

HOLDREGE DECLARES GARFIELD IS RIGHT

General Manager of Burlington Defends Action of Fuel Administration in Closing Down Big Plants.

"Fuel Administrator Garfield is right, regardless of what people may say, and in the promulgation of his order relative to the conservation of fuel it is the duty of every loyal American citizen to assist in holding up his hands," said General Manager Holdrege of the Burlington.

"These are times when it behooves every true and loyal American to uphold the government in everything it does. This finding fault with the government and its officials is a sweet morsel for its enemies and should be discouraged in every possible manner.

"These are times when it is the duty of every good citizen to stand up and proclaim that the government is right and that the official acts of its officials are right, even if there is a lingering opinion that they are wrong.

Says Move Expected.

"The action of Mr. Garfield has been just what has been expected by men who have watched the trend of conditions. The piling up of supplies and manufactured goods along the Atlantic coast when the government lacked facilities for getting the surplus over the seas to our soldiers and our allies we knew was something that would have to eventually stop and the only wonder is that it did not cease long ago.

"With the cessation in manufacturing and the shutting down of the plants great quantities of coal is going to be released to go to the seaboard, where it will be used for fuel for ocean-going vessels. With these vessels sailing it ought not to be long until the congestion along the coast will be reduced to a minimum. Then the manufacturing plants can resume operations and there will be no individual who will be a heavy loser."

Harry Halstead Loses First Round in Liquor Case

United States Commissioner Neely, Friday morning, held that the provisions of the fourth amendment to the federal constitution are null and void as regards the illegal liquor traffic. Attorney Daniel Horrigan quoted the amendment in support of his motion that two suitcases full of "booze" should be returned to Harry Halstead, 1504 Burt street, because Halstead had been searched by Special Agent Van Kirk of the bureau of investigation without a warrant.

The special agent trailed Halstead from Conception, Mo., to Omaha and searched his suitcases at the Union station here.

"In doing this without a warrant," said Mr. Horrigan, "the federal officers violated the provisions of the fourth amendment. There is a right way to proceed against bootleggers and a wrong way and the federal officers know it. This man could have been detained if he was suspected and searched after his constitutional rights regarding his property had been safeguarded.

Commissioner Neely held, however, that liquor is not property in the state of Nebraska, that it has no recognition as such in the courts because it cannot be bought or sold or bartered legally. Halstead was held under $1,000 bond.

New York Life Urges Policy Holders to Buy War Stamps

The seventy-third annual report of the New York Life Insurance company, has a war-tinge. All policyholders are urged to buy war savings and thrift stamps, and agents have been directed to take no application for insurance from a soldier unless the applicant already has the limit of insurance from the government. The company has over $12,000,000 in Liberty bonds.

Notwithstanding the company does business in nearly all the important countries, its mortality rate for 1917 was the lowest in the history of the company; and notwithstanding very little new foreign business was done in 1917, its total new insurances were over $316,000,000.

The company's liabilities under 1,300,000 policies amount to over $760,000,000, leaving a surplus of $174,000,000 from which dividends to the amount of $26,500,000 have been declared for 1918. The dividend scale of 1917 is continued on all annual dividend policies. Payments to the insured in 1917 were over $87,000,000. The average earning power of the company's ledger assets increased during the year and now stands at 4.59%.
