It is estimated that some 1,200 to 1,500 persons on the South Side are liable for returns under the act of October 3, 1917. March 1 is the final date upon which returns must be filed.

POLICE SEARCH FOR ALLEGED MURDERER

Miguel Cortez, Mexican, Sought in Connection With Bloody Killing of R. Gonzales, Countryman.

South Side police are searching for Miguel Cortez, Mexican, alleged murderer of Ranfall Gonzales, 35-year-old Mexican, who was killed with an ax. Gonzales' hacked body was found in a rooming house at 5039 South Twenty-fourth street by Sergeant Sheehan Friday night.

Cortez was a roomer at the place and was the last person seen in company with the murdered man. He is 29 years old, five feet seven inches in height, and weighs about 135 pounds. His face is pock-marked and he has a scar on the left side of his chin.

The following persons have been arrested and are held in connection with the murder: Mrs. Ranfall Gonzales, C. E. Brown, Marcino Basce, Alfonso Lopez, roomers at the place where the man was killed; Mike Carates, 2404 P street; Manuel Trebino, 2521 N street, and Julian Rojas, Frank Basques, Frank Ortels, all living at 5041 South Twenty-fourth street.

Find Bloody Hatchet. The bloody hatchet with which Gonzales was murdered was lying on the floor downstairs, where it is believed the murder was committed and the body dragged upstairs.

Evidence of a vicious struggle is clearly shown in the downstairs room. A bloody mop, which the murderer evidently used to wipe blood off the floor, was also found.

Sergeant Sheehan of the South Side station discovered the murdered body when he accompanied four Mexican roomers at the place, to 5039 South Twenty-fourth street after they had reported to the police that the house was locked and they feared "something" had happened to Gonzales. The latter always carried several hundred dollars with him.

Gonzales' wife took their only child and eloped with a Mexican laborer recently.

South Side Merchants Consider Early Closing

South Side merchants are considering the question of early closing as a help in relieving the fuel shortage.

A petition to close all stores at 6:00 o'clock in the evening except Saturdays was started by the Nebraska Shoe and Clothing store. All but three of the leading merchants on the South Side signed it. The stores have been keeping open daily until 6:30 and Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

Leaders in this movement say that an enormous amount of fuel and light and labor will be saved and no trade will be lost.

MR. GERM HATES A CLEANED RUG

Dresher Brothers Clean Rugs So Well That The Favorite Habitat Of Disease Germs Is Doomed.

Never Chance Disease Laden Floor Covering When It Costs So Little To Have Dreshers Clean Your Rugs.

Mr. Disease Germ simply won't stay in a rug that has been beautifully and perfectly cleaned. He thrives upon the grease, dust, dirt and other "foreign" atmosphere that is continually brought in by shifting shoes.

And, if you would have perfectly cleaned rugs, rugs that are disease proof and beautiful at the same time, have Dresher Brothers clean them at their immense dry cleaning and dyeing plant at 2211-2217 Farnam St.

Dreshers have studied the subject from start to finish; they know how to go at rug cleaning; they knew enough to design and construct a rug cleaning plant that has no equal, and certainly no superior, in all the world.

It's about time to think of clean rugs anyway, for Spring will be here before you know it. In fact, there is no necessity to even wait for Spring. Clean rugs are more important in winter than at any other time. Better send for a Dresher man the first thing. All you've to do is to phone Tyler 345 and a rug wagon stops at your home. After that comes the rug, cleaned so prettily that you will call in the neighbors to see if you can't get disease germs will be out of the question.

CHICAGO INDUSTRY CLOSES IN RESPONSE TO GARFIELD RULING TO CONSERVE FUEL

Four Hundred Thousand Workers Idle in Chicago as Result of Measure; Coal Situation Shows Prospect of Relief; Move Put Forward for Five-Day Week.

(By Associated Press.) Chicago, Jan. 19.—Ten thousand manufacturing plants closed and an industrial army of 400,000 workers idle, was Chicago's response to the sweeping order of the national fuel administration for the conservation of coal today.

With the lifting of the burden of commerce from the storm-harassed railways, great streams of coal began moving through the traffic jams.

Although captains of industry fought until the last minute against Dr. Garfield's order, at the stroke of midnight all opposition turned to loyal support of the government.

Only a score of violations of the ukase were reported during the day. Most of these were due to ignorance and resulted only in a warning. Organized efforts are being made to care for small wage earners whose families had been left in distress.

