Washington Bureau of The Omaha Bee, 1311 6 Street. EDGAR S. SNYDER.

Washington, April 20.—(Special.)— M. C. To Protect Birds.

"Our winters are so severe that before bringing in the fowl we must plant more brush that will grow quickly so the birds will have a haven in the heavy storms. There must be numerous kinds of edible seeds planted. Its a big proposition and we will not undertake it until later, but this enabling act, whereby the birds will be protected from the breeding grounds to the warmer climates where they pass the winter, will do much toward restoring flocks of birds that have been depleted."

The legislation sought by Mr Peters would put in force the treaty made between the United States and Canada as to migratory wild fowl and creating a closed season for defined species. It was concluded in Washington, August 16, 1916, and on July 3, 1917, the senate passed the enabling act, putting in operation the provisions of the treaty. January 17, 1918, the senate bill was reported favorably from the committee on foreign affairs of the house and is now on the union calendar of that body, to be called up any time the calendar is reached.

Treaty Act" makes it unlawful to hunt, take capture, kill, attempt to take, capture or kill, possess, offer for sale, sell, offer to purchase, deliver for shipment, ship, cause to be shipped, deliver for transportation, etc., any migratory bird included in the terms of the convention or any part, nest or egg of any such bird.

Houston is Interestd. Any violations of the act is a mis-party to a fine of $500 or not more than six months imprisonment. The act also empowers the secretary of agriculture to employ persons and means to enforce its provisions.

The department of agriculture not only took keen interest in the negotiations leading up to the treaty, but assisted in their final conclusion. Secretary Houston in a communication to Secretary of State Lansing, has this to say of the needs of such legislation.

"Not very many years ago vast numbers of waterfowl and shoreberds nested within the limits of the United States, especially in the far amateur base ball star, has arrived in west, but the extension of agricul-Omaha from Minneapolis, Minn., on ture, and particularly the draining on a seven-day furlough. As a result, the number of persons who approve and are deeply interested in the conclusion and enforcement of the present treaty includes many millions. Directors Seek Leader Capable of Organizing Another Class B Circuit; City Loops Start Today.

By FRANK QUIGLEY.

It is up to some intelligent dude to organize another Class B league from the material that has been scattered to the winds by the magnates of the various teams because of the fact that the Omaha Amateur Base Ball association only allowed each team to scramble under the wire with a dozen athletes. Although the base ball market is not bubbling over with stars it seems as though there is plenty of material for another league. Many of the stale children, or rather, spavs, should re-entist so as to keep the base ball pot hereabouts boiling over until the boys across the pond finish their game. The association is anxiously waiting for some gentleman of good stock who is used to meeting and surmounting all kinds of obstacles to throw his lid into the arena and get busy with the talent available.
