

DARING CANADIAN HORSEMEN SABER GERMAN GUNNERS IN CHARGE OF BLOOD AND DEATH

(By Associated Press.)
British Headquarters in France, Nov. 27.—The British cavalry has had many thrilling experiences since the battle began in the Cambrai sector last Tuesday and opened a way for them into the great territory over which they have roamed almost at will, like the cavaliers of old, seeking combats with those who would accept their challenge.

STORY OF STRATEGY.
Stories of their gallant charges with drawn sabers against enemy batteries and strong infantry positions have been innumerable. But perhaps none of them had a more exciting time than a squadron of Canadian horsemen, who took their way in a northeasterly direction from Masnières after the eventful smashing of the Hindenburg line.

They swept proudly out of Masnières on their chargers with their sabers making merry music against their trappings. They returned afoot and thereby hangs a narrative of bravery and strategy which is worth recording.

Tanks in Distress.
For a considerable distance the horsemen cantered along over the rolling grasslands without encountering any enemy. East of Rumilly, however, they came upon several British tanks which had run almost into a German battery position and were being fired at point blank by great guns.

The monitors were in a tight place and needed assistance badly. They got it. The cavalry came pounding up in columns of four and their leader, sizing up the situation, sent them swerving in on either side of the battery. Then they charged in straight among the gun crews, their sabers flashing. It was over in a moment and the last enemy lay trampled upon.

This incident finished, the cavalry trotted off in search of other adventures. Not far away was a sunken road which concealed considerable enemy forces armed with machine guns. Cavalry scouts discovered this trap, and dashing back, gave the word to the commander. The latter snapped out a command and the squadron, most of whom were still unaware of the presence of the sunken road, divided into two bodies, one of which turned to the right toward a break in the wall of the road, while the other drew their sabers and charged straight ahead.

Unaware of Danger.
The Germans, not knowing that British cavalry was in operation in that section, still remained in the big ditch and the Canadians reached the edge of the miniature precipice without seeing the enemy. They saw them, in numbers, and realized for the first time that they were headed for a drop of several feet to the level of the road.

Not a horseman hesitated. They took the flying leap straight down amongst the surprised Germans and began their work of death. Half a hundred of the enemy lay dead when the remainder took to their heels and fled toward Rumilly.

The cavalry commander then was out of touch with the remainder of the advancing British forces and decided to remain in the sunken road for a time until he could get orders. Accordingly he sent back a courier to carry information as to the location of the squad. It developed quickly that another force of German machine gunners was stationed in a command position nearby. These opened a gilling fire on the cavalry and succeeded in killing several horses within a short time.

It became apparent that the men and the rest of the horses must suffer the same fate if they remained where they were. The commander knew it would be suicide to ride out into the open and he seized upon an ingenious plan to outwit the Germans. The horses were gathered together and stamped with their empty saddles in the direction of Cambrai. The ruse worked, for the Germans peering through the mist thought the horsemen escaped.

The machine guns came into action against the galloping horses and the troopers meantime made good their escape from the road. They started back, but losing their way, at one time were actually in the outskirts of Rumilly. This may have given rise to a report which became current that the British had occupied the village.

Charged by Germans.
The Canadians continued their journey toward what they thought were the British lines. As they were proceeding they were charged by a German officer with nine men. It happened that among the troopers was a little chap who spoke German fluently. He was sent forward with orders to engage the officer in conversation until the rest of the troopers could close in with their sabers.

The little emissary fulfilled his mission by engrossing the attention of the officer with a cock and bull story to which the German listened because he did not know that the British cavalry was in his zone. He listened a moment too long, however, for the Canadians rushed in and killed the men accompanying the enemy officer. The latter was taken prisoner and compelled to conduct the horsemen back to their own lines.

VICE GREATEST FOE UNCLE SAM'S ARMY

Not Only Question of Morals, But Factor in Winning Battles, Says Episcopal Bishop.

(By Associated Press.)

Boston, Nov. 27.—Social diseases the army have become more than a question of morals and pity; they have become also a question of winning battles, Bishop William Lawrence of the Massachusetts Episcopal diocese, declared in a frank address before the episcopalian club tonight.

Speaking on "making an American soldier," he said that the meeting of vice conditions in Europe was one of the most baffling problems with which the military and sanitary authorities had to deal and that they needed the strong and intelligent support of the whole people.

