

RUSSIA GROANS UNDER MISRULE OF BOLSHIEVIKI

New Regime Denounced as Worse Than Czar's; Maximalist Ministers Resign; Recall Troops.

Stockholm, Nov. 21.—Reports brought by the latest travelers to reach, Tornea from Petrograd indicate that a revulsion of feeling is setting in against the Bolshieviki. Regiments of soldiers have paraded the streets of the Russian capital bearing banners with inscriptions such as "We want no separate peace," "Down with Petrograd's domination by a minority party tyranny" and "Nicholas's regime was never so tyrannic as the Bolshieviki regime."

ANTI-FACTION APPEARS.

The central committee of the anti-Bolshieviki socialist coalition has passed a resolution demanding liberty of the press, the dismissal of the Red Guard and the immediate cessation of fratricidal war. Maxim Gorky's paper and the Volna Narodna also demand that the Red Guard be disbanded.

American Minister Morris learns from a competent source that the food supply in Petrograd is ominously short and that the bread ration is now three-quarters of a Russian pound for two days.

Nearly one-third of the members of the executive committee formed by the Maximalists at the outbreak of the revolt have resigned and it is reported that the remainder have conferred dictatorial law-making powers on Nikolai Lenin, who is now issuing decrees altering the fundamental laws.

Trotzky Takes Foreign Office.

Petrograd, Tuesday, Nov. 20.—The foreign office has been taken over by Leon Trotzky, Sub-Secretary Neratoff, who has had charge since the arrest of M. Terestchenko, formally surrendering control and departing along with the other employees. Military staff headquarters work is reported to be at a standstill except the business of army supply.

The Volna Narodna says that within a few days Lenin and Trotzky will announce the successful establishment of a workmen's and peasants' government, after which it is hoped that foreign governments will enter into official negotiations through the new foreign minister.

Ukraine Recalls Troops.

The military chief of the district of Kiev and the temporary governor, with their staffs, are reported to have left their posts. Ukrainian commissaries have been appointed to succeed them and they have confirmed the independence of the Ukraine. Three hundred and sixty thousand Ukrainian troops are said to have been recalled from the front. This is commented upon here as meaning a serious crippling of the army and the possible opening of the front to the enemy.

Moscow Duma Dissolved.

The town Duma of Moscow has been dissolved by the revolutionary war committee. Mayor Roudeneff of Moscow is reported to be in hiding to escape threatened arrest. An armored train bound for Petrograd has been captured by detachments of sailors and returned to Moscow.

A breach in the workmen's and soldiers' organizations through the existence of two central committees, each claiming authority as the duly constituted body and denying the rights of the other.

BRITISH TRIUMPH IN HOT NAVAL FIGHT

Sink German Cruiser and Ten Armed Patrols at Entrance to Baltic Sea.

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)

Base of British Grand Fleet, Nov. 9.—The recent naval action in the Categat, where the British sank a German cruiser and ten armed patrol ships, is an example of the careful planning which lies behind every move on the naval chart. A comparatively insignificant force of British destroyers and light cruisers were the actual stage performers in the little Skagerrak drama.

The actual fight began about 7 o'clock in the morning and was over three hours later. The German fleet behind its fortifications received the calls for help, but dared not take a chance—probably well knowing that any attempt to send out help would be confronted with enemies rising out of the sea from all directions.

The Categat is a deep bay lying between Denmark and Sweden and leading out through the Skagerrak into the North Sea near the scene of the famous Jutland battle. A fog lay over the entire Categat throughout the action and the British destroyers picked off their victims one by one and sank them. The German auxiliary cruiser Marie, which was leading the fleet of patrol boats, was a ship of 3,000 tons.

German Captain Wounded.

Its captain, Herr Lauterbach, was wounded, but reached the Danish shore safely. His ship, which had four guns and a crew of 90, was "suddenly attacked," he said in an interview with a Danish newspaperman afterward, "by a fleet of British destroyers and the shells fired by them descended with such rapidity that the men on the Marie were almost unable to use the guns. Only a few shots were fired before the ship was a mass of flames."

