

MEN OF SEVENTH DESIRE TO FIGHT AND NOT PARADE

Rush Recruiting Offices to Enter Different Branches of Service; Invited to Deming.

Omaha recruiting records are in a fair way to be broken with the disbandment of the Lucky Seventh. That they enlisted to fight and not for dress parade was shown early Tuesday morning when they swarmed into army and navy recruiting offices volunteering their services.

Recruiting officers are reluctant to take men of draft age until they have secured their discharge from the Seventh and they can then only enter the regular service by induction. The navy is taking men under draft age upon presentation of a certificate of their age.

Invited to Cody.

A telegram was received from Lieutenant Colonel Hollingsworth, formerly of the Fifth Nebraska, inviting 550 members of the disbanded Seventh to join the 34th division, stationed at Camp Cody, Deming, N. M., which is not recruited up to its required standard. The division contains many of the men in the former Nebraska National Guard units.

Twenty-five signed an agreement to enter the service with this division. Men of draft age are securing the necessary certificates for induction and others will enlist. One party of 15 went in a body to the naval recruiting office to cast their lot with the sailors.

Officers in command of the various companies are unanimous in expressing the opinion that a large percentage of the men will ask to be taken into service immediately. The navy is making an industrious campaign for recruits.

Former commissioned officers of National Guard units are eligible to entrance in officers' training camps and many of the officers are planning attending these schools in order to gain entrance into the army. It is not unlikely that every officer of the Omaha battalion will apply for entrance to the next camp.

Definite action of officers and men is being delayed awaiting the arrival of the order of disbandment from the adjutant general. Information was received from Governor Neville that these notices were being prepared and would be mailed at once. In the meantime the universal expression among officers and men is, "Where do we go from here, boys?"

Governor Keith Neville sent the following telegram to Secretary of War Baker:

"Seventh Nebraska National Guard has been disbanded to enable men to enlist in service as individuals. In view of the fact the amendment to the selective service regulations changing status of men of draft age in national guard units was announced by the provost marshal general too late to enable men in the Seventh infantry to secure discharges and enlist before December 15, I request that they be allowed to enlist and assigned to the Thirty-fourth division."

Police Say C. Bird, Alias E.

Boshien, Much-Wanted Man

Charles Bird, alias Ed Boshien, arrested Monday by detectives on a charge of burglarizing the home of Mrs. Frank Dolan, is a much wanted man, according to police. Besides several other Omaha robberies, Bird is said to have left a long trail of crime in his wake in various cities of the middle west.

He admits having served time in the Nebraska and Kansas state penitentiaries. Police says he is wanted at Fort Madison, Ia., to serve an unexpired sentence for burglary.

All the goods stolen from Mrs. Dolan have been recovered by the detectives.

Occupants of a house at 2635 North Fifteenth street, Fred Wagner, Elsie Creamer and Alice Huffles, were arrested for receiving stolen property and were fined $10 and costs each in police court.

Members of Seventh May

Enlist in 134th Infantry

Lieutenant Colonel Hollingsworth of the 134th infantry advises members of the former Seventh regiment that there are berths waiting for them in the 134th if they wish to enlist as privates in the United States army. A number have responded to the invitation. Major Frith agrees to give the men transportation to Camp Cody.

Second Lieutenant Edward Zipfel and Sergeant Patten are active in recruiting the members of the disbanded regiment into the army service. Detachments are on their way from companies of the Seventh at Thurston, Emerson, Oakland, Valley and Springfield, according to Lieutenant Zipfel.

City Files Request for

Part of Leavenworth Street

An ordinance proposing to grant to the Nebraska Power company a 50-foot strip on East Leavenworth, with terminus at the river, was placed on file by the city council. The committee of the whole had previously recommended passage of the ordinance.

Mrs. William Mettlen Presses And Shrinks Hand-Knitted Socks

MRS. WILLIAM METTLEN.

Mrs. William Mettlen has a real job at the Red Cross inspection warehouse. She presses and shrinks every hand-knitted sock of the thousands which Nebraska women have knitted for soldiers. She works all day, every day but Sunday, at her volunteer task.

Whenever she shows signs of physical weakening or complains of being tired Mrs. H. E. Newbranch, who is the "boss" of the knitting department, has only to remind her: "That sock may be intended for Glen, Mett," and Mrs. Mettlen attacks her work with renewed vigor. Glen is Mrs. Mettlen's son, who is in the trenches "somewhere in France."

Mrs. E. A. Pegau is the shipping clerk at the warehouse. She receives all supplies and superintends all shipments. Mrs. Pegau only keeps four different sets of books and is at her post from 7:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day.

Mrs. Howard H. Baldrige, state censor, is at her post each morning at the same early hour.
