face of the many obstacles which con-iront the base ball magnate in these times of trouble and strife, Pa Rourke has assembled a nifty ball club. Only me team in the last decade looked better at the start of the year than present aggregation. That was championship team of 1916 which neluded such players as Ernie Krueger, Peterkin Kilduff, now in the majors - Lou North, Ray Miller, Marty Krug and Cy Forsythe.

But the 1918 team appears to be real team. It looks like a team that ald put up a stiff fight in Class A in times of peace and such a team is tle short of a gem in times of war. One veteran Omaha fan who has seen many Rourkes come and go it his time, remarked the other day after scanning the lineups of the eight teams of the Western league: "If it was a certainty Roufke could hold every one of the present players for the entire season, I would be willing to bet even money Omaha finishes

John Pesek, Nebraska newest wrestling sensation, will make his irst appearance as a main attraction n Omaha early in June. He will clash with Charlie Peters, the Papillion carpenter.

Arrangements for the Pesek-Peters match were consummated by Mart Slattery, manager of Pesek, and Jack Lewis, manager of Peters, at Lincoln following Pesek's victory over Yussif Hussane.

-Lewis, in behalf of Peters, made a ringside challenge to the winner of the Pesek-Hussane bout. When Pesek earned the victory, Slattery im-mediately accepted and Omaha was named as the place. Lewis will pro-

All of the soldiers at Fort Omaha and Fort Crook will be guests of the 10-day period. He was practically a one-armed wrestler.

In order to be sure that the arm is entirely well before he tackles Peters, Pesek asked that no definite date be named. He hopes to beat the growth by the middle of May, so that e will have two weeks of training before June. In the event the arm is repaired, as expected, the Pesek-Peters match will be announced for a date as soon after June 1 as possi-

Racing Enthusiasts Speculate Regarding Probable Field of Thoroughbreds in Famous Kentucky Derby.

Louisville, Ky., May 4.-With the running of the Kentucky derby, at Churchill Downs less than two weeks off, there is much speculation among turf enthusiasts regarding the probable field which will contest for the rich $15,000 event. The classic as Churchill Downs is the greatest of all races on the American turf, and sentiment prompts many an owner to start one of his thoroughbreds, which, on form, seems to have scant chance.

A glance at the list of eligibles shows that there is a possibility of a big field. How many go to the post, however, depends entirely upon the manner in which these star threeyear-olds continue to train and the showing they make in the races at
