STUDEBAKER - WILSON (INC.)

QUALITY USED CARS

Few people have any conception of the manufacturing facilities behind the Studebaker cars, or the magnitude of the operations involved. The great Studebaker foundries, forge shops, plants, machine shops and body works assure the owner of two vitally important points. First, that the finished product is wholly a Studebaker creation, worthy of the best traditions of a 65-year leadership among American manufacturers.

And as such, a product for which Studebaker is proud to assume complete responsibility.

second—That the huge investment be-hind this vast successful enterprise makes it certain that regardless of conditions during the war or after the war, here is a great company that is in business to stay, and to deliver to the public a high grade product at a reasonable price.

It appeared only reasonable to assume that however imperative the need had become for putting all classes of freight on an equality, the immediate effect of withdrawing preference which has been accorded to grain would be at least a temperary slowness in the movement of corn from first hands. As a matter of fact, rural offerings did continue light and difficulty in getting cars for shipments from country elevators remained in evidence, although better traffic conditions were looked for soon, especially if mild temperautres could be counted on. Peace gossip meanwhile made no headway as a bearish factor while made no headway as a bearish factor and the province of the week bear and the province of the week bear and the province of the province of the week bear and province and province that however imperative the need had become for putting all classes of freight on an equality, the immediate effect of withdrawing preference which has been accorded to grain would be at least a temperature of the province o while made no headway as a bearish factor except in the early part of the week be-fore word came that the Russians had as-sumed an attitude of defiance. Highest prices yet this season were reached in the oats market. Export buying was largely responsible, despite the subse-quent apparent luli in seaboard demand. Financial.

New York, Jan. 5.—The first week of the new year in Wall street was attended by a succession of important developments mostly helpful to the constructive side of the stock market. This was reflected in a resumption of the previous week's advance, although profit-taking and occasional activity for the short account acted as a restraining in-

The president's message to congress in the matter of government control of the rail-roads evoked much favorable comment, espe-cially his reference to the protection of investors.

Nevertheless, rails yielded 2 to 4 points from their best, following publication of the address, but this was in part attributed to the time-honored custom of "selling on the good news."

The trend of events abroad was observed with unusual interest, especially the Russo-German negotiations. Their movement of exchange on Italy was a natural corrollary of military conditions affecting that country.

ditions, notably in Iowa and Illinois. For the first time this season, an Illinois point announced a surplus of cars. Besides weather favored shippers. No aggressive weather favored shippers. No aggressive selling took place, however, as prospects were that agitation for a higher maximum limit on the value of futures would soon take concrete form. Some apparent renewal of strength was brought about also by week end adjustment of trades. Rumors that a virtual embargo would be placed on all shipments of grain east nulli-fied advances in the oats market. Temporarily commission husae buying had lifted prices to a new high price record for the season.
