DRY AMENDMENT BILL INTRODUCED IN LOWER HOUSE

Expected Measure Comes and Is Expected to Produce Much Argument: Many Political Boomlets at State House.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Lincoln, March 27.—(Special.)dembers of the legislature are not expecting enemy airplanes to fly over the old and ancient ruins of a once republican nomination. beautiful statehouse and drop bombs upon its unprotected dome, but they are nervous lest some deadly gas resolutions may be forced upon them. Their fears were realized today when H. R. No. 11, a bill for the rati-lutions are to be considered. Jerry Howard went over the top this morning and got in his stock yards resolution before the rest of the members were awake. It met with some opposition, but Jerry, in the guise of the early bird, was able to get over the top in the mists of the early morning hours.

Several boomlets of a political nato be promoted to that celebrated body which they cussed so heartily and persistently during the last sesion, the senate.

Most prominent of these is that of Representative George Washington Greenwalt, statesman from Custer. He has already filed to fill the shoes of that other eloquent sttesman from Custer, Senator Beal, who, if he can beat Secretary of State Pool for the democratic nomination for congress in the Sixth district, will go up against the Kinkaid choriot, which has already run over so many aspiring and perspiring democratic statesmen up in he short grass country. Mr. Greenwalt ispopular with the house members and they are all backing him for the senate irrespective of party affiliations or previous condition of servitude,

Mr. Greenwalt says that while he has in the past been just a little crude and unpolished in a sort of way, since coming out for the senate he has become somewhat metropolitan and by brushing up against the senators during the special session he feels he will be able to run in the same class with Robertson, Sandall, "Doc" Wilson and 'Doc" Tanner.

What About Sandall? It is also said that Representative Reed of Hamilton county has his eye on a seat in the other end of the state house, the seat filled by Sandall of York the last session. It is said that Sandall might be prevailed upon to be a candidate for the republican nomination for congress in the Fourth district or for governor, and if so, Mr. Reed, who is also a republican, might see the road clear to enter the race. It is well known that Lieutenant Governor Howard aspires to the United States senate. Some time before the special session is over it is expected the lieutenant governor will let the secret out, not from the platform where he presides, but in a sort of private grapevine confidential mes-There probably are others who have an itching for the "higher things, but to date have not made their wants

After my 12 days at the British front I felt perfectly sare that the Germans could not break it. that the Germans could not break it. The lines will bend and come back again, that is to be expected. Camp Dodgers Celebrate.

A day's sightseeing trip was planned. A long hike and then a our of the city in automobiles, furnished by citizens, was followed by a visit to the state house. A big dinner was enjoyed at the Chamberlain hotel at noon and in the aftertoon the men went to the theater. After the show the company went to the Chamber of Commerce, where members enjoyed a banquet.

Kaiser Lovers Watched.

J. Olson, 26 years old, living at Ceylon, Minn. asked so many ques-tions around Camp Dodge, especially as to the movement of troop trains, that the officers became suspicious. They took him in hand and gave him a thorough grilling. Through tele-grams sent to his home town, howcorroborated and the officers finally released the man. He is a carpenter

Many Want Auto Training.

Many men beyond the draft age are anxious to get the two months' special training in auto mechanics for service abroad which is now being offered to 1,500 registrants in Iowa. Local draft boards report that many requests are being received by them from men who wish to get into this service, but who are beyond the draft age. Adjutant General Logan has been appealed to by so many draft boards as to whether or not it is possible to encourage these men that he issued a special letter to all draft boards today stating that local boards had no authority whatever in cases of men not registered. In a half hour's time today the adjutant general's office received three telephone calls and two letters from five local boards on this question. "If these men want to enlist they should apply to the near-est recruiting station," General Logan declares in his letter to the boards.
