Can You Find Yourself on the Screen?

A number of Omaha girls have been told by their friends that they resemble screen stars. True, they haven't the Mary Pickford curl or the Douglas Fairbanks' smile, but very often a strong resemblance is noted by little mannerisms, perhaps a certain turn of the head or way of walking.

Miss Elizabeth Davis has often been told that she resembled Mabel Normand, and don't you really think that dark-eyed Clara Kimball Young has a double in Mrs. Dick Coad?

We know a very stunning girl in our town, who was recently married, whose resemblance to Anita Stewart is very marked.

Many people think that Mrs. W. N. Chambers looks a bit like that mysterious heroine, Olga Petrova. It is a little hard to see this, as Mrs. Chambers is blond and Petrova is undeniably dark, but still the movie fans maintain that there is a likeness in their features.

Pretty little Miss Gertrude Kountze also has a twin on the screen and probably if you hunt a bit you will find that several Omaha girls have doubles in filmland.

The Old Chums' Club.

Just for the sake of auld lang syne, a little club of women who call themselves the "Old Chums' Club," meet once a month for luncheon and a bit of a chat. This is one of the oldest clubs in the city, for it has been organized for 20 years. There were 16 members originally, but now there are but 10, as the others have moved away. The luncheons are always very simple, with no centerpiece or frills and in the afternoons knitting needles click busily, for all the members are working industriously for our fighting men. Mrs. W. A. Shropshire was hostess for the club at her home today.

Dancing Classes.

W. E. Chambers has introduced an innovation in dancing classes. Saturday night he opens a class for traveling men, their wives and families, to meet in his studio at 1818 Harney street. Beginning next Friday night a class for girls who wish to take up professional work will be started.

Charles Withers, Omaha boy at the Orpheum this week, was a pupil of Mr. Chambers.

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, former president of the Minneapolis Woman's club and chairman of the literature department, General Federation of Women's Clubs, has entered the race for the second vice presidency at the next biennial meeting, to be held in Hot Springs, Ark., April 30.

That Mrs. Winter will have the support of the Nebraska delegation is a foregone conclusion, as Mrs. Winter visited the Omaha Woman's club about two years ago and made a stirring address which won the hearts of all the members.

Soliloquy of Modern

Eve

The current of "Can't" runs through, and ruins, many lives. : : : :

By ADELAIDE KENNERLY.

FEW of us really enjoy acknowledging our limitations, though we all have them. We prefer to tell the world of our achievements—the landmarks along the way to phantom fame.

Such boasting may help temporarily, but it never wins in a close race. Put to the test the whole world will find you out and it is more cruel with those who have boasted their worth, or their deeds of valor, than to the silent workers.

To have a good opinion of oneself is a most valuable asset, but good opinions must be based on efficiency, energy and persistency to keep them from becoming merely a gust of air.

The current of "can't" runs through many lives and takes with it every hope. It is ruining millions of prospects and nipping endeavors in the bud. It impregnates its prey with the spirit of resentment for anything out of the ordinary; it encourages shiftlessness and monotonous routine; it closes the eyes to the beautiful and dulls the spirit of progress.

This current of "can't" oozes into every life somewhere along the road and encourages limitations.

Limitations?

Yes, we all have them, but the difference lies in the way they are handled.

Path of Discovery.

To acknowledge our limitations is wise, for it is through such acknowledgment (to ourselves) that the door of the mind is opened to the light. It starts us on the path of discovery which leads to unexplored worlds of possibility.

Since trials are the supreme tests of strength, we should welcome them as opportunities to develop our best—bid them come forth from their hiding places.

Acknowledge limitations without courting them!

Acknowledge them with a determination to have fewer at the next accounting!

Such is the attitude of the progressive spirit.

most delightful bridge luncheon in her honor at the home of Mrs. A. P. Durkee today.

Blackstone Dates.

The guests at the Blackstone will make merry Saturday evening at a little informal dance. A number of large dinners are scheduled during March at the hotel. The nurses from the Wise Memorial hospital will entertain at dinner on St. Patrick's day, The Blue Goose, a very mysterious club, evidently, from its name, will have a dinner-dance on March 18, when 50 guests will attend. The Omaha National bank directors will entertain 100 guests at dinner on March 26 at the hotel.

Girl Graduates of Law School.

Miss Mona Cowell and Miss Gladys Shamp will graduate from Creighton Law school, the latter part of May. Miss Cowell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cowell and Miss Shamp is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Shamp. Both young women are active in war work.

Pleasures Past.

Mrs. H. B. Wright entertained at luncheon at her home Wednesday, followed by an afternoon of cards. High scores were won by Mesdames C. E. Ring, D. J. Nelson and Ed Grant.

Use of Tin in Silk.

