

WAR SAVINGS MEN OF 30 STATES MEET IN OMAHA

Frank A. Vanderlip Calls Conference Monday of Directors and Staffs of Western and Central States; Result of Wonderful Success of Nebraska Plan.

Directors of War Savings Stamp campaigns from 30 states, headed by Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the City National bank of New York, and chairman of the National War Savings committee, will come to Omaha Monday for an all-day conference to study the methods employed in this state that resulted in Nebraska leading the entire nation.

The directors will be accompanied by their assistants and many of them will reach Omaha Sunday.

COME HERE TO LEARN.

These war service officials are from states whose quota in war savings stamps campaigns has not been reached. The purpose is to acquaint themselves with the plans pursued in Nebraska.

Ward M. Burgess, Nebraska director of war savings, now in Washington, so impressed Mr. Vanderlip with the splendid organization of the Nebraska forces it was felt that a personal visit of all of the directors of war savings and their assistants in the different states not yet within reach of their quotas would be invaluable for inspiration and the imparting of valuable practical knowledge.

Mr. Burgess telegraphed the information of the Omaha meeting to his secretary, Harry O. Palmer, instructing the latter to make immediate preparation to care for the delegates and their assistants while here.

VANDERLIP COMES SUNDAY.

Mr. Burgess, accompanied by Guy C. Kiddoo, assistant director of war savings, arrived here yesterday. With them will be Frank A. Vanderlip, J. E. M.; George W. Barnes, Muskogee, Okla.; Louis Lipsitz, Dallas; William C. Irvine, Cheyenne, Wyo.

The state directors and their assistants are expected to arrive in the city Sunday to attend the all day sessions that are to occur Monday. The Nebraska plan will be studied and methods will be discussed of increasing the number of war savings societies in the United States and the establishing of sales stations to carry on the work of war financing during the duration of the conflict.

Banquet For Guests.

The dinner to be given by the Omaha Chamber of Commerce to Mr. Vanderlip and the state directors will be held at 6:30 o'clock Monday night in the dining room of the organization and will be strictly informal. The women are invited. The dinner will be $1.50 per plate.

Among others who will be present are H. E. Benedict, assistant to the president of the National City bank of New York, Keith McLeod of Boston, treasury representative on national war savings; J. E. Kavanaugh, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company; John F. Harris, formerly of Omaha, but now of New York, federal director of war savings for the New England, and Frank Hibbard, Chicago, director bureau of supplies.

Robert H. Manley, commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce, said he wanted to show the visitors that Omaha and Nebraska were first as hosts as well as in war savings. Those wishing to attend should notify Mr. Manley by noon Monday.

Omaha Club to Entertain.

Sunday at 1 o'clock visiting members of the conference will be entertained at dinner at the Omaha club by Joseph Barker, chairman of the city war savings committee.

At the conclusion of the conference, Mr. Vanderlip, accompanied by Mr. Burgess and Harry O. Palmer will leave for Cincinnati, where a meeting of the directors for the southeast section of the country will be held and the Nebraska plan explained. This will probably be adopted for use all over the United States.

Mr. Burgess will be engaged in the work for the next three months or more in putting the plan into national effect and during his absence Charles T. Kountze will act as state chairman of the committee.

GAYETY'S "STEP LIVELY, GIRLS," FULL OF GINGER

The closing bill at the Gayety theater, "Step Lively, Girls," is a fitting climax to the season's entertainment at this show house. A show without a plot, but a riot of pretty girls, beautiful stage settings, late songs and hearty laughs.

Raymond Paine heads a quartet of comedians that keep up a rapid fire of amusing dialogue. Harry T. Shannon, six feet and a half of nonsense, hard boiled and well done, is paired with Rich "Shorty" McAllister, General Fun's sharpshooter. Dotson, as Midnight, the Dark Stepper, in syncopated steps, is one of the cleverest dancers seen on the Gayety stage this year.

Dainty, delightful and dangerous Rhea Hays, beautiful, vivacious and darling Nettie Hyde and Tina Henley, the "Step Lively Girls," put "pep" in the show seldom seen in a burlesque production. The costuming of the large chorus adds to the beauty of the show.

Manager Johnson assisted Raymond Paine and the girls of the company will make this week another "Smokes for Sammies" week and take up collections for this fund at each performance. Mr. Paine will soon leave in the draft army and will endeavor to break the records for this fund established early in the season when in two weeks $1,870.78 was collected.

Next week and during the balance of the summer months, "The Dark Secret."
