PROCLAMATION:

Never in the history of the nation has pure food been as essential to our well being as at the present time. In this period of national crisis when the obligation to feed a considerable portion of the population of the world rests upon our country, when our people are asked to eat less that our allies may eat more, the question of pure food takes on an added importance and significance.

To impress these facts upon all concerned, I, as Governor of Nebraska, designate the week beginning March 9th, as Pure Food Week and bespeak for the Pure Food Department of the State Government the hearty co-operation of the people of Nebraska, to the end that the Department will be the better able to protect the health of our people and incidentally render more efficient and effective assistance to the government in the winning of the war.

KEITH NEVILLE,
Governor of Nebraska.

OMAHA PASTORS WILL MAKE PLEA FOR ARMENIANS

Drive for Funds Will Be Started in Churches; Omaha's Quota is $60,000.

"If Omaha only knew the story," This is the wish, the prayer, the members themselves say, of all who belong to the local organization seeking relief money for starving Armenians and Syrian children. The local committee will conduct a campaign this week to raise $45,000 yet remaining of Omaha's quota of $60,000.

All last week incessant committee meetings were held, drives for solicitors were planned and this morning in the churches of the city the ministers will launch the drive. It is not a church drive, but one for every person who has the interests of humanity at heart, say members of the committee.

"It is not a campaign for money; it is a campaign to save lives," the leaders say. "Seventeen cents a day, $5 a month, $60 a year, will save a life. We will not ask 'How much will you subscribe,' but we will ask, 'How many lives will you save.'"

Est Grass Roots. E. A. Benson, talking informally to a group of friends, declared the difficulty in raising the funds was due to lack of information. "People are inclined to look upon it as a foreign missionary charity, when it isn't at all," said he. "People are starving; children, having eaten the roots of grass and the uncooked grass itself, are dying hourly in the utmost misery. While we have been talking here not less than two of these miserable little babies have gone into the great beyond."

"And they can expect no help from anyone except America. The American committee, aided by the Red Cross, which cannot do the work itself, has direct connection with the persecuted peoples through the Switzerland diplomatic offices and it has workers right in the field who attend to administering the funds. "We are not working to aid animal-like savages or heathen, but a cultivated, intellectual, refined Christian people who are the helpless victims of one of the greatest combinations of murderous militarism and racial hatred the world has ever known. Hundreds of thousands are dead and hundreds of thousands are dying unless we help."

Depend on America. Everybody has a superficial knowledge of the terrible conditions under which these enlightened people are dying like flies in the terror land ruled by the power of Islam, the committee believes, but the difficulty is people have not stopped to think how directly that reaches them.

"In the Omaha newspapers this week have appeared two articles telling of new massacres and torture in Armenia," said one worker. "The news items were brief--it doesn't take half a page to tell even of a great tragedy like that--but they were read by thousands of Omaha people. These people did not stop to think that behind these brief stories are worlds of suffering, of starvation and agonizing death that none but America, with Omaha doing its share, can save."

Untold Suffering.

The story of Armenia, with its direct appeal to Omaha this week, is told in this brief summary furnished by the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief: "At least 1,000,000 Armenians and Syrians have been killed, forced into Islam, have perished on the way to exile or been deported to northern Arabia. These helpless, hopeless refugees were forced out from their homes with little preparation for the journey and with no shelter from the storms or protection from the cold or heat. A man following one of these caravans for 25 miles reported to a United States consul that he counted over 500 dead bodies on the road."

"A crying need comes from the 400,000 orphans who have survived the deportation. Many of them are so small that they do not know how to feed themselves properly. They sleep alone in the dark, sobbing from hunger and fright and loneliness. The majority are girls, and why? Because girls can endure physical suffering better than boys. But in many cases the boys gave their last crumb to the girls and starved to death themselves. "Refugees are located in broken down houses, damp sheds, stalls and stables, where sickness is unavoidable for them, where the famished family lies upon the cold, damp earth, without any heat whatever. If this condition continues, half the refugees will die. Many are dying of hunger on the highways and in the woods, where they go seeking grass and weeds, but find the ground barren, the locusts having consumed all vegetation."

U. S. Individuality to Be

Big Product of Great War

Paris, Friday, March 8.--The war will complete the development of the national individuality of the United States is the conviction expressed by Dr. M. R. Vesnitch, head of the Serbian mission to the United States, in a statement given to the Petit Parisien. That, he said, would be the most positive and most fortunate result of the struggle, and civilization throughout the habitable world would profit by it.
