VICTOR ROSEWATER, EDITOR

THE BEE PUBLISHING COMPANY, PROPRIETOR. Entered at Omaha postoffice as second-class matter.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Associated Press, of which The Bee is a member, is exclusively led to the use for publication of all news dispatches crudited or not otherwise credited in this paper, and also the local new shed herein. All rights of publication of our special dispatches

REMITTANCE on in payment of small accounts. Personal check, except on unla and eastern exchange, not accepted.

OFFICES

CORRESPONDENCE

MARCH CIRCULATION 66,558 Daily-Sunday, 56,553

Subscribers leaving the city should have The Bee mailed them. Address changed as often as requested.

The slate-makers will now start to get busy

Private Peat does not approve of the kaiser; that much is plain.

At any rate, most of the rotten eggs were brushed into the political rubbish heap. The Hun time table was all right on paper, out it fell a little short of working when put into A consoling thought is that the race was to he swiftest, though not necessarily to the nost deserving. It is also time to plan for your Arbor day observance. Do not let the tree planting lag ou secount of the war.

Nebraska has just achieved the incrediblelegislative session without a corporation lobby -but it is not likely to happen soon again.

Getting the new army under way is much less of a job than assembling it was a year ago. We have learned something by experience.

The Irisa convention's report, you know, is before the House of Commons in London, and has not yet been submitted at Washington.

France has cut the bread ration to two-thirds the former amount. This simply means that each of us must save even more than we have, for we can not let the French go hungry.

Baltimore's nerves are a little jumpy, but as long as nothing worse than the explosion of slag Imppens at Sparrow Point, the citizens may ep their eyes on Fort McHenry and rest easy

The sixty-one "also rans," consumed with a rning desire to help make Omaha a better place to live in, will now resume their civic inactivity until the next chance to connect with the pay

An eight-hour day for department stores is innovation in Omaha business methods, but it is a sign that big retail dealers are getting into like with the times. The Bee ventures the prediction that the move will be a popular one before the summer is over.

"Boss" Murphy Censors Democracy.

Big Chief Murphy of triumphant and militant Tammany walked out of the dining room in which the Young Men's Democratic league of New York was holding its spread. The mighty man of the unterrified was righteously indignant, for the committee planned the table to have him seated alongside Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma. Never in a million years would Murphy sit beside Owen, because the latter had villified Tammany. Assured that the senator would not be present, the boss was not mollified, but informed the would-be houts that they had more than ever offended by presuming to invite a senator from Oklahoma, even if he be a democrat, to sit at the table with Mr. Murphy of Tammany hall. All of which recalls that Mr. Murphy withdrew from the Denver convention with more or less of objurgatory comment on proceedings there had in the name of democracy, and that later on, at Baltimore, the same Murphy was evicted at the behest of the peerless commoner. These episodes in the life of the head center of rejuvenated Tammany, restored to power by favor of the present administration, may or may not mean anything in conjunction, or even separately, They do indicate, however, that Mr. Murphy does not forget and that for the present his mood is not excessively magnanimous. An echo of the incident may be heard in future democratic conclaves. It is interesting to note, however, that Mr. Murphy's catalogue of outcasts from his party is extending.

WORK OF THE SPECIAL SESSION.

The Bee compliments the legislature on havng concluded the special session with the enactment of measures on all of the subjects before it, and, in all but one or two of them, strengthening or improving the proposals endorsed by the governor.

The legislature rejected the governor's sedition bill and substituted for it another, making its definitions sharper and more inclusive and leaving out the fool clause limiting the crime of sedition to the continuance of the present war.

The legislature also rejected the governor's suggestion for a saving clause for present alienenemy voters in the constitutional amendment abolishing first-paper suffrage in Nebraska. This was the real test of pure patriotism that draws the line between unconditional loyalty to America first and a divided allegiance to the German kaiser. Striking out the "proviso" is a slap in the face of the scaly democratic politicians pulling the strings on Governor Neville to preserve the alien enemy right to vote in the 1920 presidential election

The soldiers' voting law is probably as good as could be improvised under pressure, though how far it will prove workable is yet to be dem-

The potash bill is still in questionable shape, but puts it up to the state board to say whether the state house pay roll gang shall keep its hooks on the potash property belonging to our school endowment through the stealthily gotten leases which the supreme court knocked out.

