

PLAN CAMPAIGN FOR MONEY TO FIX KIDDIES' TEETH

City-Wide Campaign to Raise $10,000 Saturday to Maintain Dental Dispensary in Omaha.

The big city-wide campaign to raise $10,000 to maintain Omaha's free dental dispensary for the coming year will begin at 7:30 a. m. next Saturday.

At the meeting at the city hall Tuesday night Miss Charlotte Townsend, head of the public health work in the schools, outlined the duties of the teams and captains who are to have charge of the campaign.

There is no more important public health institution in the city than the free dental dispensary, she said. "We cannot do without it."

Chairman Dr. F. P. Whitcomb of the board of trustees of the dispensary, said the institution was out of funds and that its work in the future and in fact its existence depended on the results of Saturday's campaign for funds.

The poor little kiddies want pretty teeth just as badly as a shop girl wants silk hosiery and high-topped shoes," said Dr. E. Willard Powell.

Sixty per cent of the cases due to infectious diseases among public school children in the city of Boston disappeared with that city's movement to take care of the children's teeth, according to Dr. Alfred O. Hitt.

The dispensary has handled and "finished" 2,183 cases of defective teeth since April of this year, according to its records.

"RED" CONDEMNNS BRUTAL MURDER OF DUKHONIN

Petrograd, via London, Dec. 5.—An official announcement was issued today signed by Ensign Krylenko, the Bolshevik commander-in-chief, confirming the killing by infuriated members of the Bolsheviks, of General Dukhonin, former commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, who recently was deposed because of his refusal to request German army officials to enter into an armistice with the Bolsheviks.

General Dukhonin was killed by being thrown from a train after the Bolshevik forces had captured headquarters at Mohilev, where he had remained after his deposition. General Korniloff, also a former Russian commander-in-chief, and who sometime ago started an unsuccessful revolt against the Kerensky government, fled from Mohilev before the arrival of the Bolshevik forces.

The text of the communication of Krylenko follows: Last Obstacle to Peace Falls. "Today I entered into Mohilev at the head of the revolutionary troops. The headquarters was entirely surrounded without fighting. The last obstacle to the cause of peace has fallen."

"I cannot be silent on the sad act of lynch law practiced upon the former highest commander-in-chief, General Dukhonin. Popular hatred surpassed the limits of reason, and in spite of all attempts to save him he was thrown out of a railroad train at the Mohilev station and killed. The flight of General Korniloff the day before the fall of headquarters was the cause of this excess."

"I cannot allow the banner of the revolution to be stained and it is necessary strongly to condemn such acts. A revolutionary people are fearful in a struggle, but they must be soft after victory."

Another report says General Dukhonin was dragged from a train in which it was intended to send him to Petrograd and beaten to death.

JEWS PUSH HOME LAND IN PALESTINE

Convention of Rabbis Assembled in New York City Receives Greetings From Brothers in Russia.

New York, Dec. 5.—Greetings from the Jews of Russia, welcoming "enthusiastically the announcement of the new era of our national home establishment," in connection with the movement to set up a Jewish home land in Palestine, were contained in a cablegram received today by the Rabbinical Palestine convention in session here.

The convention, attended by rabbis from all parts of the country, was begun today for the purpose of furthering the movement "in consonance with the declaration of Great Britain favoring the establishment of a Jewish home land" in Palestine.

The convention is held under the auspices of the Jewish Ministers' association and the provisional executive committee received today by the Rabbinical Palestine convention in session here.

The specific purpose of this conference is to organize all of the Orthodox congregations of America for the work in Palestine, and each rabbi comes as a duly authorized delegate of the congregation over which he officiates.

Hope of 1,900 Years. Rabbi Mordecai A. Kaplan stated that the Jews of this country realize that "the regaining of Palestine is a matter of practical politics and that unless they take every possible step to translate this opportunity into reality, a great hope which has been the dominating hope in their prayer these 1,900 years, is forever gone."

"Orthodox Jewry is the greatest power in Jewish life in America," said Kaplan "and it is our purpose to so organize the great forces which are behind us and who look to us for leadership that when the moment arrives for taking practical steps toward the rebuilding of our land, we shall be properly equipped for the work."

The program of the conference provides for: 1. Discussion of Palestine and the possibilities for the establishment of a homeland which shall at the same time be a spiritual center for the Jews of the world. 2. Jewish education in Palestine and America. 3. The problem of Sabbath day observance. 4. Organization.

U. S. FRIEND OF REDS, SAYS RUSS LEADER

Swedish Pro-Germans Elated Over Reported Prospect That America Will Not Back Entente in War.

Petrograd, Dec. 5.—Laon Trotzky, the Bolshevik foreign minister, has taken the recent note sent by Lieutenant Colonel William V. Judson, chief of the American military mission to Russia, to the chief of the general staff at Petrograd in an effort to cultivate friendly relations with the Bolshevik government.

