

WOMAN'S SECTION OF THE BEE

Conducted by Ella Fleishman

For Booklovers

THE GOD OF VENGEANCE. By Sholem Ash. The Stratford Company. $1.75.
This is a play written by Sholem Ash, the foremost writer in the Yiddish language at the present time. It was first produced by the famous director Max Reinhardt, and has been played all over Germany, Austria, Russia, Poland, Holland, Norway, Sweden and Italy, having been translated into the languages of all these countries.

WHEN THE SOMME RAN RED. By Captain A. Radcliff. Dugmore, George H. Dugmore Company. $1.75.
The author, as Captain Dugmore, went through the great days of battle when the German line was smashed on the Somme and his account of these adventures—until he was gassed—form one of the most thrilling records of personal experience that have ever found their way past the censor.

WITH GOD AND THE COLORS. By Mrs. Lella Atwood Fountain. The Vir Publishing Company. 59 cents.
A mother's prayers for her soldier boy.

GERMANY AS IT IS TODAY. By Cyril Brown. George H. Dugmore Company. $1.50.
The author, one of the best known and ablest war correspondents writing today, in this book sets forth his conclusions as to what is happening inside Germany, what the facts are its censorship is hiding from the world and whether it is standing the strain. His work is a careful study of economic, social and financial conditions in Germany and is extremely valuable as a sound investigation which wastes no words in calling names, but gets down to the facts.

R. O. S. STAND TO. By Reginald Grant. Appleton Company. $1.50.
The rapid-fire tension of the title strikes the keynote of this breathless story of a young gunner's experience during three years in the front line trenches of the Somme. It is a war story which gives all the excitement and splendor of the greatest adventure in the world and conveys a full sense of the glory and the sacrifice without ever becoming monotonous or horror-struck.

TWO THOUSAND QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE WAR. George H. Dugmore Company. $1.
This catch-up of the great war gives concise, concrete information about every phase of the conflict: food, munitions, prisoners, conscription, spies, "who's who" in military and civilian life, and a host of other topics. Its form of question and answer makes it a ready reference work, giving facts in the most condensed form. In addition to the questions and answers the book includes maps, a pronouncing dictionary of war names, the flags of the nations engaged, illustrations of methods of signaling, of war medals and army and navy insignia, and a record of the events of the war up to date.

THE END OF THE WAR. By Walter E. Weyl. The Macmillan Company. $2.
This book is based upon the assumption that the allies can hold their own and can thus exert a decisive influence upon the peace and upon the diplomacy that leads to peace. It is an appeal to America to assume leadership in that diplomacy, to eliminate imperialistic elements from the demands of our allies and to attempt a settlement based on internationalism.

PERSONAL EFFICIENCY. By Robert Grimshaw. The Macmillan Company. $1.50.
How to make the most of your opportunities, how to achieve the fullest measure of development—this is the subject of Dr. Grimshaw's book. The author does not, as do so many writers on this topic, waste words in beautiful generalities. He is specific and practical, aiming to show the student the way to success in business, in society and in character development.

THE COMMUNITY CENTER. By Harry E. Jackson. The Macmillan Company. $1.
This book has been prepared to be used in connection with a campaign conducted jointly by the Council of National Defense and the bureau of education to organize local communities as a means of national defense. It is designed to serve the nation's immediate needs, and also the equally important needs of reconstruction days ahead.

"Dreamland Adventures"

By Daddy—"The Mad Giant"

CHAPTER V.
The Giant Gets a Ducking.
(Previous chapters have told how Peggy and the King of the Wild Geese plotted to kidnap the Giant of the woods, and how the geese carrying him there in his hammock in which he has been captured.)

The Giant of the Woods as he found himself borne upward by the army of wild geese and birds grew dumb with astonishment. He didn't know whether he was awake or in a horrible nightmare.

When he got over his first amazement, however, his tongue gradually became loosened.

"Well, of all the gee-whillicker manifestations of eccentric phenomena this is plumb sure the gee-whillickerest," he muttered savagely. Peggy, who was following the feathered kidnapers in her airplane, had never heard such language as this before. It sounded to her like talk for which bad boys get their mouths washed out with soap and water.

"You stop that swearing this instant!" she shouted.

The Giant was more astonished than ever to hear a voice away up there in the air. He squirmed about in the hammock trying to see her.

but she kept behind him out of sight.
"Who in thunderation are you?" he cried. "And what's the meaning of the fantastic phantasmagoria?"
"You ought to be spanked for talking like that," warned Peggy, shouting loudly to make herself heard above the noise made by the flutter of wings.

"I'll be flabbergasted, masticated, assimilated, ramified if I can comprehend this ramanpian freakish idiosyncrasy," gasped the Giant, still trying to twist about so he could see Peggy.

She didn't know what to do. Such talk must be stopped at once. It didn't seem at all proper to her, particularly away up there in the pure, clean air. She happened to look down. They were flying over a large lake. This gave her an idea. In a book she had read how long ago the people used to curb the tongues of scolding, nagging women by fastening the niggers in ducking stools and dousing them in ponds until they promised to nag no more. That's what she would do to the Giant.

"Let's give him a ducking!" she cried to the king of the wild geese.

"That'll teach him better than to use such talk!"
"Good!" honked the king. "Lower away, my hearties!"

Down swooped the flying army suddenly that Peggy saw the Giant gasp as one does when an elevator drops too fast. He looked over the edge of the hammock and saw himself plunging toward the lake. At that he let out such a howl that Peggy was struck with a pang of pity. Perhaps she wouldn't need to duck him after all.