Some plants announced that they would pay part of the salaries of their workers left in enforced idleness. Others prepared to immediately relieve any distress that their forces might not be disrupted by migration of the employes.

TIGHT LID IN K. C. Kansas City, Jan. 19.—Hundreds of night workers came to their places of employment this evening carrying lunches as a result of the local fuel administration's coal conservation order which provides that restaurants shall close at 10 p. m.

Several additional restrictions were added by Mr. Lampkin today and as the order stood tonight, all places of amusement and saloons, including those in hotel bars, must close at 10 p. m. daily and on Mondays and Tuesdays, all eating places must close at 10 p. m. daily; all unnecessary outdoor lights must be curtailed; drug stores and barbershops must close at 10 p. m.; office buildings may not be opened before 7 a. m. and must be closed at 7 p. m. Retail stores must not open before 7 a. m.

Put Six Days in Five. New York, Jan. 19.—The doing of six days' work in five during Monday-lux industrial weeks is recommended to members of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association in a bulletin telegraphed to them today by John S. Kent, president.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorously and vivacious—a good, clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation.—Adv.

"Shipping Fever" Kills U. S. Horses and Mules

Washington, Jan. 19.—"Shipping fever" and its complications, for which no satisfactory preventive has been found, has caused the loss of 4,777 horses and mules in the army remount service. An announcement today said the loss amounted to $835,975. Steps have been taken to reduce loss from the disease, a form of influenza. Since the United States entered the war, army horses and mules have increased from 66,145 to 344,000.

Chiropractic Talks CHIROPRACTIC FOR THE LIVER.

The liver is the largest gland in the human body. It occupies the upper portion of the abdomen on the right side, just beneath the lower ribs.

The function of the liver is to manufacture the bile which is then passed downward through the bile duct in the bowel. The liver contains an amount of blood equivalent to one-fourth of all this fluid to be found in the body and the amount is always increased during digestion.

Some diseases of the liver are inflammation of the liver (chronic), hypertrophy (enlargement), atrophy (wasting), jaundice, gall stones, inactive or torpid liver.

Chronic inflammation is known as cirrhosis of the liver, when it becomes engorged with blood, the organ swells and the cells are so compressed until they are unable to form the bile.

Hypertrophy of the liver, or enlargement, is usually the result of an obstruction of the bile duct. The organ becomes so much enlarged as to crowd upon the stomach and its weight increases anywhere from four to eight or ten pounds.

Atrophy of the liver is a condition exactly the opposite of hypertrophy. It is a wasting or shrinking of the organ below its natural size. It is a condition from which the liver frequently recovers. In such cases it is of vital importance that Chiropractic adjustments should not be neglected under any circumstances. One of the most conspicuous symptoms of this trouble is chloasma or liver spots. These are yellowish or brownish yellow spots that appear on the skin in various parts of the body.

Jaundice is not strictly a disease in itself. It is really the consequence of other diseases. In chronic cases it may last a year. In ordinary cases perhaps one week, and it is frequently the result of biliousness.

Lying just beneath the liver is a small sac known as the gall bladder. This sac empties by a short tube into the gall duct which leads from the liver to the bowel. When the liver is manufacturing more bile than the system needs, the excess flows off into the gall bladder, where it is stored until nature demands it. In certain diseases, such as jaundice, catarrh of the bile duct or inflammation of the liver, the bile cannot escape freely from the gall bladder.

As a result it becomes thick, forming hard masses or lumps called gall stones. Torpid liver is a lazy liver. When you overwork yourself your body grows weary and needs rest. When the liver is overworked it becomes exhausted, but it does not always imply an organic disease of the gland.

Failure on the part of the liver to do its work properly allows the poisons to pass into the general circulation which will cause functional disease elsewhere in the body.

The central nervous system is the first to be affected. The brain becomes clouded and the patient takes on that form of appearance common to an sluggishness. From the grade to the grave, from birth to death, the fear of possible results from disease is ever with us, and mankind is continually being treated for ailments. We all know that our bodies contain all the organs, vessels, tissues, chemical elements for its maintenance in perfect health, and disease, therefore, is a condition due to the effect of nerve pressure.

The influence of the nerves upon the liver has been demonstrated that it is supplied with nerve energy from the central nervous system. The nerves of the liver are in function; that is, they control the caliber and tension of the blood vessels, others pass directly to cells and control the secretion of the bile. The nerve supply of the liver comes by way of the spinal nerves which originate in the brain and proceed down to the various fibers to stomach, liver and intestines.