The amazing thing is that patriotic measures necessary to stamp out disloyalty in Nebraska and help win the war should meet with opposition even to the extent manifested in the extra Liberty Loan for the People.

Secretary McAdoo hits a bull's-eye when he says that 20,000,000 Americans are expected to subscribe for the Liberty bonds. This is not too much to expect under the circumstances. As with the first and second issues, every effort has been made to place the bonds on a popular basis. The reason is that the money is to be used for the people, and it ought to come from the people. Little doubt exists that a great combination of financial interests could be formed, and the entire sum be floated among the group or under its supervision. While this would result in securing for the government the cash it requires, it would defeat the sentiment involved, that of enlisting the individual citizens in the undertaking. In both the former issues the smaller subscriptions have been filled first; in the present instance this rule will be followed. If it were possible to sell the entire lot in denominations of $50, the effect would be that much the better. Large subscriptions will be made, and none will be refused, for the loan is to include all oversubscriptions as well as the $3,000,000,000 set for the minimum amount. This gives everybody a chance, and the best news that can be sent abroad in connection with the bonds will be the announcement that many millions of Americans have crowded to loan their money to their government. Let this be the people's war in every respect.

"The Dollar of Our Daddies."

Melting 250,000,000 silver dollars new held in the vaults of the treasury, the bullion to be exported, is proposed as a measure to relieve a credit condition that is becoming acute. Demand for silver abroad has been increased by the war to such extent that the measure proposed will be one of actual profit to the United States. It will revive memories of forty years ago, when the Bland-Allison act was new, when "the dollar of our daddies" was the idol of the plain people, and the "shinplaster" currency of civil war days was going into the discard before the return of specie payments. Some thought of the greenback craze, with the fiat money demands of the enthusiastic champions of the printing press as a basis of government credit, may be brought back, also.

And a little further along we will come to "Coin's School of Finance," and Mr. Bryan's "cross of gold," with all the talk about seignorage and Gresham's law, and the various other formulas of '96. The only fact will be that the government has held on to a big stock of silver during the days of its depreciation, most of it purchased at an artificial price, and on which a tremendous actual loss was always apparent. This has been possible because of the adoption of the single gold standard, and the readiness of the treasury to back its issues with gold. Now, an unexpected turn in the affairs of the world has brought about an opportunity for the treasury to dispose of a considerable quantity of this silver at a rate that will put the country out whole on its purchase. Any possible diminution of the circulating medium will be met by other issues, and "the dollar of our daddies" will go to join other things of the dear old days that are receding faster even than the flight of time.

Our bolsheviki friends object to the landing of Japanese soldiers to protect property at Vladivostok. When the proletariat starts out to tear up things it simply can not abide any form of interference, but here is one place where it will encounter a considerable snag in the form of well organized government,

Crowning Glory of Amiens Cathedral Twin of Rheims in Beauty and Danger

James Walter Smith in Boston Transcript.