"The loose living swashbuckler as an effective soldier has gone by the board," he said. "I believe that the time has come when the people should know his facts, not in sensational head lines, but as plain facts."

One in Six Diseased.
Quoting figures from the surgeon general's office of conditions in the army from 1911 to 1913, he said one recruit out of every six was diseased and that this figure was rather better than that of the young male population from which the army was recruited.

"The great body of our soldiers and sailors for our new army and navy are straight and clean," said Bishop Lawrence. "On the other hand there are in our communities a certain number of professionally loose women, and an appallingly large number of girls from 14 to 20 years of age, who, attracted by the uniform and the romance emotionally stirred by the unwonted excitement, either yield to or throw themselves at the young men."

Girls Greatest Danger.
"This is war and it is one of the dangers and sometimes one of the horrors of war that emotions, good and bad, are pitched to a high power. The greatest danger is with this last great class, the girls of our villages, towns and cities."

Urge War If U. S. Lives Lost in Austrian Attack

Washington, Nov. 27.—Inquiry regarding the nationality of the submarine that sank the American steamer Schuykill made by the State department has developed that the periscope was marked black and white, with a spiral design. Data in possession of the government does not reveal whether this indicates an Austrian vessel.

The State department is continuing its inquiry through consular officers at Mediterranean ports and should it be established that the Schuykill was sunk by an Austrian submarine, the State department, it was said today, would have in its possession the essential factors upon which to ask congress for an expression of its will regarding the further maintenance of peaceful relations with Austria.

Argentine War Party Refuses to Back Down

Buenos Aires, Nov. 27.—The social list party in a plebiscite has refused by a large majority to accept the resignation of the socialist members of the legislature who voted in Parliament in favor of a rupture of relations with Germany.

The resignation of these men was presented because of certain criticisms on the part of the socialists and advocates of neutrality. The former German Minister Count von Luxburg has arrived here from the island of Martin Garcia, and the newspapers are criticizing the authorities for permitting these comings and goings.

BRITISH MOVE ON JERUSALEM

Advance to Within Three and One-Half Miles of Holy City; Cavalry Scatter Turks.

By FRANK W. GETY.

(Staff Correspondent New York Tribune.)
London, Nov. 27.—(Special Cable to The Bee.)—The British forces under General Allenby have advanced to within three and one-half miles of Jerusalem. They have captured Bittir station, which is about six miles southwest of the holy city, and Ain Karim, two and a half miles nearer to the west of Jerusalem. The advance was effected in a strong cavalry dash, the official report given out tonight indicated.

The Turks have chosen the high ground to the west of the city for their final stand, also covering the Jerusalem-Shechem road to the north, with strong bodies of troops, an attack by the British forces on these defenses, and the actual siege of the city is imminent.

Following the fall of Jaffa, the port of Jerusalem, the advance of the British has been rapid. The Turks retreated, hardly contesting the way, evidently planning to reach the advantageous positions on the hills for their last effort to save the city.

Babes Drink Coffee; Milk Price Too High

Washington, Nov. 27.—High prices of milk in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other cities, have curtailed the consumption among the poorer classes, until many children under 6 years of age are being given tea and coffee by their parents, according to information made public today by the children's bureau of the department of labor. Owing to the rising cost of milk, families of small means have been forced to stop its use entirely or buy only half the quantity they need. A warning that serious harm will result from omitting milk from a child's diet, was issued by the bureau.

Two American Deserters Taken on Mexican Soil

Juarez, Mexico, Nov. 27.—Two American soldiers, in full field service uniform, were arrested here today and placed in the military detention prison pending an investigation of their presence here. The men admitted having come from Camp Fort Bliss, where, they said, they had been members of an infantry regiment.

American Consul E. A. Dow has been notified, and at the request of American military authorities will confiscate their uniforms.

An effort was begun to have them surrendered to the United States army at the international bridge, where they will be arrested on charges of desertion, during time of war, a most serious offense.

NO CURTAILMENT OF AUTOS, SAYS DEFENSE COUNCIL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—The tailment of passenger automobile production, which has been talked of since the manufacturers were called into conference recently with the advisory commission of the council of National Defense, has been found unnecessary, according to expert advisers of the commission. Facilities of the plants were said today to be sufficient for handling government work now in sight and steel manufacturers have given assurance that they can supply all the metal needed.
