How to Make a Real Wrinkle Remover

In these days of cleverly advertised "beautifiers" and "rejuvenators" it is hard for a woman to believe she can make a simple home remedy for the removal of wrinkles which will do her much more good than the average made preparation. There's nothing in the world so effective for erasing or preventing wrinkles, age marks, bagginess of cheeks and chin as a simple and harmless solution made by dissolving an ounce of pure powdered sassa in a half pint of witch hazel. These ingredients, of course, can be had at any drug store. Use the mixture daily for a while as a refreshing wash lotion. The quick and satisfactory results will surprise you. Even the first application produces very marked improvement. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a firm, "solid," comfortable feeling. Soon you will look considerably less than your age.—Advertisement.

The goal set is $10,000, which is to be the beginning of a fine home to be built in the outskirts of the city. Mrs. Nash has offered the use of some of her suburban property for this purpose.

Dress in Paris--Variety of Materials

"We are threatened with a deficiency of dress material for the coming year, but in the meantime the shops are well supplied with everything but really hard wearing cloth. All such things as satins, silks, and velvets are to be seen in abundance, with many variations on one theme," writes the Paris correspondent to the London Times.

Perhaps the most popular material is stamped velvet of various kinds, for coats, evening cloaks, trimming instead of fur, and even for dresses, waistcoats, and hats. Satin still is the most popular material for afternoon dresses; it is generally black. Often, now, a bold embroidery design in ivory wool or silk trims a satin tunic and gives it a lighter note and a richer touch. Indeed, embroidery of all kinds promises to come back into fashion. That those who are employed to work on it might do more useful work is an argument that dressmakers do not see; dressmaking in France, they maintain, must be allowed to flourish, not as a luxury, but as a national industry. This is considered sufficient answer to any protest against elegant dressing in war time. It is also pointed out that many foreigners buy clothes in Paris, and at present Paris is, undoubtedly, a center of military and political, and therefore of some fashionable, importance.

At the Opera.

At a "first night" of a new play, or at a philanthropic performance at the opera, many handsome dresses will be seen, although at a glance the house may look only soberly attired. A few décolletés have crept in, a good many no-sleeve gowns, and some head-has been found, is said to be satisfactory.

Ministry is becoming. Black satin hats with no trimming are worn with neat veils. Brown panne hats and grey panne or satin are good. The small toque grows in favor; the high, heavy crown is dying out. The big picture hat is still in fashion, but, as a rule, a smaller hat is more practical as well as more attractive.

Everyone uses a small bag; in silk or beads or stamped velvet, with mount of tortoiseshell or silver, or else a bag of shiny leather on a short strap. This last is more of a purse than a bag and it can be slipped into the small muff or carried in the hand. The long bag which hangs on the arm is pretty, but not practical.