Amiens, ancient capital of Picardy, now death of Christ—in greater detail and more the capital of the department of the Somme exquisitely than in any other church in the and the present bulwark of freedom against world. He would spend hours with his the Hun, has been called the "little Venice friends explaining these sculptures and then, of France." The name was given to it, not after exhausting his own powers of descripbecause it looks like Venice architecturally- tion, would bid his listeners come back-to for it doesn't in the least-but because the have another look at the church under the River Somme, at this point in its course, re- evening sky! ceives the waters of the Avre and the Celle, and breaks up into 11 little "canals." It is these canals which make the visitor think of immediate past ought to forget that Jules Venice. For the rest, Amiens is generally Verne was an illustrious resident of the now like other cathedral cities of France. It has threatened city. It would have been a delight, its straight and crooked streets, its cafes and and at the same time a grief to this man, the Hotel de Ville, its art museums and libra- romancer of the submarine, the imaginative ries, its statues and its slums. Its 90,000 chronicler of the airship, to have lived to be people, in peace times, are just like other a witness of the triumphs and misdeeds of people in the north of France. Except for both. But that, in passing. What may now its thriving industries and its importance as a be said is that the history of Amiens, in railroad junction, it has little attraction for which Verne always took a lively interest, a business man. Except for its cathedral, it dates back to Caesar's day. Nevertheless, rarely draws attention from the tourist. It is the specific historic events with which the a place which thousands of travelers go city is associated are comparatively few in through yearly by train and never stop to number. It passed through many changes in through from Calais or Boulogue to Paris, sion of the Counts of Flanders, it was taken hunt for the cathedral from the coupe window, and then say they've been to Amiens. story going that "A party of soldiers, dis-that the German emperor is throwing his legions against the old city of Clovis, and Caesar's before that time-Amiens is in the world's eye. Its dead past becomes revivified in its historic present. Its nearness to Paris—the distance is only 81 miles by train again compels the fear that, if the present German objective is reached, Paris is again n danger. Its position on the main route from the capital to the channel coast and Calais makes it of enormous importance to the allied armies. And the fact that the super-Hun, although temporarily checked in his advance, is nevertheless but 10 miles away suggests that the city which gave birth to Peter the Hermit may yet add a lustrous chapter to its history. The question in every mind at the moment is, Will Amiens hold? Will it again fall captive to the German armies as it did under Von Goeben in 1870? And, last but not least, will the Church of Our Lady at Amiens become, as did the noble cathedral at Rheims, a monument to vandalism? God grant that this letter catastrophe may not happen, that Amiens may triumph over attack and that the lustrous chapter in its history may indeed be penned.

The glory of Amiens is its cathedral which is also one of the glories of the world. It is not the first cathedral built in Francesince Paris and Chartres and Rheims predate it-nor is it the largest in the worldsince the Cologne Cathedral and St. Peter's at Rome are larger-but it is, in the opinion of most experts, the crowning glory of Gothic art. During the centuries since it was built, art lovers have raved over its exquisite detail, its majestic proportions. Viol-let-la-Duc called it the "Parthenon of Gothic architecture," a name that has since been quoted in nearly every treatise on the splendid pile. Arthur Symons called it "the greatest house made with hands;" Peter said it was full of excitement. And when Ruskin began his record of "What Our Fathers Have he began his story.

minature, and there is something actually dainty in this vast church, in which a singular precision in its proportions never becomes a mechanical regularity) is never cold, but retains always the heat of that first excitement out of which it was first created. * * * The facade is set up against the sky like a great frontispiece of images to a printed bookthe book which Ruskin has called the Bible of Amiens.' It is an immense stone page, as if engraved on the sky, and it is at once severe and sumptuous. It is alive with rich ornament, full of grandeur, and with a kind of heavy sweetness in its almost tropical stone vegetation. * * * The front, too, has daintiness, in its exuberance of vitality, tempered to a pattern, and yet seeming as spontaneous as a caprice. Inside * * * whole church gives itself to you from every point, open to the eye as it is open to the light. There is an immense cheerfulness in There is an immense cheerfulness in this daylight church, itself so warm with light, the white stone as if just a little browned by the sun. The cathedral, which is very easy of access from the railway station, was started in years to build. In times not far distant it power to the purposes of war, a strengthenmost of these have been demolished in order no democratic nonsense to be tolerated in the to decrease the danger of destruction by fire, army-and a larger and larger absorption of and to supply visitors with a better view of its proportions. Notwithstanding these im- we come to when the militarist poison gets provements, however, it is still difficult to into the veins of a whole people. From grasp its size and significance from a nearby earliest youth to old age the national thought spare usually walk out a mile or two into work of preparing to kill and be killed. This the flat plains of the Somme country to sethe flat plains of the Somme country to secure the most satisfactory view.

siasm with which the famous old critic wrote to civilization. of Amiens and its remarkable church. He of his beloved church. said, by every beggar in the city. As for the world forever from the hideous nightmare church, it was the chief delight of the old of militarism, and to insure to our children was set forth, from the days of Adam to the women of their generation,

No one writing about the Amiens of the What most of them do is to hurry the Burgundian days. It was in the possesby stratagem by the Spanish in 1595, the This is as it was-before the war. Now guised as peasants, were sent to the city by the Spanish governor of Doullens with a cartload of apples and walnuts. As soon as the gates were opened the nuts and apples were allowed to fall from the sack, and while the citizens then on guard were eagerly gathering them up, the disguised Spaniards nade good their entry, and being quickly followed by the other troops, which had been placed in ambuscade, soon made themselves masters of the city."

