Heads Cass District Conservation Work

Mrs. Joseph B. Hummel

One of the most efficient of the district chairmen in food conservation work is Mrs. Joseph Hummel, wife of former Commissioner Hummel, who has directed the work in the Cass school district. Although business houses form a large part of this district, the 17 block chairmen appointed by Mrs. Hummel have worked in every block, making in all 236 calls. They are one of the first group of workers to reach the 100 per cent perfect mark.

Call for Nurses

The country is depending upon its professionally trained nurses to care for the sick and wounded men of our army in France. Already over 7,000 have been called into service, and in the coming months 30,000 more will be needed, who will be recruited not only from the ranks of private duty nurses, but also from among public health nurses, teachers and executive officers in training schools. A steady depletion in the ranks of our skilled nurses is therefore inevitable. Highly skilled nurses will be needed as never before, and in greatly increased numbers. In one way only can the loss of trained nurses be made good, and that is by training others to take their places. In most large hospitals there is sufficient clinical material to instruct and train more pupils than are now admitted. Providing suitable housing for pupil nurses is a difficulty in some hospitals. A leading hospital in one of our cities has been able to meet this situation temporarily through the generosity of friends of the training school, who have put two houses at its disposal, so that an additional group of pupils may be admitted. A list of the accredited training schools connected with general hospitals in this state giving a three year's course of training can be secured from Miss Margaret McCormick, secretary of the Board of Nurses' Examiners, state house, Lincoln, Neb.

"The successful lay woman," according to Miss Maude Wetmore of the home and allied relief department of the National Council of Defense, "is one who can take orders, be co-operative, regard her service to the country as the enlisted man does his oath of allegiance, exercise sound judgment and breadth of vision, and regard service as her keynote."

ARMY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Fick, who have been in New York for six months, expect to be at the Blackstone for several months.

Lieutenant Kenneth Norton, who is now in France, has been director of flights and instructor in bombardment for two months.

Lieutenant F. M. Hahn, who is under orders for overseas, is spending a five-day furlough from Fort Riley with his other, Mrs. G. Hahn.

Lieutenant Arnold Edmonston has been transferred from Atlanta, Ga., to Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex. Mrs. Edmonston accompanied him to his new post.

Lieutenant Donald Baxter, who has been at Kelly Field, but was formerly at Fort Omaha, is here for a few days. He expects to later be stationed at Camp Dick, Dallas, Tex.

Lieutenant F. M. Hahn, who has been at the officers' training camp at Fort Riley, has received orders for overseas duty. He spent the last week with his mother, Mrs. Gustave Hahn.

Three Omaha commissioned officers were included in a list of about 1,000 selected men to attend a personnel school at Camp Bowie, Tex. The Omaha men who will attend the school are Major J. M. Harries, Captain Charles Glidden and Captain H. A. Wise.

Arthur Loomis, who entered the naval reserve at Newport, R. I., in April, 1917, and was granted a leave of absence in September to complete his senior year at Cornell, will graduate May 22, taking his B. A. degree. While awaiting his call to active service in the naval reserve, he will visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Loomis. He expects to be home Friday.

Dehydrated Vegetables

"The matter of dehydrated vegetables is now up for practical action," says Stanley McCormick, head of the food production department of the woman's committee, Council for National Defense. "To save the quantities of vegetables that go to waste every year and to get them into small enough bulk so that our crowded railways can transport them—there is the problem. Dehydration is the solution. Vegetables are from 70 to 90 per cent water. Dehydration is a simple process, which removes the water and leaves the food. The vegetables are reduced to a small portion of their original bulk; are easy to pack, ship, and keep. The saving in transportation space and charges is enormous. The water is put back into the vegetables in the consumer's own kitchen by soaking. This is a thoroughly practical proposition. It will increase the food supply, and, furthermore, it will help to lower the cost of living, because the price per pound of food in dehydrated vegetables is lower than in canned vegetables. In the food crisis which we now face in common with the whole world we must exert every effort to lessen our use of certain of our staple foods. If for part of our cereal, meat and sugar foods we can have an abundant, inexpensive supply of vegetables and fruit on which to draw we shall then have sufficient foodstuffs to provide old and young with the nourishment required for health and strength, while the surplus of our staples is made available for those who need it more than we do—the allied peoples and our own boys abroad."

