Resolutions Adopted by Implemented Dealers Call For Un-divided Support of Government During War.

Rather than swap off a good horse in the middle of the stream the Midwest Implement Dealers' association decided to re-elect President C. E. Gallagher of Coleridge for another year. Secretary James Wallace of Council Bluffs also was re-elected. The chairman of the nominating committee said he and the committee felt justified in drafting Gallagher for another year, now that the country is in a war and the times are extraordinary.

Oscar Rystrom of Stromsburg was elected vice president. E. E. Morse of Turin, Ia., and B. P. Laird of Tabor, Ia., were elected directors. Urge Early Shipments. The resolutions adopted pledged the moral and material support of the association to the government and to the boys in the trenches throughout the war; urged early contracts and early shipments; held that since deliveries in the country add to the cost of doing business they should be borne by the purchaser; approved the work of the American Trade League in its purpose to obtain service work through the medium of the Stephens' standard price bill; and commended the association and the national federation in their valuable assistance in defeating the effort to change the minimum carload weight on mixtures of certain classes of machinery.

E. W. McCullough, secretary of the National Implement and Vehicle Dealers' association, Chicago, spoke on the outlook of the implement business. He said there are four principal forces in crop production—the farmer, the agricultural extension forces, the implement dealer and the implement manufacturer.

Talk on Conservation. J. V. Parrish, publicity manager of the Nebraska food administration, told of the work of the administration and said that in the clash between autocracy and democracy, democracy has responded 95 per cent strong in voluntary co-operation to conserve foods and all the things that go to make a successful war.

T. N. Witten of Trenton, Mo., talked of everything from brotherly love to seed corn. "I hope the day will come when the wholesalers in Omaha will close their places of business while the convention is on," he said, "and come here and attend these meetings. Their salesmen ought to be here mingling with you, and I know some of the sales managers who could learn a lot here, to say nothing of some of the vice presidents."

High School Pupils Hold Patriotic Mass Meeting

A patriotic mass meeting of the pupils of the Central High school was held yesterday in the school auditorium. Patriotic songs were played by the cadet band and addresses were given by the pupils concerning the campaign to raise funds for the soldiers.

A group of girls dressed as Columbia were on the platform. At the close of the meeting they saluted a huge American flag which was lowered. Magazines and old papers continue to be brought by the pupils. About $15 has been raised so far by this method. Mite boxes will be placed in the first hour rooms next week in which to put savings. The boys and girls will have separate boxes to make competition keener. The annual contribution to the visiting nurses' fund will be made Tuesday.

Forty Dollars a Quart is Price Man Paid for Beer

Forty dollars a quart is a high price for beer, even in these days. That is the price L. A. Gatzmeyer paid. He was arrested at Dakota City a short time ago and fined $100 by the state authorities for having beer in his possession. He was transporting it in a Ford car. The state officers didn't find it all and after paying his fine Gatzmeyer proceeded and was arrested later on the Winnebago Indian reservation. There the rest of the "booze" was discovered. The federal government filed confiscation proceedings on the car. Thursday Deputy United States Marshal Morgan sold the car at auction and Gatzmeyer bid it in for $300, though the price of a new Ford is only $382.
