Chiropractic Talks

CHIROPRACTIC FOR HEADACHES

The nerves of the eye, ear, nose and mouth pass through a permanent or im-movable opening in the bones of the skull each being accompanied by an artery and vein which supply the corresponding part. These vessels are governed by nerves comng from the spinal cord and any interference with their control will allow them to dilate and press against the nerves coming through the same opening, causing headache, carache, deafness, eye trouble, catarrh,

While the trouble is felt in the part afected, the cause is somewhere along the nerve in the spine. There are various forms of headaches and the Chiropractor makes if his business when adjusting a patient's spine to locate the cause of each and remove it.

A headache located in the forehead or over the eyes in spoken of as a frontal or eye headache, and is caused by a local sub-ligation in the upper or middle cervical region. A headache located in the region of the temples is called a temporal head-ache, and is usually caused by a subluxa-tion in the region of the fourth dorsal. A vertical or sick headache is the result and a symptom of disorders of gastric digestion and will be relieved by releasing the nerve pressure in the middle dorsal region. A headache in the back part of the head is called an occipital headache and is usually caused by a lumbar subluxation.

It makes little or no difference to the Chiropractor as to what kind of headache the patient has so long as he knows the region involved; he reasons from cause to effect and vice versa, and in a great many cases can conclusively prove beyond a doubt just where the cause is to be found by nerve tracing from the subluxated vertebrac to the region affected.

From a Chiropractic standpoint naming a disease amounts to nothing, as Chiropractors do not have to depend upon diagnosis to get the sick well.

For example, say that the stomach is abnormal, it may be a case of so-called gastritis, or dyspepsia, or dilation, or prolapsus, the fact remains that they are all primarily caused by nerve pressure from the same region of the spine and in a great many cases produce headaches; now isn't it reasonable to believe that the logical thing to do would be to have a Chiropractor release the herve pressure regardless of the abnormality and allow thing to do would be to have a Chiropractor release the herve pressure regardless of the nature of the abnormality and allow the life force or nerve supply to restore the stomach to normal? Releasing nerve pressure is a Chiropractor's specialty. If what has been said of the stomach is true, and Chiropractic has more than the control of the stomach is true, and age; thousands of people suits with them from year to year; often going from bad to worse; trying this, that and the other thing, with only temporary relief, and at last give up in despair, believing that there is no help for them.

If you are a headache sufferer, regardiess of what form, you should consult a competent Chiropractor and allow him to make a careful spinal analysis of your case, remembering that there can be no effect without a cause and that a Chiropractor's duty consists in locating the cause, which is a subluxated vertebrae, and adjusting it back towards its normal position.

Nature will do everything necessary to keep the body in a state of co-ordination or health so long as there is no interference with the life force or nerve supply which is intended to take caré of every cell in the body, but if there are subluxated vertebrae, causing nerve pressure and a lowering is intended to take care subjuxated vertebrae, causing nerve pressure and a lowering of bodily resistance, inco-ordination or so-called disease will be the result sooner or later, as it is a violation of Nature's laws and a penalty that must be paid, even though the sufferer be ever so innocent and ignorant of the existing condition, and a great many times the penalty is headache.

These are not theories, but facts a thousand times verified. Will you investigate this science that is as accurate as mathematics, and be convinced, or are you going to dismiss it with a passing thought? If it had no merit it could not exist. Thousands who formerly suffered with headaches, some of them for years, and were relieved at the hands of Chiropractors, are passing the good word to sick and suffering friends, and it is hoped that these Chiropractic talks will be the means of carrying a message to a he hoped that these Chiropractic data with be the means of carrying a message to a great many that have never heard of the greatest health science of the age.
