Lucile Hardy, 3 years old. Twentythird and Madison streets, caused great consternation in the family household, and was responsible for several police officers putting in some busy hours searching for her, when she disappeared Friday noon after being scolded by her mother for some childish offense.

Mrs. Hardy, after searching the premises and making inquiries of neighbors, called the police station and asked for help in finding her daughter. Officers searched every place where they thought the whims of a 3-year-old child might "go. Finally, Motorcycle Officer Earl Risk went to Lucile's home with instructions to make a search of the premises, thinking perhaps she was camouflagng her wanderlust by hiding somewhere about the house. Attic and pasement were visited, and then a tour of the clothes closets began. In arthest corner, was the missing child.