British and American naval men who have been on the China station in years past will remember Captain Lauterbach. He was known from Shanghai to Vladivostok as "Baron Munchausen," and is said to have been the most unpopular German naval officer in the far east. His unpopularity extended even to his own men, and in the Categat battle the first remark made by a German blue-jacket rescued from the sea was a fervently expressed hope that the British had not made the mistake of rescuing his captain.

Lauterbach's naval reputation probably will suffer somewhat from the Categat battle. His report that he fired his guns as long as possible is denied by his own men, who declared that Lauterbach was "seized with funk" as soon as the enemy appeared, and that not a single shot was fired from the Marie's guns.

Was About to Make Raid.

Presumably the Marie was making its way toward the trade route between Norway and Scotland, in hopes of repeating the successful German attack on the British convoy on October 17. The British commander concentrated his fire first of all on the Marie, and then detached his fastest vessels to round up the escorting patrol vessels. This was thoroughly done after a hunt lasting nearly three hours. This action, it should be remembered, occurred in waters which the Germans regard as practically one of their "inland seas." The Categat is the gateway to the Baltic. The scene of the fight is 500 miles from the nearest British coast, but less than 200 miles from Kiel.

An interesting comparison might be made between this clean victory by the British destroyers and the tip-and-run raid by the German light cruisers on a British convoy on October 17.

The Germans sent out two of their fastest cruisers in the darkness, struck their blow in nervous haste in the early morning hours, not even pausing to rescue a single life of hundreds of combatants and non-combatants, then ran away northward to spend the remaining hours of daylight in hiding, and when night fell, dashed down the Norwegian coast and thus returned home without being intercepted.

British Rescue 64.

On the occasion of the British victory the fight occurred not in the North Sea, but on Germany's doorstep; not at night but in daylight; not hurriedly or nervously, for 64 prisoners were taken, drowning men rescued from the water, thus providing another vivid contrast between German and British methods of warfare. Moreover, no noncombatant lives were lost or endangered in the British action, whereas the Germans ruthlessly and unnecessarily sacrificed scores of innocent neutrals.

Allies Soon Will Become Masters of Air Conflicts

Rome, Nov. 21.—Gabriele d'Annunzio writes to a friend that he is working indefatigably with his companion airmen of the Italian army in a most risky undertaking, the results of which cannot be revealed. In the letter he says:

"Like Antaeus, every time the entente falls it rises again with redoubled vigor, because it represents invincible right. Thus the Italian reverse is now causing a revival of the energies of the allies, which will lead to ultimate victory. Unlike Antaeus, who was crushed by Hercules when he was cut off from contact with Mother Earth, the airmen will be the salvation of the present war in their contact with and command of the all-pervading atmosphere."

"Soon, with the assistance of America, we will be absolute masters of the air."

"My Aim is to Be Victory."

Says New French Premier Paris, Tuesday, Nov. 20.—The war aim of Premier Clemenceau is to be a victor, he told the Chamber of Deputies today.

"If Germany tomorrow expressed a wish to enter into the society of nations, I would not agree," M. Clemenceau said, "for Germany's signature cannot be trusted."

"You ask what my war aims are? My aim is to be a victor." During interpellations after the ministerial declaration, Deputy Pierre Forget demanded the firm handling of the political scandals. He declared that Louis J. Malvy, former minister of the interior, either is a traitor or that Leon Daudet, Malvy's accuser, is a scoundrel. He demanded that the connection with the scandals of Joseph Caillaux, the former premier, should be made clear.

Premier Clemenceau made an approving gesture and M. Caillaux applauded, but the premier in reply refused to enter into details. He assured the chamber that justice would be dealt rapidly and relentlessly for crimes against the country. The premier expressed sympathy with the socialists and idealists, but declared that experiments were impossible in war time. He turned the laugh on some of his interrupters by saying that the only advantage of old age is that one becomes deaf.
