

75 CANDIDATES SCORE FOR WORD IN PRIMARY RACE

Omaha Voters Next Tuesday
Will Select 14 of List as Nominees in City Election.

Next Tuesday voters of Greater Omaha will have an opportunity to select 14 out of a list of 75 candidates as nominees in the city election May 7, when seven will be elected to serve for three years as city commissioners.

Registered electors on Tuesday may each vote for not more than seven of the candidates, and the 14 who shall receive the highest votes will be declared as the nominees.

There will be no contest at the primary in the nomination of city charter commission candidates, as only 25 have filed and the law provides that 30 shall be nominated if more than 30 shall file.

School Bond Election.
Voters will also express themselves on a school bond proposition of $1,000,000, a majority of the votes cast on this proposition being necessary to approve it.

Under the new districting plan for election purposes there are 154 voting places, each with an election board comprising one inspector, three judges and two clerks, making a total staff of 924 men in charge of the election under the election commissioner.

The polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Each election board will be provided with an unofficial return blank which will be handed to the election commissioner with the official returns. Arrangements have been made to receive part of the returns on city commissioners by telephone as soon as that part of the work shall have been completed by the boards.

By speeding up on the returns it is expected that the 14 nominees will be known by midnight or at least within an hour after that time.

Three Sets Ballots.

Three sets of 70,000 ballots are being printed, the names of the candidates being rotated according to law. With 154 voting places and 75 candidates for city commissioner nominations, each candidate's name will appear first at two voting places and last at two places.

There are approximately 40,000 registered voters now on the books of the election commissioner. Many of these are in military service. The

FINNS INSULT U. S. ARMY ENVOY

American and Briton Rudely
Threatened With Violence by Finnish Officers in Restaurant.

Stockholm, April 4.—The American and British army officers who recently visited General Mannerheim, the Finnish white guard leader, upon orders from their Stockholm legations, were insulted and threatened with personal violence by Finnish officers in a hotel restaurant in Vasa, according to a war correspondent in Finland of a Swedish newspaper.

The correspondent says the two visiting officers who figured in the incident, wearing the uniforms of their rank, entered the restaurant at a time when it was crowded with Finnish officers, mainly from a unit which had served in Germany. The visitors had scarcely had time to take seats before a Finnish officer approached the table and told them their presence was not desired. He withdrew only when shown a pass from General Mannerheim.

Insults to American.
Later another Finn asked the orchestra to play "Die Wacht Am Rhein." Everybody arose, the American and Englishman, plainly desiring total vote at the city primary three years ago was 17,146. Since that time South Omaha, Dundee, Benson and Florence have been annexed, but the addition of voters by reason of annexation has been offset by the war situation.

Prohibit Electioneering.

In the instructions issued to judges and clerks of election the following appears: "No person shall do any electioneering on election day within any polling place, or within 100 feet thereof."

Officers of election are prohibited from doing any electioneering on election day. The penalty for voting more than once is one to five years in the penitentiary.

to avoid threatened violence, also arising. Another Finnish officer, continuing the correspondent, swaggered to the table and said:

"It is our principle not to sit in the same room with Englishmen." The American replied that he was an American, not an Englishman, but the Finn responded: "It is all the same; you have just two minutes to get out of the house."

The visitors, who had finished their meal, left the room, accompanied by insults from the Finnish officers.

M. Saria, the white government's foreign minister and a noted pro-German, sat at nearby table, the correspondent says, and made no effort to protect the men, although they were traveling on a special diplomatic pass from his own government.

Americans and Swedes who have recently been in Finland declare the incident given is typical of the existing feeling among the great majority of the Finns with whom they came in contact.
