Mrs. Hart and Miss Hart will stay in Tacoma to be near Mrs. Hart's son, Lieutenant Henry B. Hart, who is stationed at Camp Lewis, American Lakes, Wash.

Mrs. Vanderlip's Wish Respected—Simplicity Marked Entertainment

Simplicity was the keynote of the entertaining given in honor of Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip of New York during her day in the city Friday. Mrs. Vanderlip requested that there be no formal parties given in her honor and her wishes were carried out to the letter. After seeing Mrs. Vanderlip and listening to her one can understand this request for she is an unpretentious little woman with the sweetest, most charming manner in the world. A real home woman and yet one whose interests reach far beyond the walls of her home, for she is an ardent suffragist, Red Cross worker and during the last Liberty bond campaign was head of the woman's committee in New York.

Many of the guests at the afternoon tea given by Mrs. Ward Burgess at the Fontenelle in Mrs. Vanderlip's honor wore their street clothes, a large majority coming from war relief work and from their posts at Red Cross headquarters.

A number of striking black velvet afternoon gowns were seen. Mrs. Charles Kountze, Mrs. Ward Burgess and Mrs. Joseph Barker were in black velvet, while Mrs. A. L. Reed wore a taupe-colored afternoon dress with a taupe hat and mink furs.

The tea was really the most informal friends-you-have-known-all-your-life affair, you can imagine. Just a few women invited in to chat with a woman who was interested in the same things and genuinely glad to meet the women of the west, who are doing so much for their country in these war times.

To meet Mrs. Vanderlip is to love and admire her, for she seems to typify the American woman of today—kind, efficient and wonderfully self-possessed.

Miss Robina Kammerer Planning Orphans' Ball December 19

Miss Robina M. Kammerer is planning a big orphans' Christmas ball which will be given at Metropolitan hall, December 19, for the benefit of St. James' orphanage. Miss Kammerer, who is head of the notion department of the Brandeis stores, has always had a deep interest in the orphan children of the city, as she was one herself and at the age of 13 started out to make her own way in the world.

Miss Kammerer gained special permission from Archbishop Harty to give the dance during Advent, which is the four weeks' period of solemnity preceding Christmas.

Although this godmother has only Sundays and evenings to perfect the plans for her benefit ball, she has issued 1,500 tickets and expects the hearty co-operation of all her friends and the friends of the kiddies at the St. James orphanage.

Miss Elizabeth Wiemer of Kansas City will be the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Carlisle Whiting at Fort Crook, during the holidays.

Chiropractic Talks

Chiropractic for Children

Children of all ages usually respond very quickly to spinal adjustments, and every child's spine should be examined by a competent chiropractor. Thousands of children are needlessly suffering from some form of spinal trouble, and while they are young is the time to have their spinal defects adjusted.

If your child is sick, weak or puny, or not properly developed in any part of the body, there is a CAUSE, and invariably it is found in the spine. Do not wait to see whether or not the child will outgrow it; have its spine palpated, and, if necessary, adjusted.

It is an acknowledged fact that if a spinal analysis of all children were made, the percentage of defects and curvature would be in the majority. The spinal column is the most important framework of the body; clinging to this wonderful and flexible chain of 24 irregular bones are many of the vital organs, and it is so strong that it can bear a heavy burden, and yet so flexible that it will respond to nearly any movement of the body; so long as it is normal and has only the curves given it by nature, it is the source of strength and grace, but when it is out of alignment, or curvature exists, it causes disease.

Many times a slight spinal curvature that is unnoticed or neglected in childhood causes no trouble until later in life. It is a proven fact that many cases of spinal curvature originate in early life, and as the child grows older very often the curvature becomes more pronounced, which means more pressure on nerves supplying some part of the body, and it is this pressure that invariably is the cause of disease, shutting off the nerve force and thereby preventing nature from doing the work it once did when not interfered with, is not doing now because of the existing nerve pressure, but will do again if given free and uninterrupted transmission of nerve force, by removing the pressure on the nerve or nerves in the region of the spine where the curvature or subluxation exists.

There can be no effect without a cause. This being true, why not remove the cause and let nature take care of the effect?

Many of the defects of the spinal column can be corrected by taking Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments, and many children now accounted as defectives are victims of a subluxation or curvature of some part of the spinal column that has affected the nerve supply to some tissue or organ of the body.

Fifteen hundred young boys at the Kansas City Y. M. C. A. were examined and over fifty per cent were found to have some form of spinal trouble. You owe it to yourself, your family, your children, to investigate the Science of Chiropractic.
