

CREIGHTON FLOOR FANS LOOK FORWARD TO CLEAN SWEEP FOR MILLS' QUINTET

Blue and White Coach Predicts Successful Season and Loyal Supporters Go Him One Better By Asserting Local Flippers Will Wipe Earth With Everything in Sight.

With cage practice of the Creightons well under way, Coach Mills took time out Saturday night to express his convictions in decided and enthusiastic terms that the Creighton quintet will have a highly successful season on the basket ball floor this winter. That his words will develop into actuality is the opinion of confident Blue and White supporters who are willing to wager that their idols will not encounter a single defeat this winter.

Creighton will easily be the cream O of this part of the country in basket O'Leary Tells of ball circles. The five men who starred on the varsity squad at the big gymnasium up on the hill last winter, has been out in their gym togs the last two nights, and according to Mills they are better than ever. Of the regurars "Chuck" Kearney, Vic Spittler and Ed Haley are doing brilliant work al-ready. Their basket shooting and floor work is superb. Among the others who have shown ability are Carroll, Shevlin, Gartland, Campbell and Moonan.

Creighton has a stiff schedule. The pening game will be with Nebraska Wesleyan on the Creighton floor De-cember 15. Peru also will be seen in Omaha before Christmas.

Newport Naval Eleven Is Triumphant Over Boston

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 9.—The Newport naval reserve foot ball teams today defeated the Boston navy yard eleven, 7 to 6, in a game for the naval district championship of New England. Bothe teams were made up of former college players, the first dis-trict team from the navy yard in-cluding "Eddie" Casey and other Harvard stars, while "Cupid" Black, the 1916 Yale captain, led the second

Ball Players Who

Are Superstitious

Superstitions of base ball players have given many a laugh to Charlie O'Leary, who, for nine years, was a star infielder with the Detroit club of the American league. But it remained trics to "bone a bat"-to rub their clubs with a big, greasy bone fresh from a butcher shop-to produce real-

And it any of them whom played on the Creighton grid- should get two or three hits in the game the next day, the devil himself couldn't get the bone away from men and consistent basket shooters. them. It would be a lucky bone then and they'd rub it all the harder.'

"Boning the bat," in the minds of the superstitious ones, fills up the pores of the wood, prevents it from splintering and makes the bat ring when it connects with the ball-producing longer drives.

"Getting hits is the sole ambition of every ball player," O'Leary said, "and a lot of them sincerely believe that 'boning' their bats will get them more hits. It's the truth that some of the 'bugs' of the game, after a par-ticularly successful day, will take their bats to bed with them and some will even go so far as to stick them up in a seat opposite them while riding on a train,

O'Leary, who managed the San Antonio club of the Texas league last season, told of one lanky member of the team who happened to take a certain street car to the ball park one past coaches and their representatives day. As luck would have it, he drave out four hits in the game that after-

"Do you think I could get that bird to ride out to the park in an automo-bile with me the next day?" O'Leary asked. "Not on your life. For four days he waited for the same street

Spying in the enemy's territory is to be a thing of the past in Pacific coast preserves if all of the colleges concerned follow the lead of California and Washington. These institutions have made a pact that in future when a representative of one side goes to look over the opposition talent he shall announce his presence, obtain a pass and stand on the sidelines. Foot ball wiseacres say that in days gone used to assume false whiskers, gum shoes and other camouflage in order to "get a line" on the opposition's methods of attack and defense.

Coach Andy Smith of California takes the stand that when a team is hard pressed it will uncover everything it has, and future opponents of said team can learn all there is to be learned without resorting to Sherlock Holmes' subterfuges. On the other hand, when a team wants to "cover up" in practice, he contends, all of the public and private detectives in the world could not get a line on its tricks.

Useless Human Machinery The human intestine seems to be partly, a relic of prehistoric times, largely useless in this modern day and age. The uselessness of the vermiform appendix, which is simply the stump of what was once an important and functioning branch of the alimentary canal, is well known. Recent operations in a London hospital seem to indicate that a large part of the lower main canal, the colon, can be dispensed with with-out harm. In these operations, sections of the colon have been removed. The work brings up again the famous scientist Metchnikoff's debated contention that these parts of the anatomy are not only useless but dangerous.