The note, in which the American officer said he saw no reason why the relations of the allies to Russia nor to any influential part of its population should not rest on the most friendly basis, is also commented upon favorably by Trotzky in Maxim Gorky's newspaper, the Novaya Zhizn.

The friendly relations which Trotzky assumes the note was attempting to promote, would constitute "a splendid measure, meeting the competition of German and especially British capitalists after the war," Trotzky said today after commenting upon it.

Speaking before the soldiers' and workmen's council, Trotzky dealt with questions embracing the embargo, the quitting of Russia by British subjects, Lieutenant Colonel Judson's note and the protest made by Major Kerth, military attaché to General Dukhonin, against the Russian negotiations for an armistice with Germany.

Americans Lost Their Heads. "The Americans lost their presence of mind," he said. "This alone would explain the almost simultaneous appearance of the two of the documents—the letter of Major Kerth to General Dukhonin and the letter of Lieutenant Colonel Judson, his chief. If you read them, you see that one absolutely conflicts with the standpoint of the other."

"However, this is not the chief affair. Today there came to the Smolny institute, (the Bolshevik headquarters), two Americans who have close relations with the American capitalist classes, who informed me that the state of mind in America was correctly stated in the letter of Lieutenant Colonel Judson, and not in the letter of Major Kerth."

In the Novaya Zhizn, Trotzky comments upon Lieutenant Colonel Judson's statement that Russia was right in its present position to raise the question of a general peace.

"For the first time since the revolutions," he says, "we hear from the lips of a representative of the allied powers a sanction of the right of Russia to bring forward the question of peace, independent of 'victories' on the front or the overthrow of 'Prussian imperialism.' The recognition comes somewhat late, perhaps, and many will smile when reading how Lieutenant Colonel Judson 'made a virtue of necessity.' It is difficult to deny a country the right of raising the question of a general peace when it is the eye of a separate one. In any case the words of the representatives of America raise the hope that the question of peace may be put on a more solid foundation than has been the case thus far."

A Matter of Diplomacy. "I am inclined to believe that this state of affairs has arisen not because of the platonic sympathy of America toward Russia, of which American capitalists wish to convince me, but because after the events of the last days the American diplomats have understood that they cannot overstep the Russian revolution and therefore wish to cultivate friendly relations, thinking this would be a splendid means for meeting the competition of German and English capital after the war."

Swedish Press Elated. Stockholm, Dec. 4.—The pro-German press in Sweden is greatly elated over the report that Lieutenant Colonel William P. Judson, chief of the American military mission to Russia, paid a friendly visit to Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevik foreign minister at Petrograd, and "assured him that Russia had a right to start peace negotiations" and that "the time for menaces against the Bolsheviks had passed."

The Tagbladet, says: Little Help From U. S. "This means, assuming that Lieutenant Colonel Judson acted under instructions from Washington, that the entente may expect little help from America in a war to the bitter end."

Even newspapers friendly to the allies see in Colonel Judson's reported action indications that "America inclines to accept the consequences of the Bolshevik rule, and that France and England will be left to carry on the war alone."

The Russian minister to Sweden, M. Goulkevitch is openly incredulous concerning the report. He said he did not believe it and believed that it was either a direct falsehood or had been improperly reported over the Bolshevik-controlled telegraph wires.

The Petrograd Telegraph agency, which is controlled by the Bolsheviks, on Monday announced that Lieutenant Colonel Judson had paid an "official visit to the Smolny institute," the Bolshevik headquarters and that the visit had caused a sensation in the entente allied diplomatic spheres.

AMERICANS SOON MAY BE ON ITALIAN FRONT

President, Wilson Tells Congressmen This, in Large Part, Was Inducement for Declaration.

Washington, Dec. 5.—It was learned last night that in conversation with congressional leaders before leaving the capitol, the president said that the Austrian declaration was advised largely because it might be necessary at any time to have American soldiers aid Italy.

Italian Premier Pleased. Paris, Dec. 5.—The Italian premier Vittorio Orlando, sends through The Associated Press the following message to the American people, in the course of which he says: "The most alarming period of the crisis may be considered as past. Italy's soldiers, with admirable heroism, have succeeded in opposing the barrier of their breasts to the invader, and behind her army stands the Italian people to a man, animated by one single will and overflowing with energy, now more than ever united in the struggle and confident in victory."

"It is with the utmost joy that I have noted the direct participation in the inter-allied supreme war council at Paris of authorized representatives of the United States. Their intervention can only signify the cordial and complete adhesion of their country to the theory of a single front, and can only affirm in the most tangible manner the harmony of our souls and wills, the union of our energies and means, the fraternity of our arms in the face of the common enemy."

U. S. May Affirm Respect For Swiss Neutrality. Geneva, Dec. 5.—An announcement that the United States government intends to issue a formal official statement to the federal authorities at Berne, following the example of the allies that the United States intends to carefully respect Swiss neutrality, has produced an extremely favorable impression in Swiss political and military circles. This is especially true, as the action of the United States government will be a spontaneous one.
