

Municipal Golf

As Indulged in at Omaha Parks

ANY SORT O' COSTUME GOES FROM THIS TO THIS

Rehearsal

Police Judge Madden tells of a thrill he experiences quite frequently, when he sentences poor unfortunate spy to be shot to death at sunrise...

Commission

"Lt. Chester T. Wardwell." Those words created a great big thrill in C. T. Wardwell, former teacher at Central High school. In fact, the whole time during which Lieutenant Wardwell strove for his shoulder pins he received plenty of thrills.

Joins Navy

Ensign Condit, in charge of navy recruiting in the Omaha district, had hundreds of thrills when he was a reporter on the Cleveland Leader...

Cop's Thrill

Police men have thrilling moments in their lives. Michael Coffey, director of traffic at Fortieth and Farnam streets, is willing to match his thrill against the thrill of any other member of the force.

The Brute!

WOMEN WITH HIGH HEELS NOT ALLOWED ON THIS COURSE BY ORDER OF FALCONER

Oh, yes! I much prefer this to the Country Club, it is so much more cosmopolitan

HOW OMAHA GOT HIM

Judge Bryce Crawford

By CHARLES F. COBRY.

Omaha, the center of the world's "bread basket," now as it has always been, offered an opportunity in 1893 where one's daily "bread and butter" was assured...

been employed by the firm of McClanahan & Halligan, the former now in North Platte and the latter in Chicago.

Field To Himself.

Judge Crawford now holds an enviable position. During his administration as county judge he has eliminated opposition.

Born In Illinois.

Judge Crawford, however, is repentant when he divulges the fact that he was not born in Omaha.

The Trouble Starts.

Paul's attention was aroused by the crying of the baby, which he took up and tried to pacify. He had the baby in his arms and then on its stomach...

And Paul asked each other, the words being spoken with such simultaneity...

"I forgot my purse and did not have a cent with me. It is difficult, you know, to learn to be interesting when one does not have money."

"I was just taking the baby out for a walk. I read in that infant welfare book you referred me to, that babies should have fresh air, so I thought that I would take Reginald out for an airing and then you happened along."

They returned to their dovecot where Paul agreed that housekeeping is indeed a profession and that a housewife is just as interesting as her husband thinks she is.

Jane donned the house dress which she had challenged Paul's admiration and he averred that Jane had never appeared more interesting.

He resumed his newspaper and she occupied the rocking chair with Reginald as contented as one could wish.

Yes, Tell Us Where.

"Where are you going?" Jane and

Colonel Grant's

Col. F. A. Grant, former commandant of the Omaha quartermaster's corps, tells of an "honest-to-goodness" thrill that caused the hearts of 10,000 United States soldiers to stop beating for a few minutes as they steeled themselves for what they believed would be one of the fiercest naval attacks during the Spanish-American war.

"It was in July, 1898; we were on the seas near Luzon, without a naval escort, and we knew that the Spaniards had 20 uncaptured gunboats in Philippine waters. One day when we sighted a long, low, square-rigged ship ahead of us, all troops were called to arms, men were stationed at their guns and 10,000 pairs of eyes were on the outlook for trouble.

"It was the United States gunboat Boston, sent out to meet us by Admiral Dewey."

Trip in a Sub

"Going down in a submarine," is the answer Dr. A. F. Browning gave when asked about the greatest thrill of his life.

"A friend of mine, a captain of an American submarine, had his 'tattlesnake' just off the shore from New Orleans, La., and he invited me to go aboard with him.

Four U. S. Officers In Omaha Forge Ahead in the Army

Within the last two weeks four officers of the Omaha quartermaster's corps have been promoted by the War department.

Col. F. A. Grant, formerly commandant of the corps, was recently transferred to Montreal, Can., to take charge of embarkation and transportation of army troops and supplies.

A SCORCHER

With deep scorn in her eyes the naughty girl swung towards the door. "You need not fear that I shall approach you with my 'superficial,'" she said.

Big Tornado

"Thrills, cold shivers, excitement and other confusion reigned supreme for several minutes when I was buried underneath the debris of a tornado-stricken house on that memorable day of March 23, 1913."

DON'T WASTE LEAVES

A busy boy can gather a lot of fertilizer from garden trash, says the National War Garden Commission. Are you in line on canning? Better write for the free canning book. Just send a two-cent stamp to the Commission at Washington.

Wins Medals

Winning gold medals provided thrills for Rabbi Frederick Cohn, while attending the schools of Providence, R. I., and Cincinnati, O. The first medal, valued at $20, was won by Dr. Cohn for excellence in oratory in a commencement competition.

