More-Underhill Wedding.

A pretty home wedding will take place this evening when Miss Lottie Underhill, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Underhill, will become the bride of Mr. Walter T. More. Rev. D. E. Jenkins of the University of Omaha, where the bride was taught, will perform the ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Theodore Nelson will sing "Because," accompanied by Miss Mabel Kelly at the piano and Mrs. Augustus Dunbar, who will play the violin owned by the bride's father.

The bride, who will be given away by her mother, will be gowned in white satin. A long tulle veil will reach to the bottom of the court train and a shower bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas will be carried.

Miss Hazel Underhill of Denver, cousin of the bride, will wear an orchid colored tulle gown over satin and will carry a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mrs. E. P. Emerson, matron of honor, will wear a blue and white gown and carry a basket of Ophelia roses. The flower girl will wear a white frock and carry a basket of the Ophelia roses. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Helen More, and the bride's brother, Mr. Garret Underhill, will stretch the ribbons.

Mr. W. R. Morse is the best man. Following the ceremony there will be a reception for about 150 guests. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. More will be at home in the north part of the city.

Wedding on New Year's Day.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Sybil Woodruff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Woodruff, to Mr. Charles Warren Hensley will take place New Year's day.

Miss Woodruff, who is a graduate of Cornell college, is now in charge of the history department of the high school at Mount Pleasant, Ia.

Mr. Hensley is a graduate of Simpson college and is a member of the Kappa Theta Psi fraternity. He is now associate secretary of the Young Men's Christian association and is in charge of the high school Young Men's Christian association work for Iowa.

For Military Bridal Couple.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Wooley are giving a family dinner party this evening in honor of their son, Lieutenant George Wooley and his bride, who are home for a visit on their honeymoon. Their wedding took place last Friday in Chattanooga, Tenn. The bride having been of that city.

Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Root give a dinner for them Friday and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Root, Sunday. The young people leave on New Year's day for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., where the lieutenant is assigned to duty.

Pan-Hellenic Reunion.

Alpha Phi was awarded the loving cup for high ranking scholarship among the twelve sororities which make up the Pan-Hellenic association, holding its annual luncheon at the Blackstone today. Mrs. Charles Wright, president of this sorority, gave some vocal selections at the affair. Election of officers for next year took place, Miss Mary Philippi, the present incumbent, presiding. Covers for 60 were laid at tables gaily with holiday decorations and flags. The afternoon was spent in knitting.

Jottings on Social Calendar.

Miss Elsie Storz will entertain at a dinner party for the school set Saturday evening.

Mrs. Peter Elvad will give a luncheon Monday at the Blackstone, followed by a matinee party, to honor Miss Myrtle Gilchrist, who is home from Hamilton college, Lexington, Ky., for the holidays, and for Miss Eva Turley of Orleans, Ind., the guest of the L. L. Turleys.

Delta Zeta sorority will entertain at luncheon at the Blackstone Friday. Miss Katherine Lowry has charge of the reservations. Miss Mary Fitch will entertain a party of six or seven and Miss Lula E. Wirt will also be hostess at a small luncheon party.

Mrs. J. J. Hess has reservations for a luncheon party of 16 at the Blackstone Saturday. Mrs. S. S. Montgomery will entertain seven guests the same day.

Children's Dance Recital.

Miss Adelaide Fogg will give the solo dance, "On to Victory," and Miss Marjorie Burns, "The Doll," at the Christmas party of Miss Mary Coll's students Friday afternoon at Turpin's academy. Group dances will be given by her classes. Favors will be distributed among the little guests, most of whom will come in costume.

Witchcraft Grips Morocco

To those who know of the occupation of Morocco by the French and of their great work in that country it may seem strange there should still remain firmly implanted in the lives of the people the most persistent and pernicious forms of witchcraft.

BRILLIANT WEDDING

Sturtevant-Duval Wedding.

A "blue-and-lavender wedding" was the nuptial event of Thursday evening when Miss Mary Alice Duval, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Duval, became the bride of Mr. Rollin Sturtevant of Kansas City. The ceremony was performed in the new St. Barnabas church by Father John Williams, former rector, who married the bride's parents in the old St. Barnabas church many years ago, assisted by the present rector, Rev. Lloyd B. Holsapple.

Palms and lilies and numerous white candles decorated the church where Miss Maude Grebe gave a half-hour organ recital preceding the ceremony. Miss Mabel Allen sang "All Joy Divine," after which the bridal party entered to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march. The Mendelssohn march was played for the recessional. The bridal couple knelt on white satin pillows while the marriage vows were spoken.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, was gowned in a simple white satin gown, embroidered in pearls, fashioned with front and back panels and side cascades of satin. The bodice was square-cut and made with long white tulle sleeves and her veil of white tulle, with a Juliet crown of pearls, fell to the end of her skirt, which was made quite short. Her bouquet of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley had for its center lavender orchids, and was tied with white, lavender and blue tulle.