It is estimated that at least 5,000 tons of metallic tin are used yearly in this country to make tin tetrachloride, which is purchased by silk dyers for weighting and finishing silk. The American Metal Market says that by far the largest percentage of tin recovered from tin-plate scrap is now devoted to this purpose by the silk industry, and is lost. It urges that such use be suspended during the war as a tin conservation measure.

Red Cross Notes

A formal opening for the Red Cross rooms in the new Masonic temple was announced at the monthly meeting Thursday afternoon at the Young Women's Christian association of the heads of auxiliaries. This event will take place the latter part of next week. The departments now moving from their present quarters in the Baird building are the surgical supplies, hospital garments and the supply department.

Work has begun on the sale of tickets for the lecture to be given on April 6 by Sergeant Guy Empey, author of the war book, "Over the Top." The proceeds are to be given to the Associated Charities. Mrs. George Doane, head of that organization, announced that 4,000 tickets are to be placed on sale.

The Business Women's club auxiliary met Thursday night at the Young Women's Christian association. There were 52 present and 510 gauge strips were made, the workers cutting their own gauge. This class meets every Thursday night from 7 until 9. Any business girl who wishes may join. Mrs. Frank Judson is instructor.

Stringing buttons is one of the projects which will be given to the very small members of the Junior Red Cross. There are 40 school auxiliaries now at work.

Telephone girls who belong to the Yost auxiliary have petitioned their instructor, Mrs. Frank Judson, to arrange a course of lectures for them during their meetings. Between 50 and 150 girls attend the classes held Monday nights at the Scottish Rite cathedral.

A number of knitted socks have not been passed by the state censor, as they do not come up to the measurements, and the Red Cross has requested the National League for Women's Service to remedy the deficiencies on these garments. The work will have to be done at the league rooms and all women who can knit are urged to come to the rooms and aid in this work.

Omaha Woman's Book

Of Stories Accepted

By the Publishers

Mrs. Etta Parker Haight is the latest Omaha woman to win success in the literary world. Unknown to her many friends, for Mrs. Haight has lived in Omaha most of her life, she has been contributing short stories to several magazines, but her first book, containing two stories of western life, "Tal-Moochi" and "Passing of Prudence Priscilla," have been accepted by a Baltimore publishing house and will be issued in about two months.

Mrs. Haight comes from a literary family. Her cousin, Mrs. Dore Lyon, former president of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs, who lectured in Omaha several years, is a well known novelist. One of her books is named "Prudence Pratt" after the grandmother of both Mrs. Lyon and Mrs. Haight. It is the same "Prudence" around whom the Omaha woman weaved her story. An agreeable thread of humor runs through Mrs. Haight's stories.

Mrs. Haight is very modest about her success.

"I never told my friends about it because I believe that whenever anyone embarks on an enterprise or career in which they have any pride, it is well not to talk too much about it until one's efforts are crowned with some degree of success," she said, when asked how she kept her secret.

Mrs. Jack Sharp is the daughter of Mrs. Haight.

Reunion of P. E. O.

Members at Uptike

Home Saturday

All P. E. O. sisterhood members in the city will be entertained at the home of Mrs. N. B. Uptike Saturday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5. A musical program will be given. This is the first social affair of the P. E. O. since they entertained the supreme convention.

Chapter E held its annual election Thursday, at which time Mrs. Uptike was re-elected president. Mrs. George Tribble is vice president; Mrs. J. A. Bryans, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Thatcher, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. M. Cox, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Fitton, chaplain; Miss Hazel Uptike, guard, and Mrs. Robert Grant, journalist.

Mrs. Uptike and Mrs. Tribble are the delegates chosen for the state meeting to be held in North Platte in June. Mrs. Bryans and Mrs. W. A. Shropshire are the alternates.

Unpack Pennell's

War Lithographs

Women of the War Relief society are today unpacking the Pennell pictures in the Keeline building. They are extraordinarily interesting, representing every phase of war preparation. Munition plants, navy yards and military camps are shown and with Mr. Pennell's rare skill.

The artist is a member of the leading art organizations in Europe and this country. He is represented in the Luxembourg gallery in Paris, the Uffizi in Florence, Modern galleries in Venice and Rome, and in the British and South Kensington museums in London.

The Omaha exhibition begins Monday and continues two weeks. Admission is 10 cents. It is a benefit for the War Relief society. Tea will be served each afternoon.

Eat Oklahoma Rabbits

In Oklahoma, where rabbits are plentiful and often a pest, they are being used lavishly as a meat substitute. Two thousand rabbits are eaten every meatless day in Tulsa, Okla., or about 5,000 weekly. Increased demand from restaurants and homes has made it possible for hunters to kill them in greater numbers, and the supply in the markets has kept pace with demand to such a degree that prices have not advanced.

Woman supervisors are to be appointed to look after the welfare of women working in munition plants throughout the United States.