To End a World Disgrace New York Evening Post.

In a recent address on the work of the medical service of the English army, the speaker declared that the chief aim of the war was to remove "the disgrace to civilization." That disgrace he at once explained as "the waste of labor and the waste of life involved in nations maintaining great armies for the purpose of destroying each other.' Who was this namby-pamby pacifist, this man without red blood, this visionary living in Utopia? Well, it happens to have been none other than General Sir William Robertson, till lately chief of staff of the British A stout soldier, working his way to the highest rank from humble beginnings, no temptation to magnify his office, or to glorify his profession, blinds him to the monstrous anomaly of militarism in the modern world. In this respect, Sir William may be classed with that American officer, a valued member of our general staff, who said some time ago to our Washington correspondent that the American people ought to understand that they are fighting this war in order to prevent universal military service from being made compulsory in this country.

If doubts remained in any mind about the nature of the real foe with whom we have come to grips, they must have been removed by the events of the past few weeks. The kaiser and his army chiefs and his subserv-Told Us," it was with Amiens cathedral that ient civilian officials have at least given us the complete definition of militarism. One of the best general descriptions of see it now as it is. Looking at its full disthis wonderful structure is that of Arthur play, we all instinctively cry, "Voila l'enne-symons, to be found in his "Studies in the mi!" For it is militarism gone mad, and Seven Arts." "Within and without," he says, bringing forth its perfect work. At the head "it is like a precious casket, adorned for some of the whole system is the megalomaniac priceless jewel. Every part has the finish of kaiser waving the sword in which alone he bids the German people trust. Everything is subordinated to the army. It is not only that the moderate men like Prof. Delbruck and Dr. Dernburg are silenced; not only that the Reichstag is made no better than a dumb dog, and the socialists are drugged with promises of national booty. The whole nation is now at the mercy of the militarist caste. Foreign secretaries, chancellors, dipomatists, representatives of the people, the press-all are pushed into the background. Every national policy, whether domestic or foreign, is decided upon by the supreme command of the army. The whole is a spectacle of military absolutism.

autocrats of Germany have the slightest notion of relaxing their power or changing their system. Their thought is of nothing but making it stronger and more tyrannical in preparation for the next war. This is, perhaps, the most striking thing in the book of Baron Freytag-Loringhoven, written for the German general staff on the lessons of the war. He contemplates for the future nothing but a piling higher of armaments, a greater 1220 by Robert de Luzarches, and took 60 diversion of the empire's wealth and manwas surrounded by low-lying houses, but ing of the aristocratic prestige of officersthe nation's energies by war. That is what standpoint. Visitors who have the time to and effort are to be given increasingly to the he said that free peoples were uniting in this Lovers of Ruskin will recall the enthu- war in order to make an end of the disgrace

And let no one think that the military

The final issue now fronts us concrete paid several visits to the city-in days when and grim. Overweening trust in the sword the trip from England was much longer and must be met and cast to the earth, so broken more tedious than it is today-and used to that it can never rise again. Until the Germeet little parties of tourist friends at the man government and the German people restation, in order to guide them to the cover their reason, they must be dealt with cathedral place and to point out the beauties as beings whom an excess of militarism has On the way it was made mad. In the stern business on hand his custom to treat his friends with maca- we have to put many things aside. We have roons and other comestibles for which to adjourn cherished hopes. Temporarily we Amiens is famous, and always insisted that give up privileges and bow our shoulders un-the party should give a few coppers to the der sacrifices—the spiritual ones hardest of beggars at the doors. Ruskin and his old all to bear, But we do not lose sight of the gray clothes, by the way, were known, it is end which will crown all. It is to free the critic to point out how, in the sculpture of liberty to work out unafraid their thoughts the cathedral, the whole story of the Bible -and dreams-in the lives of the men and

Twice Told Tales

An Irishman, passing a shop where a notice was displayed saying that everything was sold by the yard, thought he would play a joke on the shopman, so he entered the shop and asked for a yard of milk. The shopman, not in the least taken aback, dipped his fingers in a bowl of milk and drew a line a yard long on the counter. Pat, not wishing caught in his own trap, asked the Mistaken Identity.

