

DRIVE AGAINST SMALLPOX GETS UNDER WAY HERE

Employees of Street Railway Company Are Vaccinated; Omaha Business Houses Fall in Line.

Don't jolt the arm of the street car conductor when you enter the tram or you will be apt to start something. Cause they might have sore arms. At any rate they will have a vaccination sore which they don't want jolted.

This all comes about by reason of the government's orders that smallpox be stamped out in cities which are near to government army camps. Thursday the entire office force of the street railway company was vaccinated, and today a start is being made on the motormen and conductors.

Health Commissioner Connell has the assurance that the larger establishments in Omaha will assist in this crusade and will request their employees to be vaccinated. Employees of Brandeis stores are to have their arms scarred Tuesday, Hayden Bros. Monday and Burgess-Nash starting immediately.

C. of C. Endorses Move.

The executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the move and the club is sending out letters to all members asking that they have all their employees vaccinated.

Following is the letter being sent out by Health Commissioner Connell to business houses, setting forth the request of the government and the further reasons for immediate vaccination of all who have not been recently vaccinated:

"The governor, the state health commissioner and Major Crowder of the United States government, at Washington, have requested me, as health commissioner of Omaha, to stamp out the epidemic of smallpox now prevailing in our city. There is no effective way of stamping it out except by general vaccination of our citizens, an appeal has been made by the Chamber of Commerce to all employers for them to see that all their employees are vaccinated, and Neglected in K. C.

"Whereas, if active measures are adopted at once for the control of the present epidemic, our city will be spared the situation now existing in Kansas City, which neglected universal vaccination until recently, and where since the first of January, 1918, there have been over 3,000 cases of smallpox with seven deaths from that disease. During the last month some 100,000 people have been vaccinated there, and

"Whereas, an emergency exists and every one of our citizens should respond to every reasonable request made by our government: I, therefore, order all your employees vaccinated (excepting those who have been successfully vaccinated during the last three years, and those who have had smallpox), and request you to notify them of this order, and make arrangements for them to be vaccinated as soon as possible.

"Any persons not able to pay for the vaccination can be vaccinated at the health office between 8:30 and noon, free of charge."

BRITISH LABOR LEADERS SPEAK SATURDAY NIGHT

Charles Duncan, labor member in the British Parliament, and William Moses, representing the British trades unions, will speak in the Auditorium Saturday night under the auspices of the Central Labor union. Colis Lovey, representing the American Federation of Labor, will accompany the visitors and will speak.

These labor leaders are members of the British labor commission. W. A. Appleton, J. Walker and William James Thorne, also members of the party, are following other itineraries. An effort was made to have Samuel Compers here for this meeting. Tom P. Reynolds will preside and Omaha Musicians' union will furnish a band.

Government to Open Another Free Employment Bureau

Another government employment bureau, under the joint management of state and federal authorities, will soon be opened in the vicinity of Eleventh and Farnam streets, if present plans carry. This new agency will be a branch of the one now operating in the county courthouse, and is intended to obtain positions for laborers. Skilled labor will also be accommodated. This, it is expected, will seriously impede operations of bureaus, operating in the eastern part of the city, which have been making a traffic of unskilled labor.

Omahans Visit Son at Big Aviation Camp in Ohio

W. W. Johnston, assistant general freight agent of the Burlington, and Mrs. Johnston, are home from Dayton, O., where they went to visit their son, Sergeant James, who is at Camp Wright. Sergeant Johnston, an Omaha boy is a member of the flying squadron stationed at Camp Wright and is rapidly qualifying as an aviator. There are about 2,000 young men in training there and they expect at any time to go to France.

The six alleged robbers, arrested for robbing a freight car in a train going over the Lane cut-off on the Union Pacific March 22, were brought before United States Commissioner Neely Friday. The cases were continued until Monday morning.

All are young, apparently more than ordinarily intelligent, well dressed and groomed. Harold Savage of the South Side is charged with breaking into the car and Albert Schwartz, alias Houck, and Jarold Sexton, Walter Knobs, Richard Raven and Edward Baker are charged with aiding and abetting him.

The robbery occurred at midnight. Savage is alleged to have run along at the side of the car and entered as it was moving slowly up the grade. He is alleged to have thrown the boxes out from the moving car, and his companions are charged with loading them on their automobile. Officers caught three of the men in the act. The others escaped and were captured later in Council Bluffs.

Ravin is only 20 years old and his attorney says he just "got in bad company." He wants to join the army now. Each of the young fellows was represented by an attorney.

