

PROTEST CITY'S MOVE TO REFUSE PUBLIC MARKET

Omaha Retail Grocers as Well as Householders Protest Against Decision Made by Commissioners.

City commissioners are hearing many protests to their partial decision to abandon the project to provide a retail market, where householders might go to purchase fresh produce direct from the market gardeners.

When it was decided to set aside such a place an estimate as to the cost was made and prospects looked bright. But later it was found that the cost would be much more and the commissioners tried to drop the idea.

Now comes protests not only from the general public, but also from retail grocers, through their secretary, J. J. Cameron.

This proposed market is across the street from the market maintained by the city, where stalls are sold and where the gardeners daily bring in their produce for sale to retailers. The general market is so busy it is a great inconvenience for the general public to try to edge in to buy small quantities and for that reason a special market is wanted.

Omaha will raise a vast quantity of green stuff in the war gardens of the city and these growers want a place where they can sell direct to the "common people." Small growers may not raise enough of any one kind of produce at one time to attract the attention of retail grocers, but they will have smaller quantities which they wish to sell to the ultimate consumer, and here will be the place to make the exchange, produce for wampum.

YOUTHFUL BOND SALESMEN MAKE SECOND CANVASS

Boy Scouts Cover Territories After Supper so as to Catch the "Old Man at Home."

The house-to-house canvass in the interest of the sale of third Liberty loan bonds started Monday afternoon with a large number of Boy Scouts participating. Each troop worked in its home territory, and, failing to cover the ground in the afternoon, the boys turned out again after supper and covered the same ground as in the afternoon.

Better results were obtained in the later canvass, as in the majority of cases the man of the house was found at home.

"You gotta get de old man," asserted one scout vehemently, "De women folks is all right, but dey ain't got de money like us men folks."

The honor flags were delivered to all homes where a bond was sold by the boys or where one was already owned, and in some cases second sales were made by the youthful salesmen. All homes in which there is not a bond will be listed and the names turned over to the general committee for investigation.

After the names are turned in to the committee calls will be made by the women's committee, the Boy Scouts or the salesmen and effort made to place a bond in every home. Nebraska leads the states of the Tenth district in the number of bonds sold with 175,000 and no let-up will be made until this is greatly increased. Boy Scouts are divided into 47 groups, with a scoutmaster in charge of each group, and the work will be so divided that there will be no duplications.

Counties "Go Over." Cass county reports, through H. N. Dovey, that it is now $20,000 over its quota of $506,700 and still going.

A. L. Johnson, chairman of Dawes county, reports that Saturday $170,000 worth of bonds had been sold and that there was every indication that its quota of $245,000 would be reached.

POLISH FUND IS GIVEN BOOST BY OMAHA PATRIOTS

More than $2,500 was donated to the insurance fund for Polish soldiers at a concert given by the Polish band of Chicago at the South Side High school Sunday night.

The band is composed of 30 pieces and is under the direction of Prof. Tadeusz Wrinski, a baritone singer formerly connected with the New York and Boston Metropolitan Opera companies. The tour of the middle west is made in the interest of a million-dollar insurance fund for the Polish soldiers. There are now more than 40,000 Polish men from the United States in the service.

Prof. Tadeusz gave a short talk about the need of money, which met with a quick and generous response. The following persons gave $100 or more: Father Michael Gluba, Thomas Kozlowski, Frank Racieter, John Dombronski, Mrs. Rose Kozewicki, Peter Wornik, J. Wicorek.