Prof. William Howard Taft was in lew York recently, and in the course f his short stay took an automobile ride along Riverside Drive. At Nineteenth street a young woman five years old saw the big touring car coming swiftly down the drive. After one long look at the big person in the rear seat she jerked the nurse's apron and screamed with delight.

"Fatty Arbuckle's growd a mustache just like papa's!"-Argonaut.

Frosting Hot Air.

"I would go through fire for you. yearn for the chance."
"In that case." she said, "I would suggest that you select some occa-sion when you are not wearing a cel-

The Bee's

Wasting Time Studying German. Omaha, April 7 .- To the Editor of The Bee: After a demonstration like that of Saturday afternoon and the great address of Dr. Violette in the evening no real American but can feel proud of his Omaha citizenship of the display of patriotism. To look and hear the demonstration no one would imagine that many things were being done right in our midst to perpetuate the German influence which so many of us have come to loathe. The writer is the father of one of the boys in khaki and only a father in like situation knows the feeling of pride, but the longing to look into his face again and how that savors of Hunism, and this leads to the point I wish to make. We also had a daughter in the high school who began the study of German before their hellishness was revealed. Now in order to receive any credit for her work she must contipue this study until next February. One of the "readers" brought home for study during the last two months contained one full page engraving of him to increase the wages of the fac Kaiser William, another one entitled "The Five Great Germans," Von Moltke, Bismarck, William I., Frederick and the present demon. One ar-ticle was "The Watch on the Rhine," another "The German Fatherland,"

The Campaign in 1871" and so on. Now, what we want to ask is this: What are the members of the school board thinking about? Do they know? Do they care? Are they Americans? Are they asleep? Something is wrong surely. Had I my way I'd say to every student in German, "we will give you credit now, drop the study, burn the books, and forget you ever heard of it."

I would like to hear from other parents and also some explanation for the school board.

Segregation Not an Issue. Omaha, April 9 .- To the Editor of The Bee: A recent contributor to The Bee's Letter Box inquires whether any of the aspirants for city com-missionership would if elected, favor segregation. This citizen is a fair specimen of a latter-day Rip Van Wrinkle. It has been six months or more since the United States supreme court knocked hades out of segrega-tion, and obliterated the hope of every cracker that had pinned his faith to it.

I would suggest, however, as a pointer for this gentleman, that he might find that some, if not all, of the present commissioners would be inclined to go any length to win his patronage. In justification of this opinion I need simply commend to him a brief review of their conduct in dealing with that infamous caricature and libel upon American history, yelept "The Birth of a Nation." CYRUS D. BELL.

New Way of Voting Proposed. Omaha, April 8 .- To the Editor of

The Bee: It is quite possible with 74 candidates that the 14 highest will receive the votes of less than 3 per cent of the citizens voting. Then at the final election the majority will en-joy the exquisite pleasure of selecting the seven they like the least of the 14 candidates of an insignificant mi-nority. The kaiser believes in exactly that kind of democracy.

Sixteen countries enjoy a system of voting for councils and similar bodies which does away with the necessity for primaries, gives every citizen an effective vote and produces a body where every interest in the city is fairly represented. The British Parliament has recently declared in favor of electing 100 members by this method. It alone can be called really

Ashtabula, O., was the first Amercan city to adopt it, two others have copied it and many charter commissions are considering

It is to be hoped that the charter commission to be elected will provide a good workable initiative and referendum amendment clause to the charter, so that when a majority of Omaha citizens are sufficiently dissatisfied with the undemocratic and illogical method of electing the commissioners, they may consider and apply what is known as the single transferable vote system of proportional representation. WALTER J. MILLARD.

LIVELY AND LIGHT.

"The governments do not seem to be is suing those green and blue and white books they used to be so fond of getting out."
"No; the governments do not seem to be in one another's good books just now."— Baltimore American

Customer-And you guarantes that this payrot talks a lot Dealer-Talks? Why, his last mistress sold him because she couldn't get a word in edgeways .- Boston Transcript

Mrs. Bacon—Don't you think Emily sings with a good deal of feeling?

Mr. Bacon—Yes; but I hope she don't feel as bad as it sounds.—Yonkers States-

BUY A BOND.