Couple Held by Police Are Accused of Shoplifting

With the arrest Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowan, police believe an organized system of shoplifting has been broken up. They were arrested by Detectives Anderson and Zandolek and are held on a charge of retail larceny.

Both prisoners were found guilty in police court Friday, following a charge of stealing $17.50, a suit of clothes and a small amount of money from a gas meter in the home of Mrs. Nellie Harrison, 1506 North Twenty-sixth street. Mrs. Bowan was fined $5 and costs and her husband sentenced to 20 days in jail.

Three dresses, valued at more than $100, one of which was identified as the property of John Beno company of Council Bluffs, was in possession of Mrs. Bowan when arrested, police say. A coat alleged to have been stolen from Mrs. Harrison was recovered from the Burgess-Nash store, where it had been exchanged for a smaller coat.

Police say Bowan escaped from the state penitentiary at Stockton, Cal., where he was serving a sentence for burglary.

Nearly $3,000,000 Deposited In Banks Through Postoffice

Nearly $3,000,000 has been deposited this week in Omaha banks through the Omaha postoffice, representing the purchase of thrill and war savings stamps by the people of Nebraska. So great is the demand through the postoffices of the state that dozens of telegrams have been received by the Omaha postoffice, demanding quick shipments of more stamps to various places.

U.S. WANTS PHOTO OF BARBEQUE FOR BOYS IN KHAKI

Compiling Records in Pictures of Activities Over the Country in Preparing for War.

A pictorial history of the war is being compiled by the Historical branch of the Army War college. Lieutenant-Colonel C. W. Weeks, chief of staff of this department, has written to the Omaha Bee asking its co-operation in gathering photographs to illustrate local war activities.

Omaha furnishes a fertile field for patriotic pictures. Immediately after the declaration of war, several divisions of the Nebraska National Guard mobilized in Omaha. The Fourth Nebraska took up headquarters at Sixteenth and Farnam, the machine gun company of the Fifth was quartered at Keop's academy, and several companies of the newly organized Sixth, as well as the principal headquarters, was located in Omaha.

Barbeque at Park. The first war pictures taken in Omaha were the personnel of these organizations, their officers, scenes of their temporary quarters, military inspection, mascots, the big barbeque at Riverview park given by the Sixth, the Liberty parade to advertise the photoplay "The Battle of the Tanks," military inspections, the public farewells, the entraining of the troops for Camp Cody, Deming, N. M.

These are just the kind of pictures Uncle Sam wants for his big war scrap book. The next chapter of local history he wishes centers about the establishment of the Omaha ambulance company now in training at Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky. A feature of this organization's mobilization at the municipal auditorium was a public exhibition of their drills and work.

Show the Draft Army. Registration day, the draft army, its departure, the exemption claimants, the exemption boards, form a large part of Omaha's war story.

The government pictorial historian will certainly devote many pages to the unique balloon school the first and until very recently the only one in the country.

The six sons of the late James McShane, whose enlistment was recognized by a personal letter to their parents by President Wilson, is another exceptional feature.

Organization of the Nebraska Red Cross, its headquarters in the Red Cross uniform, newly fitted work rooms, Omaha chapter activities, the hall given for funds at the Fontenelle. The organization of the National League for Woman's Service, their registration of all Nebraska women for war service, and other works will form a chapter in pictorial history.

War Gardens. Omaha's men called to training camps for the Officer's Reserve corps affords one of the most interesting features. Omaha's response to the government's command to raise war gardens and dry, can and preserve products was so enthusiastic that the whole country patterned canning schools and drying plants after Omaha. The work of the food administrator, including neighborhood meetings, house to house canvasses by the Boy Scouts, offer opportunity for pictorial history.

Visits of the French mission, Secretary McAdoo, General Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Helen Fraser, and other war workers are incidents of worth in records of war activities. Fort Crook, at which is stationed the 41st infantry, local Liberty loan work drives war savings campaigns by the Young Men's Christian association and the Young Women's Christian association for huts and houses at army camps. Red Star, Blue Star and other patriotic campaigns are subject matter for many views which will be sent by The Bee to the war college to represent local patriotism.

Both prisoners were found guilty in police court Friday, following a charge of stealing $17.50, a suit of clothes and a small amount of money from a gas meter in the home of Mrs. Nellie Harrison, 1506 North Twenty-sixth street. Mrs. Bowan was fined $5 and costs and her husband sentenced to 20 days in jail.
