

MAY FIRST DAWNS WITH NO SERIOUS STRIKES IN SIGHT

War Work Goes Forward Unhindered by a Single Industrial Disturbance in Entire Country.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, April 30.—May day will find the nation's war work going forward without hindrance by a single industrial strike of consequence.
The only threatened demonstration—that on the Pacific coast as a protest of labor against the conviction of Thomas J. Mooney—apparently will not materialize as the result of appeals to the workers by union officials and Mooney himself.
Intensive efforts of the government, aided by the powerful lever of public opinion, have served to bring labor and capital together to such a degree that there is not a serious tie-up anywhere in the country, officials of the Department of labor said tonight.
Labor disputes still exist, but in such cases the workers are remaining at their tasks pending adjustment of differences with their employers.

EMPEROR IS FAST LOSING POWER IN RULE OF AUSTRIA

Washington, April 30.—The Austrian situation as viewed in Rome indicates that the monarchy is losing authority. A dispatch to the Italian embassy today reviewing conditions says:
"The ministerial crisis in Austria is considered here as having an organic significance. It is noted that for the first time in the history of the dual empire, personal responsibility and limitation of power are being discussed by the German delegates and the Austrian premier. It means that the monarchy is losing authority even with the German group. In spite of these facts it is believed that Austria and Germany more than ever realize the necessity of holding to each other."

OMAHA WAR NURSE WINS FRENCH DECORATION FOR SERVICES AT FRONT

Miss Agnace Neary, Red Cross Hero With American Base Hospital on The Marne, Honored by France; Goes Shopping During Bombardment of Paris; Thrilling Experiences.

Miss Agnace Neary, Omaha nurse, has been decorated by the French government for "long services at the battle front." News of the special distinction conferred on this brave woman reached Omaha through a letter sent to her sisters, the Misses Margaret and Josephine Neary, well known resident nurses.

Miss Neary modestly related that she and other nurses stationed in her hospital had been given "a small palm leaf medal, which is a diploma for long service."

SAW PARIS BOMBARDED.

When this Omaha young woman left here three years ago she went to France as a member of an English unit sent abroad by the famous late Dr. Murphy of Chicago. She served six months in a British base hospital and has been since that time at the American hospital of Paris, on the Marne.

The day after the big drive on Paris Miss Neary went into the French capital to buy a suit and hat. It was the first suit she had bought during her three years' service. She was able to leave her work at that time and she went shopping amid a rain of falling shells. Here is her own story of her adventures:
BUYS HAT AND SUIT.
"I needed a hat and suit and am now waiting for my train to take me back at 5:15. The people are going around with their business as if nothing happened, so why shouldn't I? The French people are so brave; in fact, I don't see any change since the drive in the spirit of the people. You perhaps have read about the accident to the church on Good Friday.
"We are quite near the firing line. It may be sheer foolishness instead of nerve, but I never thought I would brave the city while it was being bombarded."
Following the journey into Paris Miss Neary wrote this letter to her sisters:
"I was too exhausted to collect my thoughts to write tonight. I haven't slept any since the big drive. I was in Paris the day after the big bombardment and everything was quiet and assuming the normal state of affairs. You know the shells from the long range guns pass over our hospital, but as we are not the objective, we feel safe. Today again they are bombing, but I must have a fitting on my suit. As we take the underground train we feel safe in traveling, at least for the present. I have been rather lucky in having an English speaking patient in the hospital to help me with my French.
Hears Cannon Roar.
"We hear the cannons all day and night and troops are being rushed to the front past the hospital, day and night. Refugees are arriving from the invaded district, which makes it look like real war. I arrived in Paris and, as Miss Monahan and I were having some lunch, some shells dropped near us; that is, about a mile away, which is near enough for German bombs, and, believe me, I rather hate to start out again.
"There is some fighting today, for all day and night we could hear the bombardment. I do hope we 'Get 'em,' as they say. Maybe we will have to wait, but not long, I believe."
In a more recent letter Miss Neary, who is now a Red Cross nurse, was delighted with the part Omaha has played in the work. She says: "I am so proud of Omaha being so generous in her Red Cross donations."
Sister to Become Nurse.
This brave war nurse is reticent about telling of her experiences, but she has met with difficulties from the first. When her unit, consisting of 35 nurses and doctors, arrived at Liverpool, through a mistake, no one met them. In London, the same thing happened. They went to the hotel and finding that crowded, had to sit up the whole of their first night in England.
Her letters to her sisters describe the manner in which wounds are dressed and the many new medical discoveries made in the work.
Miss Neary has not been ill a single day and was only off duty during the two compulsory vacations each year. During one of these she went to Monte Carlo and another time visited Lourdes and the Spanish border.
Miss Neary was one of the most popular and successful of Omaha nurses. For some time before she volunteered for war work she passed much of her time doing special work for Dr. Murphy in Chicago.

She is pictured here in the uniform which she wears when caring for the ceaseless stream of wounded men who pour in from the nearby trenches.
Because of the splendid work accomplished her sister, Josephine, wants to follow her example. She has taken the examination for active Red Cross service, and because of the present big drive for 40,000 nurses, she expects soon to be chosen.

OCCULTISM SHOWN FROM LABORATORY

Dr. Frederick Finch Strong Presents Available Evidence to Reveal What Exists Beyond Senses.

Dr. Frederick Finch Strong, for many years a lecturer at Tufts college, Boston, gave the first of his series of three lectures on "The Realms Beyond the Senses," before an interested audience in the hall of the Lyric building last evening.
The doctor, who has spent years in laboratory research and is well known as an inventor and author of scientific text books, took the unique position that much of the material now found only in occult and theological treatises is susceptible of laboratory verification. In this first lecture he demonstrated the existence of "force and matter in the unseen" by the use of experiments with vibratory transformers. Some of his experiments with high frequency currents are most spectacular, many of them being original.

It was shown that science has already proven in the laboratory the existence of 60 octaves of vibrations of which we sense only 14, eleven as sound, two as heat and one as light. The other 40 octaves were not known to occult students until within 30 years, during which time they have been made "orthodox" by being rediscovered in the laboratory.
This evening Dr. Strong will lecture on "Life and Intelligence in the Unseen," a frank analysis of the evidence afforded by psychic research and laboratory experiment as to the existence of human life after the death of the physical body.
In this connection he will show experiments with the ultra-violet ray and exhibit fluorescent minerals, of which he has a fine collection.
The lectures are given under the auspices of the Omaha lodge of the Theosophical society.
