BITTER DEBATE MARKS HEARING ON DANCE HALLS

Rabbi Cohn Makes Scathing Arraignment of "Reformers" With Narrow, Puritanical Ideas."

City council, sitting as committee of the whole, concurred in the recommendation of Mayor Dahlman by laying the public dance hall ordinance on the table for a period of 60 days, during which time the city commissioners will obtain first-hand information on the situation.

Discussion for and against the ordinance lasted for nearly three hours Monday morning, the debate growing bitter and personal at times.

Calls Them "Fanatics."

Rabbi Frederick Cohn, chairman of the Board of Public Welfare, in opposition to the ordinance, led off with severe arraignment of those reterred to as trying to lead the world into a state of fanaticism. The rabbi said: "One species of amusement is trying to reform and regulate others. The next thing we will know is that these people who are trying to close the dance halls will be seeking to prohibit a husband from kissing his wife. I am opposed to closing the public dance halls, opposed not only as chairman of the Board of Public Welfare, but as a citizen. Some of these opponents of the public dance have narrow, puritanical ideas. They will seek to prevent smoking the next thing. One of these women admitted that she had never been in a dance hall in her life and yet she would close these places. These people who imagine themselves to be of such superior virtue will be endeavoring to stop in-mocent games in our homes. This will lead to fanaficism and the curtail-ment of our liberties. We are fighting against autocracy. Dancing is not intrinsically wrong, or I would op-pose it. Dancing originated in re-

Says They're Deluded.

"To oppose dancing indicates an unhealthy and unsound attitude to-ward life. You delude yourselves when you believe that young men and women are paragons of virtue until they reach the public dance hall." The rabbi stated that many of those who are opposing the dance have a morbid sense of right and wrong. He reported that he had heard of indiscretions at dances of the fashionables. He charged hysteria and emotion-alism to most of those opposing the dance halls, Girl's Own Fault.

Della Arthur introduced herself as a stenographer, formerly a waitress. "It is a girl's own fault if she goes wrong because she attends a public dance," she said. "I have been attending these dances several times a week and twice on Sunday and no man ever gave me one cent toward my support. I was sent from home when I was 13 years old and have made my own way. I suppose some of these women would say that the dance halls force girls to wear georgette crepe waists and even paid them money. I suppose the dance halls forced Mae Nace to go on the bootlegging trip. Why don't some of you women reformers here do something practical for the work-ing girls? One of the things you might do is to establish a segregated district and thus relieve the working girls from meeting the characters you say frequent the public dance halls."

John A. Rine charged that the women who are now pleading for the working girls in connection with the dance halls did not go to Lincoln to help him obtain legislation for these working girls.

WEEPING WIVES MAKE STRANGE MIX IN COURT

Tearful scenes marked the preliminary hearings in police court of Bennie Thomas, Frank Guthrie, Donald Diamond, alleged members of a gang of store thieves, said to have been operating on a large scale in Omaha during the last three months.

Mrs. Guthrie and Mrs. Diamond, who are sisters, wept on their husands' necks, and it required the combined efforts of several court attaches to separate them.

There are three separate complaints of breaking and entering against the men. They are charged with the theft of an automobile from a garage in the rear of the home of Russel Condon, 3634 South Twenty-sixth street.

The second complaint charges them with stealing 140 pairs of shoes from Frank Semerad's store, 1260 South Sixteenth street. The shoes are valued at $500.

The meat market of C. H. Marquard, 2003 Cuming street, is the third place said to have been robbed by the trio. They were bound over to district court on all three charges, with total bonds of $2,250 each.
