

Nebraska RAIL LOBBYISTS SEE CALLING GO WITH NEW ORDER

Process of Legislation Likely to Be Very Much Changed if Government Long Takes Control of Railways.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 28.—(Special.)—Now that the government is to operate the railroads, one question causing comment at the state house is what will become of the so-called "railroad lobby." In years gone by, the presence of a railroad lobby has been one of the distinct features of each session of the legislature, although in later years it has lost most of its former standing as a "corporation cormorant."

Years ago, when a member of the legislature from the back precincts came to Lincoln he fully expected to see members of this justly celebrated lobby going round with horns protruding from their heads and pockets bulging with greenbacks, railroad passes and the other means said to be used to catch the man with alfalfa in his hair and whiskers a foot long. But now all this is ancient history.

All Changed of Late.

The representatives of the railroads now-a-days, do not go around with pockets full of money, expecting to buy the unsophisticated member at so much per. Instead of paying the member something the thing may perhaps turn around and the railroad man strike the member for a loan, for since the pay of the legislator has been raised from $5 a day to $10 a day, he is the man with the bulging pocket.

"Smiles are about all the average railroad lobbyist has with him these days, and he generally keeps a good abundance of them on hand. These with a naturally persuasive vocabulary form his stock in trade, and he uses it with the care and caution."

What the new order of things will do as far as railroad legislation in Nebraska is concerned, even members of the state railway commission are hardly prepared to say. Chairman Hall is in Illinois, at the home of his brother, quite ill.

What Will Effect Be.

Commissioner Taylor appears to think that it will eventually mean the suspension of the laws of the state and all states, though Commissioner Wilson does not look upon the situation so seriously.

Some are of the opinion that the state can still continue to enact laws governing intrastate traffic, subject of course to the approval of the government board. This is a question, however, which is disputed, attention being called to the manner in which the government runs the postal system. No state has any right to make laws covering the transportation of mail, and therefore, according to these people, the state would have no right to pass legislation governing the transportation of freight or passengers, it all having to come under government control.

Therefore it may be among the possibilities that the next session of the legislature may be deprived of the pleasure of having with it the very able gentlemen who in former years have represented the railroads in Lincoln.

Table Rock to Be Visited By Collector of Revenues

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 28.—The Nebraska State Railway commission today sent the following message to Secretary McAdoo, as director of railroads:
"William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, Washington."
"To the end that the fullest possible co-operation may be obtained in the successful carrying out of the president's plan for the operation of the railroads, the Nebraska State Railway commission hereby tenders the use of its services are at your command. It is respectfully suggested that you have recently made an extensive investigation into the car situation with reference to movement and supply, the results of which are at your service."

NEBRASKA BAR TO NAME CANDIDATES

State Association at Its Meeting in Lincoln Will Choose Names of Six Men for Supreme Bench.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, Dec. 28.—(Special.)—The Nebraska State Bar association, which met in Lincoln today, will have two important matters to consider before it adjourns.

One of these is the endorsement of candidates for the supreme bench, three of whom must be elected at the 1918 election. The judges whose term expires with the coming year are Hamer, Letson and Rose. Neither of the three as yet has made any official announcement that they will stand for re-election, but it is generally supposed no strenuous effort will be made by either to ward off the honors of a nomination. Six candidates must be nominated under the nonpartisan law, from which the people will elect three.

The incorporation of the association and the requirement of registration and licenses for all members must be acted upon.

District Boards Must Retain Draft Records

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, Dec. 28.—(Special.)—According to instructions from Provost Marshal Crowder to the governor, practically all the records of the first draft are now on file in the offices of district boards. In accordance with the plan of the new regulations to make local boards the offices of record it will be necessary, as soon as it can be done without interfering with the present rush, for the district boards to return to local boards their records under the first draft. Records of men who have returned questionnaires should be filed with their questionnaires, and other records should be filed conveniently and preserved.

Finance Committee of A. O. U. W. Meets at Grand Island

Grand Island, Neb., Dec. 23.—(Special Telegram.)—The grand finance committee of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of Nebraska concluded a two days' session tonight. The usual routine of examining the records of the grand lodge office and clearing up the work of the last year was transacted, besides allowing $20,000 death claims on beneficiary fund. Although the order lost half of its membership by adopting the national fraternal congress rates, the work of building up the jurisdiction on a more substantial basis is progressing successfully.

Schools of Nebraska Spend Near 12 Millions

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, Dec. 28.—(Special.)—According to a report prepared by State Superintendent W. H. Clemmons, the schools of the state spent during the last school year, which ended July, 1917, the sum of $11,921,859.05. FULMER SETS OUT "VOCATIONAL RULES"

New Department Announces Regulations by Which Conscriptive Men Will Be Taught

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, Dec. 28.—(Special.)—The new department of vocational training, of which C. A. Fulmer has just been selected as commissioner for Nebraska, has set forth the following rules to be used for emergency work:
Conscripted men of each county available for school.

Course of study, weeks or months, including all lines of mechanical and industrial instruction.

Each conscripted man must have at the close of his training a certificate bearing the name of the dean, the chancellor and the secretary of the state board.

Conscripted men, if not recently examined, must be examined before entrance to the school.

If a conscripted man is found unable to do the work, he must be notified at once.

All instruction must be free. Classes may be conducted daily or in the evening as the case permits.

An exact record must be made of each conscripted man and the same must be reported to the State Federal board.

Information is given concerning state organization for emergency calls for mechanical men not including conscriptive men, along the following lines:
Collection of carpenters from at least 18 to 40 years.
Blacksmiths from 18 to 40 years.
Masons from 18 to 40 years.
Plumbers from 18 to 40 years.
Electricians from 18 to 40 years.

EXEMPTION BOARDS MUST KEEP MUM

Publication of Information Given in Questionnaire Causes Embarrassment and Brings Forth Order.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, Dec. 28.—(Special.)—Publication of information given in the questionnaires does not meet the approval of Captain W. L. Anderson, state provost marshal, and this morning he issued the following instructions to boards:

"Your particular attention is called to Section 11, S. S. R., prohibiting the divulging of certain information contained in the questionnaire. The intent of the regulation covers also the information obtained by any of you in the course of your duty under the selective service law, whether in assisting registrants in answering questionnaire or in making physical examination of registrants or in any other matter, and you and each of you are required therefore to hold such information as privileged and to refuse to divulge or impart same except as provided in such Section 11, S. S. R."

The order is issued as the result of a story published in a Lincoln newspaper, which said that a certain Lincoln man, whose case was in doubt when before the district board in the first draft, and who finally received an exemption, states in his questionnaire that he has invested $176,000 in the enterprise in which he is engaged, while his statement in regard to taxes shows he paid taxes on an investment of $7,500.

Get Your Free Copy of The Navy Art Calendar Today

The Omaha Bee is sending free to its readers a beautiful patriotic Art Calendar.

The illustration on this calendar, the work of a well-known artist, sums up in a striking poster the War Spirit of America.

It shows the figure of Liberty with drawn sword pointing the way to a staunch American sailor, while over them both wave the folds of the Stars and Stripes.

There is no advertising matter on this calendar. It is a work of art, intended to serve as an ornament and a patriotic inspiration through what may well prove to be the most trying year in American history.

The calendar itself is practical and made for service. It is of the form which has a separate leaf for each of the twelve months, and a complete calendar for 1918 on the last leaf.

This is the American calendar for 1918. To get your free copy, write your name and address plainly on the attached coupon and mail with a 2-cent stamp for return postage to The Omaha Bee Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.