"Comb Honey"

The Dialogues of Jane and Paul. Jane edged up to the evening table where Paul was figuratively buried in his newspaper. Her mind was perturbed as she wondered whether she would try a pacifist treatment...

By Edward Black

forgot to tell you that I am going to see my dentist in the morning, and I know that you will not be cross when you come home in the evening to find that I am a crosspatch.

THE WEEKLY BUMBLE BEE

OMAHA, SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 16, 1918.

THE WEEKLY BUMBLE BEE. A STINGER, EDITOR. Communications on any topic resolved, without a return of signature. Nons returned. NO ADS AT ANY PRICE.

Extra! Bumble Bee Gets Big Society Story Direct From Buckingham Palace, London

While other papers print society news of mere "Messrs." and "Mesdames," The Bumble Bee has secured society news for its columns concerning kings and queens, lords and ladies, princesses, counts and countesses, barons and baronesses. In society news as well as in other departments The Bumble Bee leads. Here is our society news:

Buckingham Palace, London, England, May 24.—The King and Queen, accompanied by the Princess Mary, and attended by the Ladies and Gentlemen of the Household in waiting, arrived at the Palace from York Cottage, Sandringham, this morning.

Alexandra and the Princess Victoria visited The Majesties this afternoon. The Right Hon. D. Lloyd George, M. P. (Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury), had an audience of The King this evening.

The Prince Albert, attended by Staff Surgeon Louis Greig, R. N., visited the Royal Naval Air Station, Cranwell, this evening.

Marborough House, London, England, May 24.—The Earl Howe (Lord Chamberlain to Queen Alexandra) represented Her Majesty at the Funeral of Mr. Alfred de Rothschild, which took place at Willesden Cemetery this morning.

Her Majesty, accompanied by the Princess Victoria, and attended by the Hon. Charlotte Knollys and Colonel Sir Arthur Davidson, visited the Meeting and Wounded Department of the British Red Cross Society at 18, Queen's Terrace, today.

Carion Alexandra, with The Princess Victoria, visited The King and Queen at Buckingham Palace this afternoon.

The Earl of Komar has left London for Ireland. The Countess of Mar and Kettle has left London for Ailesa. The Earl of Mayo has left London for London.

Lord Whitburgh has returned to London from Scotland. Sir John and the Hon. Lady Barlow have arrived in London.

The bright-faced, bone-headed waiter at a local hash eatery foiled our patriotic intentions by declining to allow us a double portion of corn bread.

PROBLEM.

Dear Mr. Editor: I am a young girl, 17 years of age. My fiancé is very fond of green onions and other vegetables which make his breath odorous. How can I break him of the habit?

You do not state your fiancé's age. Why not have the onions dyed some other color? Inexpensive vegetable dyes can be purchased at any drug store. If this does not improve the situation, have a serious talk with your fiancé. You must be firm, even to the risk of your happiness. Perhaps our readers can suggest something.

Editor of the Bumble Bee: I have been reading in the paper a notice about the German offensive and what I want to ask is, what are the Germans offering about? What I am a-thinking is that they will feel offended before all the nations if they buy all the Liberty bonds we can. Yours truly, HENRY LEFFINGWELL.

PRECIPITATION. We believe in base ball, but this year the "No Game" rule is the "score boards" when it comes to the cost of living. Pork costs $1.10 a pound, beef $2 a pound, coffee $1.50 a pound and butter $1.75 a pound on the land-fertile hills.

HCL. Holland is not at war but Dutch certainly are "in Dutch" when it comes to the cost of living. Pork costs $1.10 a pound, beef $2 a pound, coffee $1.50 a pound and butter $1.75 a pound on the land-fertile hills.

QUEER. Folks are "funny." We think we simply can't consume an egg without a dash of phosphate without a straw. Yet we would never dream of drinking a glass of water, milk or buttermilk that way.

CUTIE. With the anti-loafing law in effect, why not put war tax (taxes) on the park benches so the professional loafers can't sit down? (laughter and cries of "bean," "hear.")

SIGNIFICANT. Sign on a building at 1220 Park: "DALLMAN'S CLUB." Just below it is the business sign of "SMITH & Co."

NEAR. "We saw" three kilometers (1.529 miles) of the front," bubbles a war correspondent in the Daily News.

WINDOM. A hon. man from the line of "BIB" "Ure" "Chicken" stealing is not a manly sport.