AT THE THEATERS

"Over the Top" at the Boyd.

Here is a Shubert "girl show" in which the girls are not the principal attraction. This comedy is somewhat paradoxical, when one recalls the emphasis laid on the girl end of any Shubert "revue," no matter how pretentious or simple. In this the girls have not been neglected, not by a jugful; they are there in multitudinous variety, but the big features of the show come elsewhere than in the chorus. Justine Johnson is all the advance man has claimed for her, and that is some compliment, for what the advertisements did not say about her had better be left unsaid: She is beautiful, lithe and sprightly, and within her natural limits she is quite an entertainer. The Oakland sisters, Ma-Belle and Mary Eaton, Betty Pierce, Rolanda and her dancers, Fred and Adelaide Astaire, Alec Bronson and Joe Laurie, Ed Wynn, Ted Lauraine, and Allen Craig are some of the others in the company, and all seem eager to do a full stint at the task of giving the customers satisfaction. And with the help of one another and the really worth while chorus, they succeed.

AMERICAN LABOR MEN UNDER FIRE ON TRIP TO FRONT

American Boys in Excellent Spirits and Anxious to Do More Fighting, Says Seattle Leader. London, May 12.—The American labor representatives, who have returned to London after a visit to France, were under fire several times on their trip to the front, but none was hit. William Short, president of the Seattle Federation of Labor, said today: "The American boys seem to be in excellent spirits and anxious to do a lot more fighting than they have been privileged to do thus far. "Everything we have seen in France and Great Britain has emphasized the conviction we had when we came here, that America must get into this with both hands and both feet. She must use all her resources and send over the greatest number of men possible. We know Germany can be whipped, but the sooner America sends all the resources the sooner the war will be finished. It is not going to be finished until it is done, and every day lost, every man withheld, is merely causing unnecessary sacrifices. "That is the message we are going to take back to our people. We know Great Britain and France have done more than their share. They have done all they can do and much more than they ought to have had to do without the aid of the whole civilized world. This has been a fight for civilization from the beginning, and the greatest mistake of the whole situation has been the failure of America and other countries to recognize this. "Discusses Irish Situation. George Nicoll Barnes, labor commissioner, presided this afternoon at a great meeting in Kensington theater under the auspices of the national war action committee, held to welcome Martin F. Ryan, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, and Miss Agnes Newlay, president of the Women's Trade Union League of Chicago, who are members of the American labor mission. Mr. Barnes said that the letter of General Frederick B. Maurice to the press, charging the government with concealing the real facts of the military situation, was an incident which soon would be forgotten. There was a far more grave question in the situation in Ireland. "It might seem that while we are fighting for small nationalities and leaving Ireland alone, we are rather inconsistent," Mr. Barnes continued. "Things, however, are not so simple as they look when seen from a distance. Ireland has two units and they are as widely separated in ideals as it is possible for two people to be, and the difficult problem is to harmonize public feeling in Ireland and at the same time uphold unity in the United Kingdom. "Labor is in complete sympathy with Irish national sentiment," the speaker asserted, "but the problem is the most difficult one that could face any government."

Bill at the Empress.

Bright and airy comedy, tuneful singing acts, dancing and acrobatic "stunts" are intermingled in the vaudeville offering at the Empress theater for the first half of the week. Hill, Beverly girls and Hall, a "mixed" quartet, head the bill, and their act is a combination of dancing, cycling and the impersonation, in a laughable manner, of a dog. The latter is not the least attractive number in their offering. Something new to vaudeville is presented by Brady and Mahoney in "The Cruise of the Doughnut," a comedy of real merit. A patriotic skit, "A Real Soldier," presented by Angell and Fuller, and Sigbee's dogs, acrobatic canines complete the vaudeville bill. Charlie Chaplin in "A Night Out," and Peggy Hyland in "Peg of the Pirates," are the features on the photoplay program.

In the Silent Drama.

Strand—Two stellar film attractions were shown at the Strand theater Sunday and are again on the program today and Tuesday. "The Bill," which was a member of the finest characterizations of the half-breed in "The Barrier," is the story of the silent current events story Canadian northwest, a romance in the land peopled with best and the worst. The other feature is "The Girl Who Came to America," a story of a young man and woman who are finally drawn together again and ever more happily. "The Girl Who Came to America" is also on the bill in one of their latest comedies, and the Sun screen telecast of the silent current events story comes Tuesday and for three days come Douglas Fairbanks in "Manhattan Madness."

Miss Clayton Will Be at This Theater

For the first time today in the World production "The Girl Who Came to America," Miss Clayton will be at this theater for the first time today in the World production "The Girl Who Came to America," a story of a young man and woman who are finally drawn together again and ever more happily. "The Girl Who Came to America" is also on the bill in one of their latest comedies, and the Sun screen telecast of the silent current events story comes Tuesday and for three days come Douglas Fairbanks in "Manhattan Madness."

Elaborate scenery, pretty costumes, and good-looking girls fill in whatever interstices the principals leave. It really is the biggest and best show the Shuberts have sent here in a long time.

Vaudeville at the Orpheum.

Eccentricity vice with variety in the vaudeville program offered this week at the Orpheum. The three vaudeville girls—count 'em—Grace, Carrie and Lorraine, a trio of nimble, vivacious, dashing acrobats and tumblers; do some clever work. There is a snap to their every movement. Allan Shaw is among the few slight of hand performers who can really entertain. His coin tricks are accompanied by a running fire of monologue. "Look," he warns the audience, and then pours a hat full of coins from an apparently empty palm. Will Oakland, who possesses a voice that won applause by rounds, assisted by John Carmody, presents a skit entitled "Danny O'Gill, U. S. A."
