home Monday night. Murray will be held for investigation. The stolen goods, which had been valued at $500, are now little better than junk.

Belle Ryan Goes to Chicago For a Rest

Belle Ryan, assistant superintendent of public schools, has sufficiently recovered from an illness to enable her to go to Chicago for a rest which her physician says she must have to effect complete recovery. A sister is with Miss Ryan.

She overworked herself during the recent State Teachers' convention, of which she was secretary, and she had much to do with the preliminary arrangements of the convention.

On the Sunday following the last day of the convention her illness became marked, but subsequent attention and rest have improved her.

Faithful Fire Horse Dead; Trucks Now Cop All Glory

Dan is dead. He was only a fire horse, but his demise caused the firemen at House No. 3, Nineteenth and Harney streets, to mourn.

Dan was one of a number of horses which were to be sold on account of the recent acquisition of motor equipment. The faithful animal was taken down to the horse barn at the stock yards, where horse buyers might look him over.

He was stricken with influenza, Chief Salter said, but a fireman who knew Dan better than the chief did, stated that Dan grieved because he was removed from his old associations. This horse responded to alarms for five years and always was eager to show his speed when making a fire.

Arrest Man Tampering With Railroad Switch

James Sullivan, discovered by railroad trainmen tampering with a switch near the Pappio bridge, on the Union Pacific, has been arrested by Harry Neal, special officer of the Union Pacific.

The switch was on the line where a fast passenger train from Denver to Omaha, was scheduled to pass soon. Should this switch be thrown, a speeding train would plunge in the Pappio creek.

Injured by Shock as Elevator Falls at Armour's

Frank Johnson, working in the hog killing department of Armour & Co., sustained a severe shock Wednesday when the elevator on which he was riding fell from the sixth floor, caused by the pulling out of a bolt that held the cable.

Johnson, who lives at Forty-fourth and B streets, was taken to the South Omaha hospital.

Firemen Check Blaze in Methodist Nurses' Home

Nurses at the Nebraska Methodist hospital nurses' home were thrown into panic by discovering smoke and flames issuing from the building. The department was called and succeeded in checking the blaze before much damage was done. The home is immediately adjacent to the Methodist hospital, on west Cuming street.

Police Instruct Theaters To Watch Small Packages

In consequence of the discovery recently of a bomb in the Auditorium in Chicago, local theaters have been notified to allow no patrons to carry a package or valise to their seats.

There isn't any artful "Camouflage" in the Dundee way of selling clothing

Freely translated, the word "Camouflage" means "making things look like what they ain't." There isn't any "camouflage" about this store. We haven't any desire to make it seem like an adventure in real estate. Nor do we attempt to have it appear to be a collection agency. We aren't competitors of the American Transfer Co., or the Omaha Taxicab Co.—we don't operate a fleet of delivery automobiles.
