The robbery at the road house was one of the most sensational ever committed in the Denver district. According to the story told by the Rev. Garret J. Burke, pastor of a local church, who accompanied Mrs. Nolan to the road house, he had gone there to protect Mrs. Nolan and induce her to return home. Immediately after the holdup at the road house, during which the highwayman fired several pistol shots into the floor at the feet of his victims, Burke reported the incident to the bishop of his diocese. After an investigation of the affair Burke was relieved of his pastorate by the bishop and now is believed to

Liquor Dealers' League

Admits it Has Dissolved

The Nebraska Retail Ligour Dealers' association declares it is no longer in existence in an answer filed to a suit brought by Wm. Poppenhagen, former saloon keeper, for $1,400 indemnity. Poppenhagen alleged the association, of which he was a member, was organized for the protection of saloon keepers against whom damages were recovered at law. Mrs. Bessie Juckett received a judgment for $3,000 damages against him in Madison county, he alleges, for the death of her husband due to intoxicaing the association for the damage.

The Liquor Dealers' association alleges that a resolution was passed March 14, 1917, dissolving the organization. It also is maintained that by their constitution and by-laws the association was not liable for damages recovered where the saloon keeper sold liquor to a drunkard, or when the suit was due to the dealer's own carelessness.

Police Accused of Mistaking Garlic Fumes for Whisky

That police officers were mis-taken in arresting John Dzozore and Conrad Dzozore as drunks was alleged by C. H. Kubat in police court court Tuesday morning. "What the officers smelled was garlic, not whisky," he stated. "These men have been annoyed by prowlers about their home at Fourth and Leavenworth streets and thought they saw a man putting dynamite under their porch."

They appeared at the station to complain of the dynamite plot, and were arrested. Emergency Officer Lahey said their breath smelled as though they had been eating dynamite. Large sums of money were found on the men, $369 being taken from one, and $242 from the other. They were fined $10 and costs each.