Miss Lala Mitchell of Lincoln, the maid of honor and the first to enter, wore a blue and white gown with a ruffled, embroidered in lavender chenille, made bustle effect; the bodice finished with long, flowing tulle sleeves. With this she wore a crownless blue tulle hat with blue streamers, trimmed with lavender rosebuds, and she carried a colonial bouquet of lavender sweet peas tied with blue tulle.

The costume of Miss Mary Hanlon

For many years the French have endeavored to uproot the belief and to convert the ones who practice its evil tenets, but to no avail. Today witchcraft is believed in and is practiced as it was in ancient times, and that wonderfully rich land is kept in a state of near-savagery by its influence.

New Year's Dance Planned For South Side Social
Settlement by Mrs. Leff

A New Year's dance is planned for Saturday evening at the South Side settlement, by the head resident, Mrs. Marie Leff. There will be special music and refreshments.

Sunday at 2 o'clock a business meeting of the Russian Progressive club will be held. At 3:30 o'clock a musical program will be given under the club's auspices. The West sisters are arranging the musicale.

Tempting Sick Children

Every one who has had the care of a convalescent child knows how hard it is to make him eat the things that the doctor has prescribed. Ingenious mothers and nurses have invented all sorts of schemes and devices to make the simple diet of the sick child acceptable and interesting.

The little invalid who refuses to take his milk and eggs will often drink an eggnog from a tall glass through a straw. A little girl admires parties, and will eat almost anything if it is served from a doll's tea set, especially if some of her dolls are invited to share the feast.

The dessert may be covered with a little tent, house or wigwam, with a tiny doll standing guard at the door, and no pecking is allowed until everything else on the tray is eaten. Faces may be sketched on the eggs and hats or caps tied on them. Toast cut in fancy shapes is most exciting. It can be trimmed with a knife and made into little houses with doors and windows, or it may be cut with cookie cutters. A doll's chafing dish is a lot of fun. If the invalid is strong enough to sit up, a small table may be set and he will never know what is being served if father is the waiter with a napkin over his arm.

With a little thought and care the child may be made to eat almost anything.—New York Tribune.

When Milady Goes Shopping

Be honest! Be fair! Be quick! Present your Christmas book in a saleable condition and you will have no trouble in exchanging it. . . .

By ADELAIDE KENNERLY.

Christmas is over and I find there are hundreds of books reposing on library tables, dressing tables and in trunks.

Why? you ask. Because they were purchased without knowledge of taste or preference for authors.

"I have another copy of the Rubiyatt," whined one young lady, "and this makes the third in my book case. I wanted one of Walt Mason's books of wisdom or Doug Fairbanks laughs—but this Rubiyatt!!! Good gracious! I pick up old Omar's philosophy whenever I have the blues and sink deeper in my cynicism."

Another young cynic has before her one of George Barr McCutcheon's latest books while she is "just dying" for that new book on theosophy or something along the line of occult science.

Rubiyatts for Wait Masons.

Because I shop with all women and because it is my earnest endeavor to help straighten out their problems, I made the rounds of the book shops and came jam-up on some facts:

The majority of book shops and book sections in department stores are perfectly willing to exchange a "Rubiyatt" for a Walt Mason, or a George Barr McCutcheon for scientific works—oh, wait a minute, there has already been a rush—provided these books have not been read, are not soiled and are returned before Saturday night.

To my surprise—almost astonishment—books are offered for exchange that have been read; that are soiled, even dirty, and where the leaves look as though they have been cut with a hatchet instead of a letter opener.

Can you imagine such a thing—such supreme impudence?

And those who wish to return them declare with innocent eyes that they have not looked into the books deeper than the title page. And then these people wonder why salespeople learn to question some folk's honesty.

Be Honest!

The book stores are willing and glad to be fair. Bring your book in in a saleable condition and they will make any reasonable exchange. They want to please you, especially if you act honest and square with them. The proprietor of one place knows human nature so well that character reading has become second nature. Go into that store and the proprietor I have in mind will, almost invariably, tell you what kind of reading matter you

PERSONALS

Harold, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paffenrath, is home on a 10 days' furlough from the Kemper military school. He returns to school January 1.

"A Cry of the Soul"

A ROMANCE OF 1862.

An open air story of primitive conditions and stout hearts, and, primarily of a royal battle between love and faith.

The story opens in New York in 1861, though the Civil War has little to do with it, for it follows the fortunes of a train of Mormon convert emigrants crossing the continent to Utah by ox team and on horseback, and flood, fire, pestilence, wild beasts and Indians left scant leisure for politics on a cross-country trip those days.

It is a tale to make the blood race, and he who "loves a lover" or an adventure will find both here, and much to his liking.

Published by Sherman, French & Co., Boston, Mass.; the letter press is high-class, on good paper, and handsomely bound in cloth. Price, $1.50.
