Christmas Dinner At Hoovers' House
The Hoovers themselves, by the way, had a model "Hoover" Christmas dinner. Here's the menu, chosen for by Mrs. Hoover herself:

- Oysters
- Celery Soup
- Turkey with Chestnut Dressing (no bread crumbs used)
- Toasted Corn Bread
- Pumpkin Pie, with wholistic crust
- Fruits
- American Cheese
- Nuts
- Coffee
- Cider

For a meatless and wheatless—and almost sugarless—that looks like a pretty good dinner. There is no mention of cranberries—cranberries take such a lot of sugar. And there was no sugar for the coffee—Mr. Hoover and his family have learned to drink coffee without sugar.

The Lanings had the quietest, somberest Christmas of their history. They are in deep mourning for Mrs. Lansing's father, General Foster, who died about a month ago.

The McAdams had a jolly family house party. Two of the secretary's sons, both of whom are in the navy—William Gibbs, jr., as an ensign, and Robert Haselhurst, as an enlisted "man"—had Christmas furloughs and came home. Mrs. Charles Taber, Martin of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, and her small daughter Nona came down for the holidays, and Nona, the family bride, and her husband, Ferdinand de Mohrenschildt, formerly of the Russian embassy, joined them all for dinner.

The Bakers, the Gregorys and the Burlesons all had the quietest sort of "home" Christmases. The Bakers, of course, centered their celebration around their three little children. For some reason, in spite of a job that throws him constantly with army officers and army men, the Bakers don't seem to go in for entertaining soldiers.

The Burlesons have only daughters, extremely attractive daughters, to be sure, and capable of making a very merry Christmas. And the Gregorys' two sons—one at Princeton and one at the Virginia Military institute—and their daughter, little Jane Gregory, a tiny little lady who has been a distinct belle ever since the Gregorys entered the cabinet circle, and little Miss Carnelia were all at home for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Augustine, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Augustine, the engagement of Audrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bruce, to Hugh Arvell has just been announced. Mr. Arvell is a South Side boy now stationed at Camp Cody, so the wedding plans are indefinite.

The marriage of Miss Clara Soukup and Mr. LeRoy Stark took place New Year's evening at the Dietz Memorial Methodist church at 8 o'clock, the Rev. H. P. Hunter performing the ring ceremony. The wedding march was played by the groom's sister, Mrs. L. A. Kiger. The bride attendants were Miss Irene Eiet and Mr. Rudolph Soukup, brother of the bride. Following the church ceremony a reception and wedding supper was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs.

Joseph Gordon, 4218 South Twenty-seventh street, for the relatives and close friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white Georgette crepe and satin embroidered in tiny yellow flowers, made square neck with a panel skirt, the net veil was held in place by a narrow satin band and came to the bottom of her skirt. She carried a shower of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore yellow voile gown made with a tight bodice and short full skirt. She carried Mrs. Ward's roses. NEVER-TEL DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Put Up In Delicately Perfumed Tablet Form

To be dissolved in a little water as used—No extras to buy—No concoctions to bother—No lightning changes to smother. A most delightful preparation, appealing to modest, refined women.

NEVER-TEL heralds joy and happiness everywhere! It is clean, simple, scientific. It gradually darkens the premature gray hair of youth, and modestly corrects the ravages of approaching age. It does its work positively, yet so gradually that even your own friends can't "Never-Tel"—that's why it was legally accorded the name NEVER-TEL.

Does Not Stain
NEVER-TEL is not sticky, and will not stain the most delicate skin. It impregnates the scalp, all's a more radiant growth. It is a perfect delight to those who have experienced the disagreeable features of other preparations; and to all who have felt the tragedy of grayness. NEVER-TEL comes in the one safe, sanitary remedy.

A Duty—Not Vanity
"Looking the part" is your duty. It's not vanity—it's business, your business. You owe it to yourself and friends to "look your best." Thousands use NEVER-TEL because it is simple, harmless and one can "Never-Tel." It is the careful work of eminent chemists—meritorious, economical. Use every other day for a short time, darkens your hair to a desired shade, then once every other week.

At your druggist, or direct from Never-Tel Laboratories Co., D. 294, Kansas City, Mo.