I have just a word for you, Buy a, bond. It's an easy thing to do. Buy a bond, Just save up all your dimes. These are patriotic times, Liberty's old cracked bell chimes,

If you want to do your bit. While our soldiers pack their kit, Buy a bond
You can help them if you try; Don't say "It's too bad" and cry, And cheer them as they pass by; Buy a bond.

For they might fight over here; Buy a bond, Don't think you have naught to fear; Buy a bend. Little Beiglum had that thought, And you see how she got caught: If you cheered the way she fought, Buy a bond.

If you're not the kaiser's friend. Buy a bond. If you want his reign to end. Buy a bond If you help democracy.

And bring peace across the sea,
It's a help to you and me; Buy a bond.

If you're made of Yankee stuff, Buy a bond, If you're not all noise and bluff, Buy a bond. When there's bombs bursting in air. While they're fighting over there, Buy a bond.

Can't you hear your conscience call, Buy a bond. Buy a bond.
Buy a bond.
Just stand behind and back her; Don't let the kaiser whack her; Don't let them call you "slacker." Buy a bond.

THOMAS J. GRAY

Round About the State

South Sioux, Neb., puts Rev. J. ! Phillips on guard as mayor. Woe b tide the bootlegger who attempts u

Wakefielders are wide awake and ready for a mixup with the electricallight people should they attempt to put over a rate raise. The first movin that direction will start something A total of 141,950 automobil licenses have been issued by the statt is a ratio of one licensed car to ever nine persons, which indicates that Ne braskans possesses a fine collection o wheels and are going some Boldly and fearlessly, with an at "don't-care-who-knows-it," Oto county announces that it has gon over the top with every war drive us to date and is ready to chew up more Just like Otoe—doing the right thing in the right way is a fixed habit there we are ready to strike at anything Once more the Grand Island Inde pendent emphasizes the objection of farmers to the frequently-discusse plans of sending city boys to the coun try as emergency helpers. According to the Hall county authority, farmen "do not take any more kindly to city business office directing their work than the captain of industry a the roll top desk in the city takes Farmer Jones coming in and telling

> tory hands." BUY A LIBERTY BOND

Hospe's NO RAISE IN PIANO PRICE SALE

HOSPE'S Pianos and Players

Our friends know that for 44 ears Mr. Hospe has given the est for the price.

Players $250 to $350 Players $395 to $475 A small sum down, a little a week or month pays for it.

A. HOSPE CO.

Everything in Art and Music 1513 DOUGLAS ST.

Buys 1/4 Acre of Land in Wonderful Texas Coastal Oil Belt

We are raising drilling fund to drill our oil property in district approved by government geologists.

You can share in the results. Tracts should be invaluable when we bring oil shooting over the top of the derrick. We retain lease, paying you 1-10 of oil or gas produced and saved from your tract. In addition you participate in 50% of profits from all drilling operations. Each tract purchaser should receive big profits, and may make a fortune.

Don't delay. Send for free bulletin and valuable information today.

Gulf Coast Development Company Tyler 398.

Omaha, Neb.

740 First National Bank Bldg.,

TRY THEM

The next time you suffer with headache, indigestion, bilious. ness or loss of appetite, try-

Have You a Liberty Bond?

We will sell you Liberty Bonds on weekly or monthly payments. One dollar a week for a $50 bond. Two dollars a week for a $100 bond. Do your bit.

We will help you.

The Conservative Savings & Loan Ass'n 1614 HARNEY STREET.

Resources, $14,000,000.00. Reserve, $400,000.00.

One Year Ago Today in the War.

More than 150 lives lost in Eddystone munition explosion. British continued their offensive in the region of Arras, capturing 10,000 prisoners, 100 guns and much other war material.

The Day We Celebrate. Max Sommer, grocer, born 1884. Rear Admiral Frederick R. Harris, chief of Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks, born in New York, 43 years

Henry P. Fletcher, United States ambassador to Mexico, born at Green Castle, Pa., 45 years ago. Dr. Lansing Burrows, leader of the southern Baptists, born in Phila-delphia, 75 years ago. Eugen D'Albert, pianist and composer, born in Glasgow, 34 years ago. This Day in History. 1780—Colonel George Armistead, who kept the flag flying at Fort Mc-Henry, which suggested "The Star born at New Market, Va. Died in Baltimore, April 25, 1827—General Lew Wallace, sol-dier, diplomatist, and author of "Ben Hur." born at Brookville, Ind. Died at Crawfordsville, Ind., February 15, 1865—General Sherman began his

Just 30 Years Ago Today

A proposition for the paving of a coad from this city to Florence and Forest Lawn cemetery will be laid before the council and county commissioners at an early date. V. C. Laverty, H. C. Clark and other residents of Florence propose to have a street 30 feet through their city and the cemetery association will pave main drives and approaches. The bank of dirt at Seventeent and Harney streets, which has been just ready to fall for some time pas came down, burying the sidewalk to the depth of four or five feet.

