

TUSCANIA DEAD ARE BURIED IN SCOTCH TOWNS

171 Victims of German Subsea Warfare Laid to Rest; Unable to Obtain Supply of Coffins.

(By Associated Press.)
A Scotch seaport, Tuesday, Feb. 12.—Up to Tuesday night, a week after the disaster, 171 victims of the ill-fated Tuscania had been laid to rest at different points on the Scottish coast.

These were divided as follows: Americans, 131 identified and 33 unidentified.

Crew, four identified and three unidentified.

Associated Press Data.
The Associated Press correspondent co-operated with the American army officers in obtaining these figures, which go forward to Washington as the most accurate and complete list obtainable.

The last 17 of these bodies recovered were all Americans—were buried this afternoon, villagers again coming many miles in a downpour of rain to pay their simple tribute to the American dead.

The bodies were brought to the burial place on one big motor truck, which was followed along the route several miles long by the squad of 25 khaki-clad American survivors and the village mourners. One of the villagers carried the Union Jack, while an American soldier held aloft the Stars and Stripes.

At the graveside the American soldiers sang the "Star Spangled Banner," followed by the natives singing "God Save the King." The usual military salute was then fired, ending the ceremony.

Temporary fences have been built around the graves to be replaced by a permanent enclosure as soon as the materials can be brought to these desolate shores.

Will Erect Monument.

A British colonel, who has worked day and night since the disaster helping the Americans bury their dead, announced today that the people of the nearby countryside had started a public subscription to erect a permanent monument to the Americans.

There are eight Americans still here too ill to leave, several of them still dazed by their experiences. They are quartered in nearby farm houses and village hotels.

These men are: F. I. Benefield, E. L. Lyckstrom, Wilbur C. Nutt, Boyd E. Hancock, E. E. Harpham, Henry Schurting, James J. Colwell and F. A. Gocher.

Two clergymen came many miles and read the Scotch and Episcopal services, after which volunteers fired three volleys, which re-echoed against the hillsides. While this was going on, the only photographer within twenty miles photographed the scene.

Bodies Horribly Mutilated.

The ceremony was much the same as was carried out at the same spot on the previous day, when 43 Americans were laid to rest in two other graves. So badly mutilated were many of the bodies that two American army officers who were sent here from London expressly for the purpose, found it impossible to take finger prints for identification purposes.

Identified by Metal Discs.

Among the treacherous, low-lying rocks 20 miles farther north, the next greatest number was found—49. Next day between these two points 44 bodies were recovered in a small cove, 16 of which the correspondent helped to bury today.

When a few bodies were found at scattered places they were brought to a more centralized point and buried with many others in one or two large trenches. A majority of the dead were identified through the metal discs which the men wore. There were about 20 instances of men wearing blank tags, but in spite of this fact a majority of them were identified by a general description of the body and papers carried by the men in their pockets.

So many bodies came ashore between the cliffs and in inaccessible places that great difficulty was experienced in conveying them to burial places. Some bodies were dashed upon the rocks at the base of precipitous cliffs higher than the palisades of the Hudson river. At one point 44 bodies were recovered at the base of cliffs which rose to a height of 300 feet, making it impossible to remove them more than a few yards from the water's edge.

Hard to Obtain Coffins.

The absence of timber on the barren lands out of which to make coffins delayed the burials and made it necessary to bury ultimately most of the bodies of the men in their uniforms, covered with canvas. Some few coffins were provided from trees cut down for the purpose.

An undertaker at the point where the 60 bodies were found soon exhausted his small supply of coffins. Thereupon the owner of a big estate immediately ordered out all of his employees to cut down the only clump of trees within miles in order to make coffins. This provided 25. No more trees were to be found on the otherwise barren land, so it was decided to place the coffins at the bottom of a great pit and then lay the bodies of some of the men in rows on top of them. The overlayer of khaki-clad soldiers was placed in one great sheet of canvas. Another ten bodies were laid over this row and so on until all were ready for burial.

At the point where 40 bodies were buried no timber whatsoever was available and all the men had to be buried without coffins.

Extend Time for Soldiers To Apply for Insurance

Washington, Feb. 13.—The time in which soldiers and sailors who entered the service more than 120 days ago may apply for government voluntary life insurance, which would have expired last night, was extended to April 12, under a joint resolution approved by President Wilson.

Secretary McAdoo explained, however, that this extension does not apply to automatic insurance without application, which ceased last night.

HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES IF YOUR BACK ACHES

Do you feel tired and "worn-out"? Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sweat well at night? Have a "dragged out" unrested feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Bilious? Bad taste in the mouth, headache, pain or soreness in the joints and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stone in the bladder or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys. You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The oil soaks gently into the walls and lining of the kidneys, and the little poisonous animal germs, which are causing the inflammation, are immediately attacked and chased out of your system without inconvenience or pain. Do not delay a minute. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In 24 hours you will feel renewed health and vigor. After you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two capsules each day so as to keep in first-class condition, and ward off the danger of future attacks. Money refunded if they do not help you. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, and thus be sure of getting the genuine.—Advertisement.