The university cafeteria of the University of Indiana in March used 64 pounds less of flour than the government allowance of a pound and a half a week for each person, states the Indiana Daily Student. Connecticut State college will close early to permit the girl students to go on farms. There will be a repetition of last summer's plan, which included squads of women workers moved about from one place to another.

Officer's Marriage Culmination of Ford Peace Ship Romance

Mrs. W. A. Hixenbaugh

An out-of-town wedding of interest to Omahans is that of Miss Elinor Ryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Ryan of Columbus, O., and Sergeant Walter A. Hixenbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hixenbaugh of this city. The ceremony was solemnized Saturday evening, May 11, by the pastor of Franklin Park Methodist church, Rev. Nathaniel E. Butler, in the presence of a small company of guests. During the service, which was read by candle light, the couple knelt on white satin cushions between baskets of Ophelia roses and snapdragons, tied with tulle. Before the ceremony Mrs. George Ashman sang "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "The Dream Garden." The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Kline Leslie Roberts, of Cincinnati, as matron of honor. Her small son, Dan Ryan Roberts, was ringbearer. Captain Hugh K. Martin, a fraternity brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The bride was dressed simply in a draped gown of white satin, trimmed with pearls and made with a court train. A long tulle veil fell over the face as she walked to the nuptial altar, carrying a bouquet of white roses and swansonia. The bride is a graduate of Ohio State university, class of '16, and a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority and of Phi Beta Kappa, Mortar Board and Theta Sigma Phi honorary societies. She has been secretary of the Day nursery for several months. Sergeant Hixenbaugh is a member of the class of '16 of the University of Nebraska and Delta Chi fraternity. He is now in the medical department of the army, stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas. Sergeant and Mrs. Hixenbaugh were members of the Ford peace party which went abroad in December, 1915, the bridegroom representing the Polity club of the University of Nebraska and the bride Ohio State university. The two met for the first time on board the peace ship.

Supervised Small Garden

Supervised small gardens are the safe and sane kind. This is the opinion of the Department of Agriculture, the Council of National Defense, and the United States Bureau of Education—in fact of all the federal agencies interested in war gardening. The Wisconsin division has recognized this in good season and has been instrumental in sending out a particularly valuable little booklet of advice and instructions to gardeners. It advocates careful planning before the planting. "Don't waste your efforts by gardening in competition with trees and shade; it can't be done," runs the advice. "Make every foot of land work all the time. As soon as one crop is harvested another should take its place." And again, "Remember that in a small garden there is plenty of space up and down, but it is limited sideways," therefore such vegetables as are suited to it should be trellised. Variety is urged, so that the produce will supply all the wants of one family. "Vegetables which can be stored for winter use should be considered first. Unless you have had previous experience, do not waste your time on cauliflower, peppers, egg plant, or other crops that are hard to grow or of doubtful value."

Mrs. George Coupland, whose husband is head of the Council of Defense in Lincoln, is visiting Mrs. Mary Reed.

Miss Katherine Gould, who motored with her brother, Roy Gould, to Camp Dodge for the week-end, returned home Wednesday.

I Met a Banker

at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday who said, "I hear the Pantorium is going on a cash basis, how about it?"

I replied, "There's nothing to it. Let these big strong fellows like Hayden and Carey go on a cash basis if they wish; they can live whether they do any business or not, but the Pantorium with 60 or 70 employees, most of whom are heads of families, must give these people steady work the year 'round."

We want all the business we can get, and will extend credit to any person in Omaha whose rating, as shown by the books of the Associated Retailers, entitles them to it.

All we ask is that they pay their bill by the 10th, the same as we do ours.

No sir! No strictly cash basis for us as long as our customers pay up as promptly as they have been doing for the past two or three years. Much obliged for calling the matter to my attention.