But she was too late to stop the eager birds. They were keen to give the Giant a bath, and down he went with a great splash.

As the birds rose again, the Giant came flopping and strangling, looking all the world like a big fish caught in a net. He coughed out both water and words, the latter sounding to Peggy like "Pestiferous piscatorial percussation."

"Down again!" cried Peggy sternly, and the delighted birds soured him once more, letting him stay under so long that Peggy was beginning to grow anxious when he rose to the surface gasping, thrashing, shivering and shaking. He looked so funny that Peggy laughed.

The Giant heard the laugh and opened his mouth to say something. Before he could speak the birds ducked him again and then again. This time the Giant was so full of water when he arose that he couldn't say anything.

"Will you promise to be good?" shouted Peggy. The Giant hastily nodded as he coughed and spluttered. "And not use such words again?" she continued. Once more the Giant nodded. He was now very meek. Moreover, he was a great deal cleaner than

Saving Daylight for Gardening

The government has turned the clock ahead one hour. That gives you a good bit of time to "garden" before bed time. "Easy" meals, such as the following will save some more time.

For Lunch or Dinner.
Casserole of Meat and Potatoes
Cornmeal Biscuits
Radicchio
Canned or Fresh Fruit
Barley Hermit Cakes

For Lunch or Dinner.
Mutton Chop, Boiled Potatoes
Mutton Roast, Mint Sauce, Browned Potatoes
Swiss Chard, Tomatoes

For Lunch or Dinner.
Omelet, Hashed Brown Potatoes
Water Cress Salad
Canned or Fresh Fruit
Barley Hermit Cakes
Cornmeal Biscuits.

3 1/2 c. cornmeal, 3 T. fat,
1 t. salt, 1 c. liquid,
3 t. baking powder.
Mix the dry materials together. Work in fat well. Combine liquid and dry materials, handling lightly. Shape as biscuits. Bake in a hot oven.

Barley Hermit Cakes.
1/4 c. fat, 2 t. baking powder,
3/4 c. sugar, 1 1/2 c. chopped raisins,
1 egg, 4 c. chopped oats,
3 T. milk, 1/4 t. cinnamon,
3 c. barley flour, 1/4 t. cloves.

Combine the ingredients as for cake, add enough barley flour to make a dough stiff enough to be rolled. Roll thin, shape with a small cookie cutter and bake on a tin sheet.

Indian Pudding.
4 c. milk, 3/4 t. salt,
1/4 c. cornmeal, 3/4 t. ginger,
1 1/2 c. molasses.

Cook the milk and the meal in a double boiler for 20 minutes, add molasses, salt and ginger. Pour into a greased pudding dish and bake two hours in a slow oven. Serve with top milk.

Crippled French Soldiers Employed Making Toys

Toy making is one of the vocations encouraged in the re-education for war cripples in France.

"The Ecole Joffre is situated in the city of Lyons, and now specializes in commercial training for the one-armed and in the manufacture of toys," says Grace S. Harper, in her recent booklet, "Toy making is being studied here with serious purpose. A beginning has been made in the wholesale manufacture of toys on the factory system by which the making of separate parts is assigned to the mutilated, whose physical handicaps allow for easy operation of single processes only. A research expert is constantly experimenting on new models for manufacture. When I was there they had just perfected a papier-mache horse, such as children ride on to Banbury Cross and which, up to the present time, has reached Banbury Cross only by way of Germany."

Jascha Heifetz to Come.

Of great interest to all music lovers is the announcement that the famous violinist, Jascha Heifetz, will give a concert in Omaha during the winter under the auspices of the Tuesday Musical club. This wonderful musician, who is only 18 years of age, received an unprecedented ovation in New York during the past winter, the house being sold out for weeks ahead.

To aid in increased food production the members of the Denver Women's club have offered to plow any vacant lot in the city on condition that the owner will plant crops for chicken feed.

Women To Train Disabled Soldiers in Arts

A communication from Miss Ida Tarbell, chairman of the news department of the women's committee of the Council of National Defense, to Surgeon General Gorgas of the army medical department reveals the fact that the craftsmen of the country are ready to help with the physical reconstruction of wounded men. The committee is receiving hundreds of letters from women versed in the applied crafts who wish to assist in this work by instructing soldiers in weaving, metal and wood work. From the tenacity weavers in New Jersey a typical letter has been sent by Miss Winifred Mitchell asking if this industry can be utilized in the training of disabled men.

Eighty thousand American women are now employed in industries supplying canned goods to the War and Navy departments.

Make Economy a Pleasure
Eat plenty of Ice Cream. It's a local product—saved less perishable foods—wheat for instance, used in pastry—and it's wasteful, invigorating, nourishing. This special combination will greet you Sunday.

Slackers beware! Your fate is at hand. Loyal citizens are after you, all over the land. America needs all her men in this fight. Come, enlist, be a soldier, and do what is right. Kaiser Wilhelm is forcing his men to the field. Every man in that country to his will must yield. Remember we live in the land of the free. So be gallant and true to our boys o'er the sea.

Brave deeds are done daily, both in air and in trench. England has fought hard—so have the French. Would you be content to let others do the work? And you be looked on as the man who his duty did shirk? Right now the WASHINGTON MARKET is helping whip the Hun. Every customer we have knows our duty we have done.