Of the 241 saloons in this city 225 have paid the required $750 license. The annual election of officers of the Omaha Gun club was held at the sporting goods house of John J. Hardin. W. H. S. Hughes was re-

"Over There and Here"

Dr. H. D. Clapham, British medical asked the Board of Guardians of Hutchin, England, that his annual been impeached. stipend of £50 be reduced to £20 because he had fewer cases to attend. That is a sample of the spirit abroad regarded as cruel and unusual pun-

Agents of the Department of Jus-ice have a merry time rounding up 1,000 or more draft slackers in Minneapolis. Arrangements have been made to erect a compound trimmed with barb wire for the accomodation of men who failed to register. One of the draft boards of Chicago turned down the exemption claims of Chamberlain von Oldenburg. Joseph Sexton, known as the "Castor might suffer from absence the good he may do in administering his celebrated treatment to the votaries of kultur warrants the sacrifice. Gertrude A. M. Pignol, teacher of German in the manual training high school of Greater New York, has been uspended by the board of superintendents, pending trial on charges of Replying years. un-American sentiments. to a series of questions asked by the board, Miss Pignol said she did not believe in war, that it was not necessary for the United States to go to war, that she would not help the third Lib-erty loan, and that "the government of the United States is not a demo-

Pointed Paragraphs Minneapolis Journal: The loyalty of the strawberry shortcake has never Washington Post: Sending German spies and plotters to prison will be shment by the other inmates who have to associate with them. Baltimore American: In view the fact that the Five Civilized Tribes altered to Lo, the rich Indian. Brooklyn Eagle: "This war is a fight for world dominations," admits doesn't need to tell us that now. We have at last got it through our thick Oil King," and gave him 10 days to report for military duty. The board heads.

> render his laurels to the artists of the bolsheviki. houisville Courier-Journal: seems that the householder who has a barrel of flour in his pantry may be fined $5,000 and imprisoned for two At least the criminal rich are

New York Herald: The historic

Chinese puzzle has been supplanted

by the Ukraine puzzle, and the his-toric Shanghai Liar has had to sur-getting the ax. New York World: Sergeant Major Charles P. Taft, son of former President William H. Taft, who has been for some time at the front, has been recommended for promotion to a commissioned officer. Like thousands of towance through North Carolins in elected president by acclamation; Dr. cratic and representative government." The only thing that pleased sons, he showed his fighting spirit by 1872—Brigham Young resigned his Field, secretary, and G. Brucker, treasure "Gertrude-on-the-spot" for that the more creditable.

The only thing that pleased sons, he showed his fighting spirit by story who are not president's suggest that you select some occasions, he showed his fighting spirit by story who are not president's suggest that you select some occasions, he showed his fighting spirit by story who are not president's suggest that you select some occasions, he showed his fighting spirit by story who are not president's suggest that you are not wearing a cellulation with General Grant.

The only thing that pleased sons, he showed his fighting spirit by story who are not president's suggest that you are not wearing a cellulation with General Grant.

The only thing that pleased sons, he showed his fighting spirit by story who are not president's suggest that you are not wearing a cellulation with General Grant.

The only thing that pleased sons, he showed his fighting spirit by story who are not president's suggest that you are not president's suggest that you are not wearing a cellulation.

The only the only thing that pleased sons, he showed his fighting spirit by story who are not president's suggest that you are not president's suggest that you have received $42,000,000 in a year, the address of the redskins must be

Couldn't Corner Him.

"Sixpence," said the shopman "All right, sorr," said Pat. "Roll up; I'll take it!"—London Tit-Bits.

"Alice! Alice!" asked the nurse, excitedly, "what is it?"